Golden Web A New Partnership With Nature:

The Golden Web Gwennie Armstrong Fraser, 1995 The golden web is a symbol of the divine consciousness embracing nature and humanity Each being and life form has its place within the interconnected whole This book describes the need of a new partnership with nature through messages from the Devic level of consciousness The British National

Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2009 Yearbook of International Organizations, 1998 The Changing Nature of Corporate Social Responsibility Renginee Pillay, 2015-02-20 Corporate Social Responsibility CSR has increasingly been promoted as an important mechanism for furthering economic and social development goals in developing countries In such an optimistic climate questions arise as to whether CSR can bear the weight of the increasing expectations being heaped on its shoulders This book examines the changing nature of corporate social responsibility as it has been conceived over the past eighty years It considers the historical and socio legal developments of the idea of CSR and the various conceptions of the corporation which underlie different realisations of CSR The book explores the model of CSR deployed in the developing world as well as the links between CSR and development Renginee Pillay uses Mauritius as a case study demonstrating how CSR and corporate governance issues have come to the fore of political financial and legal landscapes Drawing on empirical research the book examines how the first legislation of its kind has been implemented in Mauritius and analyses its impact on development In its work to evaluate the contribution CSR can make to development this book will be of great use and interest to students and researchers of business and company law business ethics and development studies Subject Guide to

Books in Print, 2001 Fresh Perspectives: Professional Communication for Business, 2007 Rebirding Benedict Macdonald, 2019-04-08 WINNER OF THE WAINWRIGHT PRIZE FOR WRITING ON GLOBAL CONSERVATION Winner of the Richard Jefferies Society and White Horse Book Shop Literary Prize splendid Guardian visionary New Statesman Rebirding takes the long view of Britain's wildlife decline from the early taming of our landscape and its long lost elephants and rhinos to fenland drainage the removal of cornerstone species such as wild cattle horses beavers and boar and forward in time to the intensification of our modern landscapes and the collapse of invertebrate populations It looks at key reasons why species are vanishing as our landscapes become ever more tamed and less diverse with wildlife trapped in tiny pockets of habitat It explores how Britain has uniquely relied on modifying farmland rather than restoring ecosystems in a failing attempt to halt wildlife decline The irony is that 94% of Britain is not built upon at all And with more nature loving voices than any European country we should in fact have the best not the most impoverished wildlife on our continent Especially when the rural economics of our game estates and upland farms are among the worst in Europe Britain is blessed with all the space it needs for an epic wildlife recovery The deer estates of the Scottish Highlands are twice the size of Yellowstone National Park Snowdonia is larger than the Maasai Mara The problem in Britain is not a lack of space It is that our precious space is uniquely wasted not only for wildlife but for people's jobs and rural futures too Rebirding maps out how we might finally turn things around rewilding our national parks restoring natural ecosystems and allowing our wildlife a far richer future In doing so an entirely new sector of rural jobs would be created finally bringing Britain's dying rural landscapes and failing economies back to life

Researcher-Policymaker Partnerships Jenni W. Owen, Anita M. Larson, 2017-03-31 Gone are the days when researchers policymakers and practitioners each worked in isolation In recent years a few interrelated issues have emphasized the need for greater collaboration among these groups the increased emphasis on results and accountability particularly where public funds are at stake the need to improve services and the growing use of technology This book is about these all important partnerships specifically the relationships between those searching for evidence and those putting evidence to use designing and implementing policy at the federal state or local level Yet the science or art of how to create partnerships and how to make them work has just begun This book offers the reader a toolkit for effective researcher policymaker collaborations by exploring innovations underway around the country and developing an analytic framework to describe the process It asks questions such as What can we learn from these examples How can and should partners communicate Where should partners plan together and where is it best to leave some separation to respect the differences in our roles Through carefully chosen and organized case studies this book demonstrates the motivations that lead to partnerships the core elements of successful implementation and the lessons to be learned about sustaining these relationships It further examines the use of research once the research phase has concluded as well as the ever important consideration of investing in collaboration by both non profit and public sector funders For policymakers this book offers a greater appreciation of the role of research in the policy process and new insights into different types of research For researchers the book provides insights into how best to formulate questions how to work closely with those most affected and how to communicate findings in ways that can be more easily understood by those who are depending on clear answers Students of public policy public administration social work and education will find much to inform future roles in research policy or practice

Natural Partners Roger Hamilton, 2007-01-01 The stories included in this volume were published originally in IDBAm rica and tell of new approaches the people of Latin America and the Caribbean are taking to protect the rainforest reduce erosion conserve marine life create protected areas and ensure a better future for themselves and their families These people are learning to sit down with former adversaries and work toward common goals often finding that opening up their own minds to change is the toughest part

