Nemeth, 1995-02-01 Florida Corporate Practice for the Paralegal Charles P. Nemeth, 1995 The Corporate Practice of Medicine James C. Robinson, 1999-11-01 One of the country's leading health economists presents a provocative analysis of the transformation of American medicine from a system of professional dominance to an industry under corporate control James Robinson examines the economic and political forces that have eroded the traditional medical system of solo practice and fee for service insurance hindered governmental regulation and invited the market competition and organizational innovations that now are under way The trend toward health care corporatization is irreversible he says and it parallels analogous trends toward privatization in the world economy The physician is the key figure in health care and how physicians are organized is central to the health care system says Robinson He focuses on four forms of physician organization to illustrate how external pressures have led to health care innovations multispecialty medical groups Independent Practice Associations IPAs physician practice management firms and physician hospital organizations These physician organizations have evolved in the past two decades by adopting from the larger corporate sector similar forms of ownership governance finance compensation and marketing In applying economic principles to the maelstrom of health care Robinson highlights the similarities between competition and consolidation in medicine and in other sectors of the economy
He points to hidden costs in fee for service medicine overtreatment rampant inflation uncritical professional dominance regarding treatment decisions factors often overlooked when newer organizational models are criticized Not everyone will share Robinson's appreciation for market competition and corporate organization in American health care but he challenges those who would return to the inefficient and inequitable era of medicine from which we've just emerged Forcefully written
