Sin Steven J. Jensen, 2018-06-08 If the human soul is made for good then how do we choose evil On the other hand perhaps the human soul is not made for good Perhaps the magnitude of human depravity reveals that the human soul may directly choose evil Notably Thomas Aquinas rejects this explanation for the prevalence of human sin He insists that in all our desires we seek what is good How then do we choose evil Only by mistaking evil for good This solution to the difficulty however leads Aquinas into another conundrum How can we be held responsible for sins committed under a misunderstanding of the good The sinner it seems has simply made an intellectual blunder Sin has become an intellectual defect rather than a depravity of will and desire Sin A Thomistic Psychology grapples with these difficulties A solution to the problem must address a host of issues Does the ultimate good after which we all strive have unity or is it simply a collection of basic goods What is venial sin What momentous choice must a child make in his first moral act In what way do passion a habitually evil will and ignorance cause human beings to sin What is the first cause of moral evil Do human beings have free will to determine themselves to particular actions The discussion of these topics focuses upon the interplay of reason will and the emotions examining the inner workings of our moral deliberations Ultimately the book reveals how the failure to maintain balance in our deliberations subverts our fidelity to the one true good "We're Going to See the Beatles!" Essays on Actions and Events Donald Davidson,2001-09-27 Donald Davidson has prepared a new edition of his classic 1980 collection of Essays on Actions and Events including two additional essays In this seminal investigation of the nature of human action Davidson argues for an ontology which includes events along with persons and other objects Certain events are identified and explained as actions when they are viewed as caused and rationalized by reasons these same events when described in physical biological or physiological terms may be explained by appeal to natural laws The mental and the physical thus constitute irreducibly discrete ways of explaining and understanding events and their causal relations Among the topics discussed are freedom to act weakness of the will the logical form of talk about actions intentions and causality the logic of practical reasoning Hume s theory of the indirect passions and the nature and limits of decision theory The introduction cross references and appendices emphasize the relations between the essays and explain how Davidson s views have developed
