Letters written during a tour through South Wales John Evans, 1804 The Letters of Edward I Kathleen B. Neal, 2021 Detailed examination of the letters of Edward I reveals them to be powerful and sophisticated political tools Highly commended for the Royal Studies Journal Book Prize 2022 As formulaic in appearance as they are abundant in the archives it is easy to underestimate the power of the letters generated by medieval governments but these acts of communication were more than mere containers of information Operating at the intersection of the spoken and the written the performed and the observed they produced a discourse that maximized royal authority and promoted solidarity between sender and recipient This book

situates letters within medieval theories of composition and habits of reception to argue that even mundane letters of governance were rhetorical texts It focuses on the example of Edward I of England whose rhetorical prowess was noted often critically by contemporaries It shows how the king s correspondence varied in tone vocabulary and structure across his reign and between recipients revealing an unexpected dynamism of political discourse Moving between historical context and close readings of individual letters this volume identifies letter writing as an art through which the king and his government attempted to negotiate and mould relationships with political communities and diplomatic interlocutors alike
