Golf Mastering The Basics With The Personalized Sports Instruction System:

Golf Michael W. Metzler, 2001 Acclaimed author of Instructional Models for Physical Education Mike Metzler uses the Personalized Sports Instruction System in Golf Mastering the Basics to allow students and athletes to progress individually through learning modules moving toward match play The Personalized Sports Instruction System is based on Fred Keller's Personalized Systems of Instruction which has a long history of empirical support Tennis contains framework for organizing planning implementing and evaluating the fundamentals of the game Once a coach instructor parent has learned the PSI System s he can use any of the Metzler series books Golf just like the other five workbooks in the series is designed as a learning guide for tennis players more than as a reference for instructors Each player has her own workbook that leads her through the course at a pace matching her own ability making her less dependent on her coach or instructor Begins at the basics of golf with proper stretching equipment courses par keeping score and swing basics Includes detailed instructions on putting swinging chipping pitching tee shots and sand shots from around the green The workbook series runs the course not the instructor so s he can spend more time working with players who need extra attention For youth sport coaches middle to high school and parents who want to work one on one with their youngsters for all college level physical activity courses and for first time physical education instructors who need a plan
