contemporary critical methods to understand the Qur'an. Their work points to a new trend in Muslim interpretation characterised by a direct engagement with the Word of God while embracing intellectual modernity in a global context. The volume situates and evaluates their work and responses to it among Muslim and non-Muslim audiences.

Islam without Extremes: A Muslim Case for Liberty Mustafa Akyol, 2011-07-18 A delightfully original take on the prospects for liberal democracy in the broader Islamic Middle East. Matthew Kaminski Wall Street Journal As the Arab Spring threatens to give way to authoritarianism in Egypt and reports from Afghanistan detail widespread violence against U.S. troops and women, news from the Muslim world raises the question: Is Islam incompatible with freedom? In Islam without Extremes, Turkish columnist Mustafa Akyol answers this question by revealing the little understood roots of political Islam, which originally included both rationalist, flexible strains and more dogmatic, rigid ones. Though the rigid traditionalists won out, Akyol points to a flourishing of liberalism in the nineteenth-century Ottoman Empire and the unique Islamo-liberal synthesis in present-day Turkey. As he powerfully asserts, only by accepting a secular state can Islamic societies thrive. Islam without Extremes offers a desperately needed intellectual basis for the reconcilability of Islam and liberty.

Islam and International Relations Faiz Sheikh, 2016-07-11 International Relations tends to rely on concepts that developed on the European continent, obscuring the fact that its history is far less international than one might expect. But in today's global world, who does this ignore and marginalize? And what impact does that have on the discipline's potential to assess world politics? This book explores an Islamic approach to the international, showing that Islam can contribute keen insights into how we do IR and how we might change that practice to be more inclusive while also highlighting the limits of an Islamic International Relations. Exploring conceptualizations of community and difference in Islamic traditions, the book relates these notions to concepts that are considered universal in IR, such as state-based politics and the necessity for secularism. In this way, the book shows how the study of political Islam might help to interrogate and redefine key concepts within international politics. In a world of continuing polarization between Islam and the West, this book offers IR a chance to engage in a constructive dialogue with Islamic traditions in order to better understand global politics.

An Islamic Reformation? Michaelle Browers, Charles Kurzman, 2004-01-01 This book brings together scholars with expertise in modern Islamic thought and practice to evaluate the claim that we are witnessing something tantamount to an Islamic Reformation by assessing the character and impact of various reformist trends in the Middle East and North Africa. Each chapter also addresses the question of the appropriateness and usefulness of comparisons between Christian and Islamic or Western and Eastern reformations.

Providing a broad introduction to all major aspects of the interface of Islam and politics, it combines an accessible style with sufficient depth for the academic classroom. Drawing on insights from comparative politics and Islamic studies, this book explains the complex interaction between Islam, society, the state, and processes of globalization. Preserving the previous editions' strong focus on key concepts from Islamic history as they relate to contemporary political Islam, this new edition includes coverage of important developments and updated country overviews from the Middle East, Central and South Asia, Southeast Asia, Europe, and North America. Features include: Two new case studies on Southeast Asia and Europe; Exploration of the origins and development of ISIS, Al Qaeda, and various regional affiliates of the global Salafi Jihadi movement; Coverage of contemporary debates about radicalization and violent extremism; Examination of questions of Islam's compatibility with democracy, the role of women, and Islamic perspectives on violence and conflict; Discussion of major theoretical debates in the literature on political Islam, the debate on Islamic exceptionalism, and whether Islamist politics can be understood using the conventional tools of comparative political science and International Relations. These updates ensure the book remains the single best introduction to the topic of political Islam for students and scholars, foreign policy professionals, and the general reader.

Islam in World Cultures R. Michael Feener, 2004-10-26 Islam in World Cultures analyzes differences in Islamic culture and practice by looking not simply at matters of doctrine but also at how Islam interacts with local cultures. Contemporary treatments of Islam focus on the Middle East; they treat the beliefs and people of that region as representing all of Islam. At most, they emphasize the differences between Muslim groups: Sunni vs. Shia, for instance, while overlooking the even greater differences that result from region-specific cultural and political pressures. Islam in World Cultures gathers the work of ten eminent scholars, each of whom has expertise in the Muslim culture of a particular country or geographical area. Individual chapters explore contemporary developments in the Islamic experience in Turkey, Iran, Pakistan, Central Asia, China, Indonesia, South Africa, Ethiopia, and the United States. This broad treatment provides an introduction to the full range of issues relating to Islam in the context of globalization.

