Liberalization And Politics The 1990 Elections In Tanzania:

Elections in Africa Dieter Nohlen, Bernard Thibaut, Michael Krennerich, 1999-07-22 Elections have always been an integral part of post independence African politics and have assumed utmost importance in the course of recent democratisation processes However comparative research on the political development in Africa lacks reliable electoral data Elections in Africa fills this gap The handbook is the only reliable source for African elections from independence to present In the first volume of this series Elections in Africa presents a country by country study of African nations that provides a comparative introduction on elections and electoral systems Each country chapter examines the history of the institutional and electoral arrangements the evolution of suffrage and current electoral provisions Precise and exhaustive data on national elections and referendums are presented comparatively The book provides a definitive and comprehensive set of data on elections and electoral systems in order to facilitate comparative research Data is presented in a systematic manner allowing for both historical and cross national comparisons

The 1995 General Elections in Tanzania Tanzania Election Monitoring Committee, 1997 The October 1995 Presidential and Parliamentary elections in Tanzania marked an important milestone in the country's transition to multi party democracy It brought to an end the intense debates during the preparation for the elections The Tanzania Election Monitoring Committee was the main national monitoring group that followed the entire process nationally This is their report offering a rich descriptive analysis of the important stages in the electoral process These include legislation formation of political parties registration of voters nomination of candidates campaigns the administration of the elections voting vote counting and declaration of results The report includes an evaluation of the freeness and fairness of the elections and a selected list of important documents

The Making of a Periphery Pekka Seppälä, Bertha Koda, 1998 What makes a periphery The south eastern corner of Tanzania is officially one of the poorest corners of the world and is always presented as a peripheral area This volume presents a lively discussion on the making of a periphery The contributors show the interaction between the perceptions of outsiders the views of local people and the actual development efforts The authors perceive development as a negotiated and contested field Culture is not considered a factor constraining development but is seen rather as an engine which due to the plurality of local and outsider cultures sets the parameters for the battle

Diversification and Accumulation in Rural Tanzania Pekka Seppälä, 1998

Recent studies on rural Africa increasingly reveal a pattern of development which is more complex than that proposed in earlier unilinear theories. The researchers have recently located intricate systems of patronage, local networks of cooperation, indigenous social safety nets, but also alarming rates of differentiation. This study extends the analysis of local complexity to the labour sphere, showing how rural producers tend to diversify into multiple sources of income, resulting in innovative straddling between them. The diversification, which is a necessity for the poorest households, provides the means for risk aversion and accumulation for the wealthier ones. Diversification and Accumulation in Rural Tanzania is a thought provoking and theoretically challenging work showing how cultural issues penetrate economic practices and modify the outcome of any economic interventions.

Wealth, Power, and Authoritarian Institutions Michaela Collord, 2024-07-16

Through an analysis of the recent political history of Tanzania and Uganda, Wealth, Power, and Authoritarian Institutions offers a novel explanation of why authoritarian parties and legislatures vary in strength and why this variation matters. Michaela Collord elaborates a view of authoritarian political institutions as both reflecting and magnifying elite power dynamics. While there are many sources of elite power, the book centres on material power. It outlines how diverse trajectories of state-led capitalist development engender differing patterns of wealth accumulation and elite contestation across regimes. These differences in turn influence institutional landscapes. Where accumulation is more closely controlled by state and party leaders, as was true in Tanzania until economic liberalization in the 1980s, rival factions remain subdued. Ruling parties can then consolidate relatively strong institutional structures and parliament remains marginal. Conversely, where a class of private wealth accumulators expands, as occurred in Tanzania after the 1980s and in Uganda after the National Resistance Movement took power in 1986, rival factions can more easily form, simultaneously eroding party institutions and encouraging greater legislative strength. Collord uses this analysis to reassess the significance of a stronger legislature. She considers its influence on distributive politics, both regressive and progressive. She also considers its relation to democratization, particularly in a context of broader liberalizing reforms. The book ultimately encourages a closer examination of how democratic institutions interact with an underlying power distribution, shaping in whose interests they operate.

Oxford Studies in African Politics and International Relations is a series for scholars and students working on African politics and International Relations and related disciplines. Volumes concentrate on contemporary developments in African political science, political economy and International Relations, such as electoral politics, democratization, decentralization, gender and political representation, the political impact of natural resources, the dynamics and consequences of conflict, comparative political thought and the nature of the continent's engagement with the East and West. Comparative and mixed methods work is particularly encouraged. Case studies are welcomed but should demonstrate the broader theoretical and empirical implications of the study and its wider relevance to contemporary debates.

