as a young married couple trapped in a foreign country is reflected by Mrs Maynard's correspondence home. These letters from the Maynards' first seven years in Turkey describe visits to several of the great cities of the Middle East from Alexandria to Istanbul while portraying the rigors of organizing and operating a high school and running a household all against the backdrop of world war. Her experiences in Turkey kindled in Georgie an interest in the history of the Near East which led her to serving as a docent of the Oriental Institute for almost twenty years.

The Turkish Letters of Ogier Ghiselin de Busbecq Edward Seymour Forster, 2005-06-01 A native of western Flanders Ogier Ghiselin de Busbecq served in several posts as diplomatic representative for the Habsburg ruler Ferdinand I King of Bohemia and Hungary 1526-64 and Holy Roman Emperor 1556-64. Busbecq's most famous mission was undoubtedly to the Ottoman Empire at the zenith of its power and glory during the reign of Suleiman the Magnificent. In four letters to his friend Nicholas Michault who had been Busbecq's fellow student in Italy and afterwards was imperial ambassador to the Portuguese court he details impressions on everything he saw and experienced in Turkey including landscapes plants animals Islam ethnic groups architecture slavery military matters court practices clothing gender and domestic relations and the Sultan himself Suleiman spelled Soleiman in the translation the Magnificent is perhaps the most distinguished figure in Turkish history and his reign saw the greatest extension of Turkish power. His devotion to his own religion and his tolerance of other faiths his munificence and generosity won him the fidelity of his subjects and the respect of his enemies. Busbecq was given the assignment of using diplomacy to check the raids of the Turks into Hungary and he proved very effective with his quick sympathy appreciation of the Turkish character and untiring patience. He returned from Constantinople in the autumn of 1562 with an established reputation as a diplomatist. Busbecq's Turkish Letters is a treasure of early travel literature reflecting Busbecq's rich literary talent classical education love for collecting antiquities and remarkable power of observation. Delightfully entertaining reading it also offers invaluable lessons on understanding and bridging cultural divides.
