Cohesion and Dissent in America Carol Colatrella,Joseph Alkana,1994-01-01 This book addresses one of the most important theories to arise in recent American literary scholarship Developed over the past two decades Sacvan Bercovitch s ideas about the relationship of American cultural institutions to voices of dissent have repeatedly posed challenges to pervasive assumptions about American culture and the methods used by cultural critics and literary historians The contributors to this book respond to different aspects of Bercovitch s ideas by exploring a wide range of scholarly disciplines including American Chicano Amerindian African American Asian American feminist comparatist philosophical legal and critical studies In addition to essays that focus on the theoretical backgrounds and implications of Bercovitch s concepts this book interrogates the uses of those concepts in the study of American literatures Works by a variety of American writers are analyzed the Colonial poet Phillis Wheatly nineteenth century writers Hawthorne and Melville modernists Pound and Eliot contemporary authors John Barth Norman Mailer Arturo Islas and John Yau and philosophers William James and Stanley Cavell This book offers new directions to students of American culture while it participates in the ongoing reassessment of American cultural and literary scholarship

Women, Modernism and British Poetry, 1910-1939 Jane Dowson,2017-03-02 Primarily a literary history Women Modernism and British Poetry 1910 1939 provides a timely discussion of individual women poets who have become or are becoming well known as their works are reprinted but about whom little has yet been written This volume recognizes the contributions overlooked previously of such British poets as Anna Wickham Nancy Cunard Edith Sitwell Mina Loy Charlotte Mew May Sinclair Vita Sackville West and Sylvia Townsend Warner and the impact of such American poets as H D Amy Lowell Edna St Vincent Millay Marianne Moore and Laura Riding on literary practice in Britain This book primarily maps the poetry scene in Britain but identifies the significance of the network of writers between London New York and Paris It assesses women s participation in the diversity of modernist developments which include avant garde experiments quiet but subtly challenging formalism and assertive new woman voices It not only chronicles women s poetry but also their publications and involvement in running presses bookshops and writing criticism Although historically situated it is written from the perspective of contemporary debates concerning the interface of gender and modernism The author argues that a cohering aesthetic of the poetry is a denial of femininity through various evasions of gendered identity such as masking male and female impersonations and the rupturing of realist modes

Form and Modernity in Women's Poetry, 1895-1922 Sarah Parker, 2024-02-29 While W B Yeats s influential account of the Tragic Generation claims that most fin de si cle poets died or at least stopped writing shortly after 1900 this book explodes this narrative by attending to the twentieth century poetry produced by women poets Alice Meynell Michael Field Katharine Bradley and Edith Cooper Dollie Radford and Katharine Tynan While primarily associated with the late nineteenth century these poets were active in the twentieth century but their later writing is overlooked in modernist dominated studies partly due to this poetry s adherence to traditional form This book reveals that these poets far from being irrelevant to modernity used these established forms to address contemporary concerns including suffrage sexuality motherhood and the First World War The chapters focus on Meynell s manipulations of metre to contemplate temporality and literary tradition Michael Field s use of blank verse to portray the conflicted modern woman Radford s adaptation of the aesthetic song like lyric to tackle the experience of the city urban crime and suffrage and Tynan s employment of the ballad to soothe bereaved mothers during the First World War This book ultimately shows that traditional forms played a vital role in shaping mature women poets responses to modernity illuminating debates about form tradition and gender in twentieth century poetry

Approaches to Teaching Pound's Poetry and Prose Demetres P. Tryphonopoulos, Ira B. Nadel, 2021-04-05 Known for his maxim "Make it new," Ezra Pound played a principal role in shaping the modernist movement as a poet, translator, and literary critic. His works, with their complex structures and layered allusions, remain widely taught. Yet his known fascism, anti-Semitism, and misogyny raise issues about dangerous ideologies that influenced his work and that must be addressed in the classroom. The first section, Materials, catalogs the print and digital editions of Pound's works, evaluates numerous secondary sources, and provides a history of Pound's critical contexts. The essays in the second section, Approaches, offer strategies for guiding students toward a clearer understanding of Pound's difficult works and the context in which they were written.

Amy Lowell, Diva Poet Melissa Bradshaw, 2011 Bradshaw uses theories of the diva and female celebrity to account for Lowell's extraordinary literary influence in the early twentieth century and the dismissal of her work after her death. Drawing on a rich array of letters, memoirs, newspapers, and periodicals, but eschewing the biographical interpretations of her poetry that have often characterized criticism, Bradshaw restores Lowell to her rightful place as a powerful writer and impresario of modernist verse.

If Babel Had a Form Tze-Yin Teo, 2022-04-05 The likeness of form between Chinese and English sentences, writes the American Sinologist Ernest Fenollosa around 1906, renders translation from one to the other exceptionally easy. If Babel Had a Form asks not if his claim may be true, but what its phantasmic surprise may yet do. In twentieth-century intersections of China and Asia with the United States, translations did more than communicate meaning across politicized and racializing differences of language and nation. Transpacific translation breached the regulative protocols that created those very differences of human value and cultural meaning. The result, Tze-Yin Teo argues, saw translators cleaving to the sounds and shapes of poetry to imagine a translingual likeness of form but not of meaning or kind. At stake in this form without meaning is a startling new task of equivalence. As a concept, equivalence has been rejected for its colonizing epistemology of value, naming a broken promise of translation and false premise of comparison. Yet the writers studied in this book veered from those ways of knowing to theorize a poetic equivalence, negating the colonial foundations of the concept, they ignited aporias of meaning into flashpoints for a radical literary translation The book's transpacific readings glean those forms of equivalence from the writing of Fenollosa the vernacular experiments of Boxer Scholar Hu Shi the trilingual musings of Shanghai born Los Angeles novelist Eileen Chang the minor work of the Bay Area Korean American transmedial artist Theresa Cha and a post Tiananmen elegy by the exiled dissident Yang Lian The conclusion returns to the deconstructive genealogy of recent debates on translation and untranslatability displacing the axiom of radical alterity for a no less radical equivalence that remains pace Fenollosa far from easy or exceptional Ultimately If Babel Had a Form illuminates the demanding force of even the slightest sameness entangled in the translator's work of remaking our differences

Poetry, Modernism, and an Imperfect World Sean

Pryor, 2017-03-06 This book shows how modernist poetry understood itself to be complicit in the social injustice and unhappiness of its time It will appeal to general readers with an interest in poetry to scholars and students interested in the theory of poetry and the history of the concept of poetry and to scholars and students working in modernist studies and on twentieth century literature