The focus of the series is on sub Saharan Africa although proposals that explain how the region engages with North Africa and other parts of the world are of interest General Editors Nic Cheeseman Peace Medie and Ricardo Soares de Oliveira

Multi-party Elections in Africa Michael Cowen, Liisa Laakso, 2002 This volume contains electoral studies of multiparty politics in 14 African countries during the 1990s Most are about national elections in Anglophone Africa There are also less well known examples from Sudan Ethiopia and Guinea Bissau The collection also features studies of the local elections in Namibia and of a significant by election in Malawi The multiparty period had been put wherever possible within the historical context of earlier elections in Africa Questions addressed include how did incumbent governing regimes learn to live with multiparty politics Why have some elections been so closely fought and others have suffered from apathy Why has there been relatively open political expression and activity when the elections have increased the political and economic manipulation by incumbent governments Why have the elections of the 1990s been so marked by local and ethnic variations To what extent did this wave of democracy result from pressure from donor countries

The State and Democracy in Africa African Association of Political Science, 1998 A study of the issues of democracy and democratisation in Africa with emphasis on the roles of civil society and the state in the democratic transition Includes case studies on women s struggle for equality in Botswana state civil society in Uganda and the role played by the state in blocking undermining or promoting the democratic transition in South Africa Nigeria and Ghana

The Poorer Nations: A Possible History of the Global South Vijay Prashad, 2013-03-12 A truly global history that examines the prospects of a worldwide power shift from North to South In The Darker Nations Vijay Prashad provided an intellectual history of the Third World and traced the rise and fall of the Non Aligned Movement With The Poorer Nations Prashad takes up the story where he left off Since the 70s the countries of the Global South have struggled to build political movements Prashad analyzes the failures of neoliberalism as well as the rise of the BRICS countries the World Social Forum issuebased movements like Via Campesina the Latin American revolutionary revival in short efforts to create alternatives to the neoliberal project advanced militarily by the US and its allies and economically by the IMF the World Bank the WTO and other instruments of the powerful Just as The Darker Nations asserted that the Third World was a project not a place The Poorer Nations sees the Global South as a term that properly refers not to geographical space but to a concatenation of protests against neoliberalism In his foreword to the book former Secretary General of the United Nations Boutros Boutros Ghali writes that Prashad has helped open the vista on complex events that preceded today s global situation and standoff The Poorer Nations looks to the future while revising our sense of the past

Legacies of Power Roger Southall, Henning Melber, Nordiska Afrikainstitutet, 2006 With new case studies examining the post presidential years of the iconic Nelson Mandela in South Africa Daniel arap Moi in Kenya Julius Nyerere in Tanzania Jerry Rawlings in Ghana Charles Taylor in Liberia as well as the experiences of Botswana Zambia Namibia Zimbabwe Uganda Malawi and Nigeria this volume examines the dilemmas which demands for presidential transitions impose upon incumbent rulers and analyzes the evolving relationships between new regimes and their predecessors Forced Migration in Eastern Africa C. Veney, 2006-12-11 This study enriches understanding of East Africa's refugee situation by examining the conditions that gave rise to it and how the refugees themselves sought to reconstruct their lives Focusing on the 1990s Veney compares Kenya and Tanzania two nations that did not generate many refugees but become important hosts for the general region

From Promise to Practice Chandra Lekha Sriram, Karin Wermester, 2003 How can the United Nations regional and subregional organizations government donors and other policymakers best apply the tools of conflict prevention to the wide range of intrastate conflict situations actually found in the field The detailed case studies and analytical chapters in From Promise to Practice offer operational lessons for fashioning strategy and tactics to meet the challenges of specific conflicts both potential and actual

The Roots of Ethnic Conflict in Africa Wanjala S. Die gesellschaftliche Verankerung politischer Parteien Joachim Betz, Gero Erdmann, Patrick Köllner, 2013-03-12 Parteien in Entwicklungs- und Transformationsländern zeichnen sich ähnlich wie im Westen durch abnehmende gesellschaftlich Verankerung abnehmende programmatische Orientierung und Parteiidentifikation der Wähler sowie Mitgliederzahl aus In Entwicklungs- und Transformationsländern sind sie auch schwächer formal organisiert wobei dieses Defizit teilweise durch andere Formen der gesellschaftlichen Verankerung von Parteien kompensiert wird Hierunter fallen Phänomene wie der Klientelismus der Faktionalismus und Patronage sowie der Appell an ethnische religiöse Identitäten die im Prozess der Modernisierung keineswegs zurückgetreten sind Sie sind nicht pauschal als demokratieschädigend anzusehen gefördernd aber die demokratische Konsolidierung dann wenn sie ihren verfassungsmäßigen Rahmen unterhalten

Social Memory, Silenced Voices, and Political Struggle Bissell, William Cunningham, Fouere, Marie-Aude, 2018-05-28 This volume focuses on the cultural memory and mediation of the 1964 Zanzibar revolution analyzing its continuing reverberations in everyday life The revolution constructed new conceptions of community and identity race and cultural belonging as well as instituting different ideals of nationhood citizenship sovereignty As the commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the revolution revealed the official versions of events have shifted significantly over time and the legacy of the uprising is still deeply contested In these debates the question of

Zanzibari identity remains very much at stake Who exactly belongs in the islands and what historical processes brought them there What are the boundaries of the nation and who can claim to be an essential part of this imagined and embodied community Political belonging and power are closely intertwined with these issues of identity and history raising intense debates and divisions over precisely where Zanzibar should be situated within the national order of things in a postcolonial and interconnected world Attending to narratives that have been overlooked ignored or relegated to the margins the authors of these essays do not seek to simply define the revolution or to establish its ultimate meaning Instead they seek to explore the continuing echoes and traces of the revolution fifty years on reflected in memories media and monuments Inspired by interdisciplinary perspectives from anthropology history cultural studies and geography these essays foreground critical debates about the revolution often conducted sotto voce and located well off the official stage attending to long silenced questions submerged doubts rumors and secrets or things that cannot be said
