sheds light on the reasons women of the Valois courts from the mid fourteenth to the mid sixteenth century commissioned devotional manuscripts Visually interpreting the non text elements portraits coats of arms and marginalia as well as the texts Hand explores how the manuscripts were used to express the women's religious political and or genealogical concerns This study is arranged thematically according to the method in which the owner is represented Recognizing the considerable influence these women had on the appearance of their books Hand interrogates how the manuscripts became a means of self expression beyond the realm of devotional practice She reveals how noblewomen used their private devotional manuscripts as vehicles for self definition to reflect familial political and social concerns and to preserve the devotional and cultural traditions of their families Drawing on documentation of women's book collections that has been buried within the inventories of their fathers husbands or sons Hand explores how these women contributed to the cultural and spiritual character of the courts and played an integral role in the formation and evolution of the royal libraries in Northern Europe

Landscape and Religion from Van Eyck to Rembrandt Boudewijn Bakker, 2017-07-05 Offering a corrective to the common scholarly characterization of seventeenth century Dutch landscape painting as modern realistic and secularized Boudewijn Bakker here explores the long history and purpose of landscape in Netherlandish painting In Bakker's view early Netherlandish as well as seventeenth century Dutch painting can be understood only in the context of the intellectual climate of the day Concentrating on landscape painting as the careful depiction of the visible world Bakker's analysis takes in the thought of figures seldom consulted by traditional art historians such as the fifteenth century philosopher Dionysius the Carthusian the sixteenth century religious reformer John Calvin the geographer Abraham Ortelius and the seventeenth century poet Constantijn Huygens Probing their conception of nature as the first Book of God and art as its representation

Bakker identifies a world view that has its roots in the traditional Christian perceptions of God and creation Landscape and Religion from Van Eyck to Rembrandt imposes a new layer of interpretation on the richly varied landscapes of the great masters In so doing it adds a new dimension to the insights offered by modern art historical research Further Bakker's explorations of early modern art and literature provide essential background for any student of European intellectual history

Reading in the Wilderness Jessica Brantley, 2008-09-15 Just as twenty first century technologies like blogs and wikis have transformed the once private act of reading into a public enterprise devotional reading experiences in the Middle Ages were dependent upon an oscillation between the solitary and the communal In Reading in the Wilderness Jessica Brantley uses tools from both literary criticism and art history to illuminate Additional MS 37049 an illustrated Carthusian miscellany housed in the British Library This revealing artifact Brantley argues closes the gap between group spectatorship and private study in late medieval England Drawing on the work of W J T Mitchell Michael Camille and others working at the image text crossroads Reading in the Wilderness addresses the manuscript's texts and illustrations to examine connections between reading and performance within the solitary monk's cell and also outside Brantley reimagines the medieval codex as a site where the meanings of images and words are performed both publicly and privately in the act of reading

The Crescent on the Temple Pamela Berger, 2012-06-07 The Crescent on the Temple by Pamela Berger elucidates an obscured tradition how the Dome of the Rock came to stand for the Temple of Solomon in Christian Muslim and Jewish art The crusaders called the Dome of the Rock the Temple of the Lord while Muslim imagery depicted Solomon enthroned within the domed structure Jews knew that the ancient Temple had been destroyed Nevertheless in their imagery they commonly labeled the Muslim shrine The Temple That domed Temple was often represented with a crescent on top This iconography long hidden in plain sight reflects one aspect of an historical affinity between Jews and Muslims

In the Shadow of Burgundy Gerard Nijsten, 2004-02-26 In recent years the study of medieval courts has become a flourishing field The courts of kings and popes or of the Burgundian dukes have usually attracted most attention This book offers by contrast a wide ranging study of a little known medium sized court that of Guelders in the Low Countries Guelders offers an excellent vantage point for the study of European late medieval court culture It was surrounded by the vast territories of the dukes of Burgundy and it felt the growing power of the Valois dukes yet the duchy managed to remain independent until 1473 Rich archival sources including a long and virtually unbroken series of ducal accounts reveal much about the rise of territorial or proto national awareness and about the role of the court in this process The book also conveys the striking cultural and political richness of the court poised between French and German spheres of influence

Educational Secularization within Europe and Beyond Mette Buchardt, 2024-11-04 Did religion disappear with modernization and the secularization reforms that changed the relation between religion and state throughout the European empires and nation states from late nineteenth century onwards Or was religion rather transformed becoming a part of the new social and national imaginaries on the road from European empires to African Middle Eastern European Union and Post Soviet nation states What are the historical roots behind the divisions of state church and education that characterized the late nineteenth and during the twentieth century What has been the role of education in this context both with regard to political reforms targeting the education systems and with regard to broader public enlightenment efforts and modernization of the state Connecting scholars across the fields of history and historical sociology of education church history and historical religion research and political history and covering the time span from the early modern period and up until the present this volume explores how education reform has functioned as an arena for the political project of secularization and in which way this contributed to transforming and revitalizing religion
