Islam in the West Abe W. Ata,Jan A. Ali,2018-08-28 The bombings in New York and Washington in 2001 and subsequent terrorist attacks in different countries of the West have led to fast changing socio cultural and political contexts where Islam has been depicted as a global threat The meaning of being a Muslim has undergone rapid transformation with the interplay of perceptions and misperceptions impacted by for instance the Iranian Revolution of 1978 9 the Lockerbie bombing in 1988 the Gulf War of 1990 1 and the clash of civilizations thesis propagated by Samuel Huntington in 1993 This book examines the way Muslims and mainstream societies in the West perceive each other by taking into account themes like cultural pluralism media religious education interfaith dialogue and so on It argues that Muslims are not defined solely by their faith but as an emerging group which is self critical reflective and focused on clearing the misconceptions associated with their identity Further it posits that Westerners who are more knowledgeable about Muslims usually express positive opinions about Islam thereby arguing that the knowledge about and attitudes towards Islam are interrelated

Islamic Ecumene David S. The Colonization of Names Benjamin C. Brower,2025-08-19 French colonization dismantled Algerian names Under the occupation that began in 1830 not only were Algerian towns and streets renamed in honor of French figures but personal names were forced to follow French conventions and norms Colonial authorities simplified and transformed Algerian names to suit their administrative and legal purposes crudely transcribing and transliterating Arabic and Berber They imposed a two part name and surname model that stripped away the extended family ties and social context inherent to precolonial naming practices This groundbreaking history of personal names in nineteenth century Algeria sheds new light on the symbolic violence of renaming and the relationship between language and colonialism

Benjamin Claude Brower traces the changes Algerians personal names suffered during the colonial era and the consequences for individuals and society France's imposition of new names he argues destabilized Algerians sense of self and place in the community distorted local identities and compromised institutions such as the family Drawing on previously unstudied records Brower examines different northwestern African naming traditions and how colonialism changed them With the aid of literary and critical theory he develops new insights into the name and its relationship to power and subjectivity A rigorous theoretical and historical account of symbolic violence The Colonization of Names unveils many unseen forms of harm under colonial rule
