Image And Reality In Economic Development:

Image and Reality of Roman Imperial Power in the Third Century AD Lukas de Blois, 2018-09-03 Image and Reality of Roman Imperial Power in the Third Century AD focuses on the wide range of available sources of Roman imperial power in the period AD 193-284 ranging from literary and economic texts to coins and other artefacts. This volume examines the impact of war on the foundations of the economic, political, military and ideological power of third-century Roman emperors and the lasting effects of this. This detailed study offers insight into this complex and transformative period in Roman history and will be a valuable resource to any student of Roman imperial power. Image, Reality and Media Construction Fengmin Yan, 2019-09-24 This book explores how news media construct social issues and events and thereby convey certain perceptions within the scope of framing theory. By operationalizing media framing as a process of interpretation through defining, problem diagnosing, causes making, moral judgments and suggesting solutions, the book proposes a systematic and transparent approach to images in news discourse. Based on a frame analysis, it examines how German news media framed a list of China-related issues and events and thereby conveyed particular beliefs and opinions on this country. Moreover, it investigates whether there were dominant patterns of interpretation and the extent to which diverse views were evident by comparing two major daily newspapers with opposite political orientations, the FAZ and the taz. Motivated by the relationship between image and reality, the book explores image formation and persistence from media construction of meaning and human cognitive complexity in perceiving others. Media select certain issues and events and then interpret them from particular perspectives. A variety of professional and non-professional factors behind news making may result in biased representations. In addition, from a social psychological perspective, inaccurate perceptions of foreign cultures may arise from categorical thinking, biased processing of stimulus information, intergroup conflicts of interest and in-group favoritism. Accordingly, whether media coverage deviates from reality is not the main concern of this book; instead, it emphasizes the underlying logics upon which the conclusions and judgments were drawn. It therefore contributes to a rational understanding of Western discourse and holds practical implications for both Chinese public diplomacy and a more constructive role of news media in promoting the understanding of others. Class: Image and Reality A. Marwick, 1990-08-28 An historical and cultural study of class both as a media-perceived image and as it existed in reality in Britain, the USA and France from 1930 to the end of the 1970s. The author focuses on the changes which have evolved in social attitudes and the present perception of class distinction. International Labour Documentation International Labour Office. Central Library and Documentation Branch, 1980. Herbert Marcuse Malcolm Miles, 2011-12-05 When capitalism is clearly catastrophically out of control and its excesses cannot be sustained socially or ecologically, the ideas of Herbert Marcuse become as relevant as they were in the 1960s. This is the first English introduction to Marcuse to be published for decades and deals specifically with his aesthetic theories and their relation to a critical theory of society. Although Marcuse is best known as a critic of consumer society, epitomised in the classic One Dimensional Man Malcolm Miles provides an insight into how Marcuse's aesthetic theories evolved within his broader attitudes from his anxiety at the rise of fascism in the 1930s through heady optimism of the 1960s to acceptance in the 1970s that radical art becomes an invaluable progressive force when political change has become deadlocked Marcuse's aesthetics of liberation in which art assumes a primary role in interrupting the operation of capitalism made him a key figure for the student movement in the 1960s As diverse forms of resistance rise once more a new generation of students scholars and activists will find Marcuse's radical theory essential to their struggle

The Public Image Robert Hariman, John Louis Lucaites, 2016-11-07 Even as the media environment has changed dramatically in recent years one thing at least remains true photographs are everywhere From professional news photos to smartphone selfies images have become part of the fabric of modern life And that may be the problem Even as photography bears witness it provokes anxieties about fraudulent representation even as it evokes compassion it prompts anxieties about excessive exposure Parents and pundits alike worry about the unprecedented media saturation that transforms society into an image world And yet a great news photo can still stop us in our tracks and the ever expanding photographic archive documents an era of continuous change By confronting these conflicted reactions to photography Robert Hariman and John Louis Lucaites make the case for a fundamental shift in understanding photography and public culture In place of suspicions about the medium's capacity for distraction deception and manipulation they suggest how it can provide resources for democratic communication and thoughtful reflection about contemporary social problems The key to living well in the image world is to unlock photography from viewing habits that inhibit robust civic spectatorship Through insightful interpretations of dozens of news images The Public Image reveals how the artistry of the still image can inform challenge and guide reflection regarding endemic violence environmental degradation income inequity and other chronic problems that will define the twenty first century By shifting from conventional suspicions to a renewed encounter with the image we are challenged to see more deeply on behalf of a richer life for all and to acknowledge our obligations as spectators who are crucially also citizens

The Economics of Development Everett Einar Hagen, 1986 Economic development is not a static field where accepted doctrines can be taught from year to year Recent research has thrown up a number of facts which open up avenues for new deductions based on scientifically observed facts This fourth edition is in essence a new book Part I presents the basic introductory material and discusses growth national income and poverty in general terms Part II deals comprehensively with growth and reform in agriculture and with the industrialization process Part III discusses the theory and the operation in Least Developed Countries of inputs into growth Part IV deals with distribution of income and Part V discusses international aspects of economic development ISBN 0 256 00217 3 29 95

