Beethoven's Letters 1790-1826 (Dodo Press) Ludwig Van Beethoven, 2007-06 A collection of the letters of Ludwig van Beethoven who is generally regarded as one of the greatest composers in the history of music and was a crucial figure in the transitional period between the Classical and Romantic eras in Western classical music His music and his reputation inspired and in many cases intimidated ensuing generations of composers musicians and audiences While primarily known today as a composer Beethoven was also a celebrated pianist Born in Bonn Germany he moved to Vienna Austria in his early twenties and settled there studying with Joseph Haydn and quickly gaining a reputation as a virtuoso pianist Despite gradual hearing loss beginning in his twenties Beethoven continued to produce notable masterpieces throughout his life even when he was almost totally deaf Beethoven was also one of the first composers to work freelance arranging subscription concerts selling his compositions to publishers and gaining financial support from a number of wealthy patrons rather than seek out permanent employment by the church or by an aristocratic court Beethoven's Letters 1790-1826 Ludwig Van Beethoven, 2016-08-17 Ludwig van Beethoven 1770 1827 the protagonist of freedom for music disentangled music from the control of the ruling class In publishing his music and writing for the rising classes Beethoven claimed freedom and expressed the emotions of the new rulers the artists The Eroica Fidelio and the piano works express the emotions of the new rulers the intense love the need for companionship of people the forces that conspired to defeat the artist and the strength and superiority of the artist in overcoming the weaknesses The letters of Beethoven are the principal nonmusical expression of his personality in its relationship with the world of his time In what he called the dry letters of the alphabet Beethoven depicted his fears his loves and his friendly relations his fears of deafness and of corrupted texts by pirating printers his loves Bettina Brentano and Giulietta Guicciardi and his friendly relations with Baron Zmeskall Frau Nannette Streicher and the music publishers Steiner and Company He praises the poetry of Goethe and Schiller but condemns Goethe for his obeisance toward royalty He solicits help during his perpetual trouble with his health and with his servants He castigates publishers sets prices for his works and calculates letters of dedication He expresses his love for his nephew Carl but documents the trouble that Carl was causing him by taking up his precious time And although Beethoven liked to decorate the letters with musical openings and closings and an occasional song to the receiver he increasingly signed his letters In haste

Beethoven, Lady Wallace, 2014-03 Beethoven's Letters From the Collection of Dr Ludwig Nohl Translated By Lady Wallace COMPLETE TWO VOLUMES In accompanying the present edition of the Letters of Ludwig van Beethoven with a few introductory remarks I at once acknowledge that the compilation of these letters has cost me no slight sacrifices I must also however mention that an unexpected Christmas donation generously bestowed on me with a view to further my efforts to promote the science of music enabled me to undertake one of the journeys necessary for my purpose and also to complete the revision of the Letters and of the press in the milder air and repose of a country residence long since recommended to me for the restoration of my health undermined by overwork That in spite of every effort I have not succeeded in seeing the original of each letter or even discovering the place where it exists may well be excused taking into consideration the slender capabilities of an individual and the astonishing manner in which Beethoven's Letters are dispersed all over the world At the same time I must state that not only have the hitherto inaccessible treasures of Anton Schindler's Beethoven's Nachlass been placed at my disposal but also other letters from private sources owing to various happy chances and the kindness and complaisance of collectors of autographs I know better however than most people being in a position to do so that in the present work there can be no pretension to any thing approaching to a complete collection of Beethoven's Letters The master so fond of writing though he often rather amusingly accuses himself of being a lazy correspondent may very probably have sent forth at least double the amount of the letters here given and there is no doubt whatever that a much larger number are still extant in the originals The only thing that can be done at this moment however is to make the attempt to bring to light at all events the letters that could be discovered in Germany The mass of those which I gradually accumulated and now offer to the public with the exception of some insignificant notes appeared to me sufficiently numerous and important to interest the world and also to form a substantial nucleus for any letters that may hereafter be discovered On the other hand as many of Beethoven s Letters slumber in foreign lands especially in the unapproachable cabinets of curiosities belonging to various close fisted English collectors an entire edition of the correspondence could only be effected by a most disproportionate outlay of time and expense
