Personal States Catherine Alexander, 2002 Catherine Alexander charts how Turkish people both within and outside the state bureaucracy attempt to personalise the impersonality of the state Based on a detailed study of the nationalized Turkish Sugar Corporation she considers how people from the highest levels of the state bureaucracy to farming villages understand the state and how in turn they imagine themselves to be perceived The narratives and metaphors used in these constructions draw on resources close to hand such as the material organization of state factory compounds state personnel encountered in the course of everyday life and the image of the family structure By also exploring notions of state and personhood within the highest echelons of the administration itself Alexander shows how ideas of the state recede once one is actually within For officials the state becomes other institutions and Ministries with which they have little contact The continual process of striving to make connections with other groups and people occurs both at all hierarchical levels of the Sugar Corporation and between farmers and factory engineers This elegant nuanced ethnography of modernity will cause scholars of state institutions across a broad range of disciplines radically to rethink what the state actually is and the relations that create it thus taking understandings of the state to an entirely new level      Oral Traditions of Southeast Asia and Oceania Herman C. Kemp, 2004      History, Memory, and Identity in Post-Soviet Estonia Sigrid Rausing, 2004 Sigrid Rausing describes the changing world of the Estonian Swedes and the way in which this minority identity was constructed in the various ideologies that have dominated the region since the early twentieth century In particular she is concerned with the latest of these changes the post Soviet attempt to restore Swedish cultural identity Rausing touches on a wide range of issues debates and insights the relationship between ideology and form nationalist and Soviet notions of ethnicity and traditional culture and historically framed notions of an imagined normality The ethnographic location for these discussions is a particular former collective farm now subject to economic decline the Estonian nation building ideological project and new relationships of dependency with Sweden One of the author s central arguments is that these changes reflect a conscious attempt to reform habitus so as to match that of the local image of the West but that the location of ethnic culture and many of the operative concepts still reflect the tropes of the Soviet era      Moussons ,2003      Anthropologica ,2001      Bijdragen tot de taal-, land- en volkenkunde van Nederlandsch-Indië ,2001      Literatur overzicht issued with v 95      AMERICAN ANTHOLOGIST ,2002
