

The background of the entire image is a detailed technical illustration of a complex mechanical system. It features numerous interlocking gears of various sizes, some with teeth and others smooth. A central vertical shaft supports several gears, and a horizontal shaft with a flywheel is visible on the right. The drawing is done in a fine-lined, etched style, typical of 19th-century technical manuals. A large, semi-transparent grey rectangular box is superimposed over the upper half of the image, containing the title and author information.
