From an Inland Sea David Harsent, 1985-01-01      Our Inland Sea Alfred Lambourne, 1909      Integrated Coastal Management in the Japanese Satoumi Tetsuo Yanagi, 2019-08-11

Integrated Coastal Management in the Japanese Satoumi Restoring Estuaries and Bays provides an in depth exploration of the integrated coastal management ICM used in the Japanese Satoumi. The lessons of Satoumi coastal areas where biological productivity and biodiversity have increased through human interaction are important for the rest of the world given the political consensus reached in Japan to truly restore estuaries and bays. The book will discuss and explain how this method could be modified to apply to other cultures in the world. Integrated Coastal Management in the Japanese Satoumi Restoring Estuaries and Bays presents chapters from experts in the relevant fields and includes chapters about each study field of the Satoumi making it a valuable resource for researchers, field practitioners and policymakers in coastal area management and development. This includes the Shizukawa Bay as an open coastal sea, the Seto Inland Sea as semi enclosed coastal sea and the Japan Sea. The book moves on to explore the economic evaluation of ecosystem services, a four step management system and the negotiation between marine protected areas and fisheries and concludes with a full section covering a comparison of ICM with Europe and the United States and how Japan's policies could be integrated. It introduces a four step system of local, regional, national and international management for successfully Integrated Coastal Management that can be deployed globally. Presents a new concept for ICM which worked on the Satoumi. Includes both Ecosystems Based Management (EBM) and Community Based Management (CBM). Proposes a common platform for ICM clarifying the scientific topics involved and their significance regarding the environment.

Small Cetaceans of Japan Toshio Kasuya, 2017-05-08. This book summarizes and analyzes the biology, ecology, exploitation and management of small cetaceans in Japan. It describes the various types of cetacean fisheries in Japan and their historical development, the life histories and ecologies of the main species involved and the history and problems of conservation and management. The data show that in some cases the number of small cetaceans harvested exceed sustainable limits and have led to depletion of populations. The book provides a case study of what can go wrong when the needs of industry and conservation collide. The descriptions of life history and ecology are relevant to issues of conservation and management not just for cetaceans but for all fisheries around the world.

Ethnographic Study of Marine Conservation Izumi Tsurita, 2022-05-03. This book explores the nature of marine conservation based on the case study of Hinase, a fishing village in Okayama, Japan. It focuses on the fishers' self motivated eelgrass restoration activity which has been continued for more than 30 years. This activity in Hinase recently attracted international attention as a case under the name Satoumi and Marine Protected Areas in several governmental reports but detailed information such as the historical background and social structure of Hinase has not yet been analyzed. This book therefore fulfills this gap by providing its ethnographic information. In addition, this book offers some points for critical thinking by concluding that marine conservation activities cannot always be evaluated or arranged under the standardized approach with limited time and space This viewpoint reaffirms the importance of local initiative and highlights the value of qualitative research to seek the way forward for promising marine conservation This book is suitable for an academic audience in the field of social sciences such as applied anthropology as well as ecologists government officials environmentalists and citizens who are interested or engaged in environmental issues or natural resource management
