Golden Years Of Broadcasting:

The Golden Years of Broadcasting Robert Campbell, 1976 Sold on Radio Jim Cox, 2008-09-18 How was it that America would fund its nascent national radio services Government control and a subscription like model were both considered Soon an advertising system emerged leading radio into its golden age from the 1920s to the early 1960s This work divided into two parts studies the commercialization of network radio during its golden age The first part covers the general history of radio advertising The second examines major radio advertisers of the period with profiles of 24 companies who maintained a strong presence on the airwaves Appendices provide information on 100 additional advertisers unusual advertisement formats and a glossary The book has notes and a bibliography and is fully indexed Points on the Dial Alexander Russo, 2010-02-10 The golden age of radio is often recalled as a time when the medium unified the nation when families gathered around the radios in homes across the country to listen to live commercially sponsored network broadcasts In Points on the Dial Alexander Russo revises our understanding of radio s past by revealing the hidden histories of production distribution and reception practices during this era which extended from the 1920s into the 1950s Russo brings to light a tiered broadcasting system with intermingling but distinct national regional and local programming forms sponsorship patterns and methods of program distribution Examining a wide range of practices including regional networking sound on disc transcription the use of station representatives spot advertising and programming aimed at homes with several radios he not only recasts our understanding of the relationship between national networks and local stations but also charts the development of new ways of listening often distractedly rather than attentively that set the stage for radio in the second half of the twentieth century Radio After the Golden Age Jim Cox, 2013-09-19 What became of radio after its Golden Age ended about 1960 Not long ago Arbitron found that almost 93 percent of Americans age 12 and older are regular radio listeners a higher percentage than those turning to television magazines newspapers or the Internet But the sounds they hear now barely resemble those of radio s heyday when it had little competition as a mass entertainment and information source Much has transpired in the past fifty plus years a proliferation of disc jockeys narrowcasting the FM band satellites automation talk ethnicity media empires Internet streaming and gadgets galore Deregulation payola HD radio pirate radio the fall of transcontinental networks the rise of local stations conglomerate ownership and radio s future landscape are examined in detail Radio has lost a bit of influence yet it continues to inspire stunning innovations
