Letters From The Front Hb:

Beatrix Potter's Letters Beatrix Potter, Judy Taylor, 2012-04-26 Beatrix Potter was a very private person yet luckily for us she was a prolific letter writer Through her own words to friends working colleagues and children we can discover the observant energetic affectionate and humorous personality she kept hidden from her public Her life covers a period of immense social change The restricted existence of a dutiful Victorian daughter the background against which she first wrote the story of Peter Rabbit was very different from that of war time England where she continued to pioneer countryside conservation until her death Personal reminiscences, anecdotes, and letters of gen. Robert E. Lee John William Jones, 1874 The Letters of William Cullen Bryant William Cullen Bryant, Thomas G. Voss, 2019-11-05 This is the only collection ever made of Bryant's letters two thirds of which have never before been printed Their publication was foreseen by the late Allan Nevins as one of the most important and stimulating enterprises contributory to the enrichment of the nation's cultural and political life that is now within range of individual and group effort William Cullen Bryant 1794-1878 was America's earliest national poet His immediate followers Longfellow Poe and Whitman unquestionably began their distinguished careers in imitation of his verses But Bryant was even more influential in his long career as a political journalist and in his encouragement of American art from his lectures at the National Academy of Design in 1828 to his evocation of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in 1870 Between the appearance of his first major poem Thanatopsis in 1817 and his death sixty one years later at the age of eighty three Bryant knew and corresponded with an extraordinary number of eminent men and women More than 2,100 of his known letters have already been recovered for the present edition When William Cullen Bryant signed the first of 314 letters in the present volume in 1809 he was a frail and shy farm boy of fourteen who had nonetheless already won some fame as the satirist of Thomas Jefferson When he wrote the last in 1836 he had become the chief poet of his country the editor of its principal liberal newspaper and the friend and collaborator of its leading artists and writers His collected poems previously published at New York Boston and London were going into their third edition His incisive editorials in the New York Evening Post were affecting the decisions of Andrew Jackson's administration His poetic themes were beginning to find expression in the landscape paintings of Robert Weir Astor Durand and Thomas Cole The early letters gathered here in chronological order give a unique picture of Cullen Bryant's youth and young manhood his discipline in the classics preparatory to an all too brief college tenure his legal study and subsequent law practice the experiments with romantic versification which culminated in his poetic masterpieces and those with the opposite sex which led to his courtship and marriage his eager interest in the politics of the Madison and Monroe Presidencies and his subsequent activities as a local politician and polemicist in western Massachusetts his apprenticeship as magazine editor and literary critic in New York City from which his later eminence as journalist was the natural evolution the lectures on poetry and mythology which foreshadowed a long career as occasional orator the collaboration in writing The Talisman The American Landscape and

Tales of Glauber Spa and in forming the National Academy of Design and the Sketch Club which brought him intimacy with writers artists and publishers his first trip to the Aemrican West and his first long visit to Europe during which he began the practice of writing letters to his newspaper which throughout nearly half a century proved him a perceptive interpreter of the distant scene to his contemporaries Here in essence is the first volume of the autobiography of one whom Abraham Lincoln remarked after his first visit to New York City in 1860 It was worth the journey to the East merely to see such a man And John Bigelow who of Bryant s many eulogists knew him best said in 1878 of his longtime friend and business partner There was no eminent American upon whom the judgment of his countrymen would be more immediate and unanimous The broad simple outline of his character and career had become universally familiar like a mountain or a sea The Publisher ,1917

Stowe Harriet Beecher Stowe,2020-09-28 Harriet Beecher Stowe was born June 14 1811 in the characteristic New England town of Litchfield Conn Her father was the Rev Dr Lyman Beecher a distinguished Calvinistic divine her mother Roxanna

Foote his first wife The little new comer was ushered into a household of happy healthy children and found five brothers and sisters awaiting her The eldest was Catherine born September 6 1800 Following her were two sturdy boys William and

Edward then came Mary then George and at last Harriet Another little Harriet born three years before had died when only one month old and the fourth daughter was named in memory of this sister Harriet Elizabeth Beecher Just two years after

Harriet was born in the same month another brother Henry Ward was welcomed to the family circle and after him came

Charles the last of Roxanna Beecher s children The first memorable incident of Harriet s life was the death of her mother which occurred when she was four years old and which ever afterwards remained with her as the tenderest saddest and most sacred memory of her childhood Mrs Stowe s recollections of her mother are found in a letter to her brother Charles afterwards published in the Autobiography and Correspondence of Lyman Beecher She says I was between three and four years of age when our mother died and my personal recollections of her are therefore but few But the deep interest and veneration that she inspired in all who knew her were such that during all my childhood I was constantly hearing her spoken of and from one friend or another some incident or anecdote of her life was constantly being impressed upon me Mother was one of those strong restful yet widely sympathetic natures in whom all around seemed to find comfort and repose The communion between her and my father was a peculiar one It was an intimacy throughout the whole range of their being There was no human mind in whose decisions he had greater confidence Both intellectually and morally he regarded her as the better and stronger portion of himself and I remember hearing him say that after her death his first sensation was a sort of terror like that of a child suddenly shut out alone in the dark In my own childhood only two incidents of my mother twinkle like rays through the darkness One was of our all running and dancing out before her from the nursery to the sitting room one Sabbath morning and her pleasant voice saying after us Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy children