Steeltown U.S.A Sherry Lee Linkon, John Russo, 2002 Once the symbol of a robust steel industry and blue collar economy Youngstown Ohio and its famous Jeannette Blast Furnace have become key icons in the tragic tale of American deindustrialization Sherry Lee Linkon and John Russo examine the inevitable tension between those discordant visions which continue to exert great power over Steeltown's citizens as they struggle to redefine their lives. When the Jenny was shut down in 1978 50 000 Youngstown workers lost their jobs cutting the heart out of the local economy. Even as the community organized a nationally recognized effort to save the mills the city was rocked by economic devastation runaway crime and mob scandal problems that persist twenty five years later. In the midst of these struggles the Jenny remained standing as a proud symbol of the community's glory days still a dominant force in the construction of both individual and collective identities in Youngstown. Focusing on stories and images that both reflect and perpetuate how Youngstown understands itself as a community Sherry Lee Linkon and John Russo have forged a historical and cultural study of the relationship between community memory work and conflict. Proceedings of the International Conference on Mental Images, Values, & Reality, 1986 Recording Reality, Desiring the Real Elizabeth Cowie, 2011 Addressing the paradox of documentary Augmented Images Lars C. Grabbe, Patrick Rupert-Kruse, Norbert M. Schmitz, 2022-09-07 Common boundaries between the physical reality and rising digital media technologies are fading. The age of hyper reality becomes an age of hyper aesthetics. Immersive media and image technologies like augmented reality enable a completely novel form of interaction and corporeal relation to and with the virtual image structures and the different screen technologies. Augmented Images contributes to the wide range of the hyper aesthetic image discourse to connect the concept of dynamic augmented images with the approaches in modern media theory philosophy perceptual theory aesthetics computer graphics and art theory as well as the complex range of image science. This volume monitors and discusses the relation of images and technological evolution in the context of augmented reality within the perspective of an autonomous image science. Urban Futures Utpal Sharma, R. Parthasarathy, Aparna, 2025-08-22 This book explores the built environment through aspects of spatial planning ecology infrastructure and urban identity. By presenting case studies from both developed and developing nations the chapters reveal the interconnectedness of urban spaces with socio economic and cultural dynamics in addition to ecology and the environment. Urban areas and cities are key players in boosting economic development and enhancing social welfare. Nonetheless the swift pace of urbanisation presents intricate challenges and obstacles in creating inclusive sustainable and resilient living spaces that are modern and capable of accommodating the growing needs of urban populations. This book probes various issues interventions and designs from diverse cities diving into the specifics of sector related concerns and new insights pertaining to land use planning and its implications urban design frameworks green and blue infrastructure informal settlements sustainability through resource conservation transportation modelling waste management and ultimately the image of the city. This book will be advantageous and appealing to students and researchers involved in the built environment urban planning and design heritage and vernacular identity infrastructure nature based solutions and urban studies. Jr.,2021-12-16 Planners face a controversial task because their professional role requires them to be spokespersons for the public interest In a welter of conflicting pictures and voices how might the public interest be discovered Once identified how might it be expressed so that competing publics attend to it There are no easy answers but the experience of planners today suggests ways of working and innovations of promise The focus on planning practice prompted the editors to analyze images that are now at work in our cities For Vale and Warner all city design and constructions offer material that people should include in images of their environment The built and building city are part of the experience of all city dwellers it is theirs to incorporate interpret or ignore Essays included in this text trace the interplay between physical objects of planners and architects and the social experience and outlooks of image makers and their audiences Imaging the City explores urban image making from civic boosterism of medieval cities to iconic imagery of Times Square Vale and Warner bring together urban historians geographers city planners architects and cultural commentators to analyze the creation of urban imagery from the signature skyscrapers of Kuala Lumpur to the re creation of the South Bronx and the use of city images in film literature television and on the Internet Urban dwellers urban planners architects municipal officials sociologists urban historians all will perceive their worlds with a heightened sense of awareness after reading this book Milton Keynes in British Culture

Lauren Pikó,2019-01-23 The new town of Milton Keynes was designated in 1967 with a bold flexible social vision to impose no fixed conception of how people ought to live Despite this progressive social vision and its low density flexible green urban design the town has been consistently represented in British media political rhetoric and popular culture negatively as a fundamentally sterile paternalistic concrete imposition on the landscape as a joke and even as Los Angeles in Buckinghamshire How did these meanings develop at such odds from residents and planners experiences Why have these meanings proved so resilient Milton Keynes in British Culture traces the representations of Milton Keynes in British national media political rhetoric and popular culture in detail from 1967 to 1992 demonstrating how the town s founding principles came to be understood as symbolic of the worst excesses of a postwar state planning system which was falling from favour Combining approaches from urban planning history cultural history and cultural studies political economy and heritage studies the book maps the ways in which Milton Keynes newness formed an existential challenge to ideals of English landscapes as receptacles of tradition and closed fixed national identities Far from being a marginal foreign and atypical town the book demonstrates how the changing political fortunes of state urban planned spaces were a key site of conflict around ideas of how the British state should function how its landscapes should look and who they should be for The
