home of his disappointment He didn't mind Paris but he preferred the company of Americans to Parisians Furthermore he vowed to be an American heart and soul wherever he traveled but particularly in England Why was he in Europe if he found it so distasteful After all travel in the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries was expensive time consuming and frequently uncomfortable Being American in Europe 1750-1860 tracks the adventures of American travelers while exploring large questions about how these experiences affected national identity Daniel Kilbride searched the diaries letters published accounts and guidebooks written between the late colonial period and the Civil War His sources are written by people who while prominent in their own time are largely obscure today making this account fresh and unusual Exposure to the Old World generated varied and contradictory concepts of American nationality Travelers often had diverse perspectives because of their region of origin race gender and class Americans in Europe struggled with the tension between defining the United States as a distinct civilization and situating it within a wider world Kilbride describes how these travelers defined themselves while they observed the politics economy morals manners and customs of Europeans He locates an increasingly articulate and refined sense of simplicity and virtue among these visitors and a gradual disappearance of their feelings of awe and inferiority

English Modernism, National Identity and the Germans, 1890-1950 Petra Rau, 2016-05-13 This is the first systematic study to trace the way representations of Germanness in modernist British literature from 1890 to 1950 contributed to the development of English identity Petra Rau examines the shift in attitudes towards Germany and Germans from suspicious competitiveness in the late Victorian period to the aggressive hostility of the First World War and the curious inconsistencies of the 1930s and 1940s These shifts were no simple response to political change but the result of an anxious negotiation of modernity in which specific aspects of Englishness were projected onto representations of Germans and Germany in English literature and culture While this incisive argument clarifies and deepens our understanding of cultural and national politics in the first half of the twentieth century it also complicates current debates surrounding race and otherness in cultural studies Authors discussed include major figures such as Conrad Woolf Lawrence Ford Forster and Bowen as well as popular or less familiar writers such as Saki Graham Greene and Stevie Smith Accessibly written and convincingly argued Rau's study will not only be an important book for scholars but will serve as a valuable guide to undergraduates working in modernism literary history and European cultural relations

Western Tradition Sarah J. Lippert, 2018-04-17 In an era when ease of travel is greater than ever it is also easy to overlook the degree to which voyages of the body and mind have generated an outpouring of artistry and creativity throughout the ages Exploration of new lands and sensations is a fundamental human experience This volume in turn provides a stimulating and adventurous exploration of the theme of travel from an art historical perspective Topical regions are covered ranging from the Grand Tour and colonialism to the travels of Hadrian in ancient times and Georgia O'Keeffe's journey to the Andes from Vasari's Neoplatonic voyages to photographing nineteenth century Japan The scholars assembled consider both imaginary travel as well as factual or embellished documentation of voyages The essays are far reaching spatially and temporally but all relate to how art has documented the theme of travel in varying media across time and as illustrated and described by writers artists and illustrators The scope of this volume is far reaching both chronologically and conceptually thereby appropriately documenting the universality of the theme to human experience Victorian Women Travellers in Meiji Japan Lorraine Sterry, 2009-01-29 This volume complements other published works about travel by nineteenth century women writers by locating and creating space for Japan which is missing within recent critical discourses on travel writing It examines the narratives of women writers who travelled to Japan from the mid 1850s onwards when Japan was first opened to the West and became a highly desirable travel destination for decades thereafter Many women travelled in this period and although most left no record of their journeys enough did to form a discrete body of literature spanning more than fifty years from the end of the feudal Tokugawa era to the rise of Meiji Japan as a world power Their narratives about Japan occupy a culturally significant place not only in the genre of Victorian female travel writing but in Victorian travel writing per se The writers who are the subject of this book are divided into two groups those who were travellers by intent namely Anna D A Alice Frere Annie Brassey Isabella Bird and Marie Stopes and those who travelled by default as the wives of diplomats namely Mrs Pemberton Hodgson Mrs Hugh Fraser and Baroness Albert d'Aethan The Look of the Past L. J.

Jordanova, 2012-09-27 Visual and material sources are central to historical practice and this is a much needed introduction to using artefacts as evidence Alternative Modernities in French Travel Writing Gillian Jein, 2016-06-19 Ever since human beings first travelled cities have constituted important material and literary destinations While the city has formed a key theme for scholars of literary fiction travellers modes of writing the city have been somewhat neglected by travel studies However travel writing with its attention to difference provides a rich source for the study of representational strategies and tactics in the modern city Tracing spatial practices of French travel writers in London and New York from 1851 to the 1980s this book contributes to a body of work that analyses travel and travel writing beyond the Anglophone context and engages a variety of travel writing in questions surrounding French modalities for negotiating and establishing a nexus of meanings for life in the modern city One of the central tenets of the book is that in the way its spaces are planned encountered and represented the city is operational in the formulation of identities and ideologies and the book's guiding question is how travel and travel writing allow for the exploration of urban modernity from a perspective of exchange Bringing together the strands of theory context and poetic analysis this book examines travel writing as a spatial practice of the modern city engaging urban space in questions of nationality power and legibility and opening avenues for the exploration of urban modernity from a position of alterity where alternative imaginative geographies of the city might emerge Harvard Magazine ,1991
