Gold Juno Sword:

Gold Juno Sword: Martin Bowman, 2013-09-19 This is the final volume of a comprehensive five part work including a multitude of personal accounts of every aspect of the aerial operations on Gold Juno and Sword beaches during D Day It relays the sense of relief experienced as Allied troops gained a foothold on the continent of Europe after D Day both by the men caught up in the proceedings and the jubilant civilians on the home front By the end of June 875 000 men had landed in Normandy 16 divisions each for the American and British armies Although the Allies were well established on the coast and possessed all the Cotentin Peninsular the Americans had still not taken St Lo nor the British and Canadians the town of Caen originally a target for D Day German resistance particularly around Caen was ferocious but the end result would be similar to the Tunisian campaign More and more well trained German troops were thrown into the battle so that when the Allies did break out of Normandy the defenders lost heavily and lacked the men to stop the Allied forces from almost reaching the borders of Germany In continuing style Bowman pays respect to the men who fought in the skies above France on D Day This episode of Aviation history has never before been the focus of such detailed analysis the five volumes of this series act as a memorial to the individuals who played their own individual parts in the wider proceedings Far from being a mere operational record this is the story of the men behind the headlines the reality behind the iconic images of parachute drops and glider formations

A History of the Second World War in 100 Maps Jeremy Black,2020-11-18 The First World War was marked by an exceptional expansion in the use and production of military cartography But World War II took things even further employing maps charts reconnaissance and the systematic recording and processing of geographical and topographical information on an unprecedented scale As Jeremy Black one of the world s leading military and cartographic historians convincingly shows in this lavish full color book it is impossible to understand the events and outcomes of the Second World War without deep reference to mapping at all levels In World War II maps themselves became the weapons A History of the Second World War in 100 Maps traces how military cartography developed from simply recording and reflecting history to having a decisive impact on events of a global scale Drawing on one hundred key maps from the unparalleled collections of the British Library and other sources many of which have never been published in book form before Jeremy Black takes us from the prewar mapping programs undertaken by both Germany and the United Kingdom in the mid 1930s through the conflict s end a decade later Black shows how the development of maps led directly to the planning of the complex and fluid maneuvers that defined the European theater in World War II for example aerial reconnaissance photography allowed for the charting of beach gradients and ocean depths in the runup to the D Day landings and the subsequent troop movements at Normandy would have been impossible without the help of situation maps and photos In the course of the conflict both in Europe and the Pacific the realities of climate terrain and logistics recorded on maps overcame the Axis powers Maps also became propaganda tools as the pages of Time outlined the directions of the campaigns and the Allies dropped maps from their aircraft In this thrilling and unique book Jeremy Black blends his singular cartographic and military expertise into a captivating overview of World War II from the air sea and sky making clear how fundamental maps were to every aspect of this unforgettable global conflict
