Keep Looking Up:

Keep Looking Ace Remas, 2018-03-05 Hector Feck found gold for the first time at age sixty six It was a transforming experience As he pinched the single gold nugget from the black sand collected on the ridges of his pan he was astounded he felt no satisfaction in this discovery even after twenty years of occasional gold panning dredging and metal detector searches Instead he was disappointed Not because the nugget was too small It was not When washed and cleaned the nugget would fetch at least 1 500 money he sorely needed He realized as he inspected the nugget carefully all he had accomplished was to increase his desire for more gold which meant more searching for it and even when he found more he would not be satisfied He realized he would never be satisfied Nothing in this world would satisfy Except he remembered as if inspired by a vision the looking for gold He was satisfied with the activity So why continue to look for gold he asked himself If it was for the money then gold hunting was just another job

Loving Day Mat Johnson, 2016-09-06

A NEW YORK TIMES NOTABLE BOOK

Mat Johnson's unrelenting examination of blackness, whiteness, and everything in between is handled with ruthless candor and riotous humor. Los Angeles Times: Razor sharp. Loving Day is that rare, m-lange cerebral comedy with pathos. The New York Times Book Review: NAMED ONE OF THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR BY The New York Times. San Francisco Chronicle, NPR, Men's Journal, The Miami Herald, The Denver Post, Slate, The Kansas City Star, San Antonio Express-News, Time Out New York. Warren Duffy has returned to America for all the worst reasons. His marriage to a beautiful Welsh woman has come apart; his comics shop in Cardiff has failed; and his Irish-American father has died, bequeathing to Warren his last possession: a roofless, half-renovated mansion in the heart of black Philadelphia. On his first night in his new home, Warren spies two figures outside in the grass. When he screws up the nerve to confront them, they disappear. The next day he encounters ghosts of a different kind. In the face of a teenage girl he meets at a comics convention, he sees the mingled features of his white father and his black mother, both now dead. The girl, Tal, is his daughter, and she's been raised to think she's white. Spinning from these revelations, Warren sets off to remake his life with a reluctant daughter he's never known in a haunted house with a history he knows too well. In their search for a new life, he and Tal struggle with ghosts, fall in with a utopian mixed-race cult, and ignite a riot. On Loving Day, the unsung holiday for interracial lovers, a frequently hilarious, surprisingly moving story about blacks and whites, fathers and daughters, the living and the dead. Loving Day celebrates the wonders of opposites bound in love. Praise for Loving Day: Incisive, razor sharp, that rare, m-lange cerebral comedy with pathos. The vitality of our narrator deserves much of the credit for that. He has the neurotic bawdiness of Philip Roth's Alexander Portnoy, the keen caustic eye of Bob Jones in Chester Himes's If He Hollers Let Him Go, the existential insight of Ellison's Invisible Man. The New York Times Book Review: Exceptional. To say that Loving Day is a book about race is like saying Moby-Dick is a book about whales. Mat Johnson's unrelenting examination of blackness, whiteness, and everything in between is handled with ruthless candor and riotous humor. Even when the novel's family strife and racial politics are at peak intensity,

Johnson's comic timing is impeccable Los Angeles Times Johnson at his best is a powerful comic observer and a gifted writer always worth reading on the topics of race and privilege Dwight Garner The New York Times