Journeys Toward Gender Equality in Islam Ziba Mir-Hosseini, 2022-04-07 If justice is an intrinsic value in Islam, why have women been treated as second-class citizens in Islamic legal tradition? Today, the idea of gender equality, inherent to contemporary conceptions of justice, presents a challenge to established patriarchal interpretations of Shari'a. In thought-provoking discussions with six influential Muslim intellectuals—Abdullahi An-Na'im, Amina Wadud, Asma Lamrabet, Khaled Abou El-Fadl, Mohsen Kadivar, and Sedigheh Vasmaghi—Ziba Mir-Hosseini explores how egalitarian gender laws might be constructed from within the Islamic legal framework.

Political Theory      Islam in Context Peter G. Riddell, Peter Cotterell, 2003-07-01 In recent months much attention has been paid to Islam and the greater Muslim world. Some analysis has been openly hostile while even more has been overly simplistic. Islam in Context goes behind the recent crisis to discuss the history of Islam, describe its basic structure and beliefs, explore the current division between Muslim moderates and extremists and suggest a way forward. Authors Peter G. Riddell and Peter Cotterell draw from sources such as the Qur'an, early Christian chronicles of the Crusades and contemporary Muslim and non-Muslim writings. They move beyond the stereotypes of Muhammad, both idealized and negative, and argue against the myth that relatively recent events in the Middle East are the only cause for the clash between Islam and the West. Riddell and Cotterell ask the non-Muslim world to attempt to understand Islam from the perspective of Muslims and to acknowledge past mistakes. At the same time they challenge the Muslim world by suggesting that Islam stands today at a vital crossroads and only Muslims can forge the way forward. Islam in Context will appeal to all those who are interested in an alternative to the easily packaged descriptions of the relationship between Islam and the West.

The New Cambridge History of Islam: Volume 6, Muslims and Modernity: Culture and Society since 1800 Robert W. Hefner, 2010-11-04 Unparalleled in its range of topics and geographical scope, the sixth and final volume of The New Cambridge History of Islam provides a comprehensive overview of Muslim culture and society since 1800. Robert Hefner's thought-provoking account of the political and intellectual transformation of the Muslim world introduces the volume, which proceeds with twenty-five essays by luminaries in their fields through a broad range of topics. These include developments in society and population, religious thought and Islamic law, Muslim views of modern politics and economics, education and the arts, cinema and new media. The essays, which highlight the diversity and richness of Islamic civilization, engage with regions outside the Middle East as well as within Islam's historic heartland. Narratives are clear and absorbing and will fascinate all those curious about the momentous changes that have taken place among the world's 1.4 billion Muslims in the last two centuries.

Islamic Education and Indoctrination Charlene Tan, 2012-01-26 Islamic schools, especially madrasahs, have been viewed as sites of indoctrination for Muslim students and militants. Some educators and parents in the United States have also regarded introductory courses on Islam in some public schools as indoctrinatory. But what do we mean by indoctrination? And is Islamic education indoctrinatory? This book critically discusses the concept of indoctrination in the context of Islamic education. It explains that indoctrination occurs when a person holds to a type of beliefs known as control beliefs that result in ideological totalism. Using Indonesia as an illustrative case study, the book expounds on the conditions for an indoctrinatory tradition to exist and thrive. Examples include the Islamic school co-founded by Abu Bakar Ba'asyir and the militant organisation Jemaah Islamiyah. The book further proposes ways to counter and avoid indoctrination through formal, non-formal and informal education. It argues for the creation and promotion of educative traditions that are underpinned by religious pluralism, strong rationality and strong autonomy. Examples of such educative Muslim traditions in Indonesia will be highlighted. Combining philosophical inquiry with empirical research this book is a timely contribution to the study of contemporary and often controversial issues in Islamic education
