Race, Science and Medicine, 1700-1960 Waltraud Ernst, Bernard Harris, 2002-01-04 Considering cases from Europe to India this collection brings together current critical research into the role played by racial issues in the production of medical knowledge Confronting such controversial themes as colonialism and medicine the origins of racial thinking and health and migration the distinguished contributors examine the role played by medicine in the construction of racial categories

Violet Keith Mrs. Ross, 1999 An Autobiography by Arthur Keith Arthur Keith, 2013-08

Anatomists of Empire Ross L Jones, 2020-04-17 The 20th century anatomists Grafton Elliot Smith Frederic Wood Jones and Arthur Keith travelled the globe collecting cataloguing and constructing morphologies of the biological world with the aim of weaving these into a new vision of bio ecology that links humans to their deep past as well as their evolutionary niche They dissected human bodies and scrutinised the living explaining for the first time the intricacies of human biology They placed the body in its environment and gave it a history thus creating an ecological synthesis in striking contrast to the model of humanity that they inherited as students Their version of human development and history profoundly influenced public opinion as they wrote prolifically for the press they published bestsellers on human origins and evolution they spoke eloquently at public meetings and on the radio They wanted their anatomical insight to shape public policy And by changing popular views of race and environment they moulded attitudes as to what it meant to be human in a post Darwinian world thus providing a potent critique of racism

Sir Arthur Keith , 1951-01-01 Science for All Peter J. Bowler, 2009-10-15 Recent scholarship has revealed that pioneering Victorian scientists endeavored through voluminous writing to raise public interest in science and its implications But it has generally been assumed that once science became a profession around the turn of the century this new generation of scientists turned its collective back on public outreach Science for All debunks this apocryphal notion Peter J Bowler surveys the books serial works magazines and newspapers published between 1900 and the outbreak of World War II to show that practicing scientists were very active in writing about their work for a general readership Science for All argues that the social environment of early twentieth century Britain created a substantial market for science books and magazines aimed at those who had benefited from better secondary education but could not access higher learning Scientists found it easy and profitable to write for this audience Bowler reveals and because their work was seen as educational they faced no hostility from their peers But when admission to colleges and universities became more accessible in the 1960s this market diminished and professional scientists began to lose interest in writing at the nonspecialist level Eagerly anticipated by scholars of scientific engagement throughout the ages Science for All sheds light on our own era and the continuing tension between science and public understanding The First Eighty Years Keith Leyton Hansen,2007 The Legend of the Holy Stone Mrs. Ross,1878 Sex and Broadcasting Lorenzo W. Milam,2017-06-21 Eccentric and humorous cult classic both a practical guide to starting a listener supported community radio station and a passionate defense of noncommercial broadcasting A goldmine The Times London Literary Supplement My Life and Times Keith Maxwell Gray,2013