ON Nature ,2004 Investing in Nature William Ginn, 2013-04-10 In 2004 U S consumers spent 5.2 billion purchasing bottled water while the government only invested 5 percent of that amount to purchase critical watersheds parks and wildlife refuges systems vital to clean water and healthy environments How can we reverse the direction of such powerful economic forces A group of dedicated business people turned environmental entrepreneurs is pioneering a new set of tools for land conservation deals and other market based strategies These pragmatic visionaries have already used these methods to protect millions of acres of land and to transform the practices of entire industries They are transforming the very nature of conservation by making it profitable Drawing on his vast experience in both business and land conservation at The Nature Conservancy TNC William Ginn offers a practical guide to these innovative methods and a road map to the most effective way to implement them From conservation investment banking to emerging markets for nature's goods and services to new tax incentives that encourage companies to do the right thing Ginn goes beyond the theories to present real world applications and strategies And just as importantly he looks at the lessons learned from what has not worked including his own failed efforts in Papua New Guinea and TNC's controversial compatible development approach in Virginia In an era of dwindling public resources and scarce charitable dollars these tools reveal a new and perhaps the only pathway to achieving biodiversity goals and protecting our lands Conservation professionals students of land conservation and entrepreneurs interested in green business will find Ginn's tales of high finance deals involving vast tracts of pristine land both informative and exciting More than just talk Investing in Nature will teach you how to think big about land conservation

Access To Care and Factors That Impact Access, Patients as Partners In Care and Changing Roles of Health Providers Jennie Jacobs Kronenfeld, 2011-10-08 Part of the Research in the Sociology of Health Care series this title deals with both macro level system issues and micro level issues involving access to care factors that impact access patients as partners in care and changing roles of health providers

A Greener Faith Roger S. Gottlieb, 2006-06-15 In a time of darkening environmental prospects frightening religious fundamentalism and moribund liberalism the remarkable and historically unprecedented rise of religious environmentalism is a profound source of hope In A Greener Faith Roger S Gottlieb chronicles the promises of this critically important movement illuminating its principal ideas leading personalities and ways of connecting care for the earth with justice for human beings He also shows how religious environmentalism breaks the customary boundaries of religious issues in political life Asserting that environmental degradation is sacrilegious sinful and an offense against God catapults religions directly into questions of social policy economic and moral priorities and the overall direction of secular society Gottlieb contends that a spiritual perspective applied to the Earth provides the environmental movement with a uniquely appropriate way to voice its dream of a sustainable and just world Equally important it helps develop a world making political agenda that far exceeds interest group politics applied to forests and toxic incinerators Rather religious environmentalism offers an all inclusive vision of what human beings are and how we should treat each other and the rest of life Gottlieb deftly analyzes the growing synthesis of the movement's religious social and political aspects as well as the challenges it faces in consumerism fundamentalism and globalization Highly engaging and passionately argued this book is an indispensable resource for people of faith environmentalists scholars and anyone who is concerned about our planet's future

The New Public Health and STD/HIV Prevention Sevgi O. Aral, Kevin A. Fenton, Judith A. Lipshutz, 2012-12-09 Despite effective approaches to prevention STD and HIV infection rates remain fairly constant Targeting implementation and monitoring of interventions have posed widespread problems and the recent spate of cuts to prevention budgets has made these roadblocks even more challenging. It is clear that working in sexual health requires both a deeper understanding of STI/HIV epidemiology and an ongoing quest for up-to-date realistic prevention strategies. The New Public Health and STD/HIV Prevention offers readers leading edge access to both. Focusing on social determinants of sexual health at risk populations, critical factors in approaches to prevention and reviews of new research, this authoritative volume explores areas as varied as HPV prevention, technology-based interventions, migration as a factor in disease transmission and competencies key to effective leadership in the field. Dispatches from the frontlines of theory, research and practice in the U.S. and abroad include: Personal risk, public impact, balancing individual rights and STD/HIV prevention; Distribution of prevention resources and its impact on sexual health; Prevention measures in diverse populations of women; Toward a better approach to preventive interventions with men who have sex with men; Adolescent sexual health and STIs; Reducing disparities in sexual health; Lessons from the campaign to eliminate infectious syphilis. Public health professionals of all backgrounds interested in or working in improving sexual health will find The New Public Health and STD/HIV Prevention an indispensable guide to conceptualizing the problems and clarifying possible solutions.

Smart Business Networks Peter H.M. Vervest, Eric van Heck, Ken Preiss, Louis-Francois Pau, 2005-12-14. Scientists from management and strategy, information systems, engineering and telecommunications have discussed a novel concept: Smart Business Networks. They see the future as a developing web of people and organizations bound together in a dynamic and unpredictable way, creating smart outcomes from quickly reconfiguring links between actors. The question is: What should be done to make the outcomes of such a network smart, that is just a little better than that of your competitor? More agile with less pain, with more return to all the members of the network now and over time. The technical answer is to create a business operating system that should run business processes on different organisational platforms. Business processes would become portable. The end-to-end management of processes running across many different organizations in many different forms would become possible. This book presents you the outcomes of an energizing and new direction in management science.
