Aging Frederick L. Ahearn, 2001 Includes statistics Global Aging and Challenges to Families Vern Bengtson, 2018-01-16 The recent explosion in population ageing across the globe represents one of the most remarkable demographic changes in human history Population ageing will profoundly affect families Who will care for the growing numbers of tomorrows very old members of societies Will it be state governments The aged themselves Their families The purpose of this book is to examine consequences of global aging for families and intergenerational support and for nations as they plan for the future

GLOBAL AGING ISSUES AND POLICIES Yushi (Boni) Li, 2013-06-01 Aging society is an urgent global issue that challenges almost all human societies in the world. When nations evolve into aging societies, they must establish and implement policies and approaches to meet the needs of the elderly population, such as elderly services, long-term care, health care policies, institutional facilities, illness and healing processes, financial support, and retirement life and leisure. The fundamental purpose of this book is to help students and readers develop their knowledge on worldwide elderly issues. To accomplish this goal, the text incorporates 18 chapters from different countries with a variety of aging topics which are divided into continents including Africa, Asia, Europe, North and South America, and the Oceanic Islands. Specific chapters from the following countries/regions are included: Sub-Saharan Africa, South Africa, China, Japan, Israel, Singapore, Thailand, Austria, United Kingdom, Estonia, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, United States, Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, and Uruguay. By sharing these regions and nations' elderly issues and their particular solutions to the challenges, it provides readers with global views on current aging processes, policies, and strategies. The book effectively helps readers understand that the increase of the elderly population is a major development of the 21st century. The text further helps comprehend the importance of improving the elderly population's overall quality of life, as well as valuing the contribution they can make to their communities and society. The reader will gain insights about why global elderly issues are critical and how the lives of elderly have been impacted and influenced by different policies, societies, and cultures in which they live. The book is designed as a college text for study of aging issues with a global perspective. Also, any readers interested in topics of the elderly will find the book to be a most beneficial resource.

Global Aging and Challenges to Families Vern Bengtson, 2018-01-16 The recent explosion in population ageing across the globe represents one of the most remarkable demographic changes in human history. Population ageing will profoundly affect families. Who will care for the growing numbers of tomorrow's very old members of societies? Will it be state governments? The aged themselves? Their families? The purpose of this book is to examine consequences of global aging for families and intergenerational support and for nations as they plan for the future.

Global Health and Global Aging Mary Robinson, William Novelli, Clarence E. Pearson, Laurie Norris, 2007-09-24 The book covers the fundamentals of global aging and health and provides real-world models from countries and regions that offer the best practices in current approaches. Global Health and Global Aging presents information about leadership and governance challenges, as well as insights about aging in different cultures and countries in all regions of the world.

Global Ageing in the Twenty-First Century Zachary Zimmer, 2016-04-22 Population ageing, a growth in the proportion of a population that is in older age, is now occurring in every region and nearly every country of the world. Indeed, the growth of older populations is among the important global phenomena of the twenty-first century. It poses both opportunities and challenges for societies and policy makers, but these are far from uniform worldwide. Dynamic factors are at work impacting on how ageing will influence people, places, and policies, and there are large variations in the rate and timing of population ageing across countries owing to differing social health and economic circumstances and a variety of policy options from which to choose. Given this variation in the context of global ageing as a backdrop, this edited book focuses on three overarching themes that are among the most critical to understand if societies are to age successfully in the twenty-first century and beyond: Healthy ageing and health care, the ageing workforce, retirement, and the provision of pensions, shifting intergenerational relations. These three themes are cross-cut by other dimensions that are intertwined with the dynamic processes of ageing, such as immigration, emigration, contrasting policy regimes, and global and national economic forces. This ground-breaking book will be of interest to all scholars, students, and policy makers working within this area of study.

Global Aging Suzanne R. Kunkel, J. Scott Brown, Frank J. Whittington, 2014-02-03. This book is exemplary in amassing demographic policy and sociopsychological data from around the world to refute both premises that countries aging is not occurring in developing nations and that aging of the population presents intractable predicaments. The content of the book is rich with current information seldom accumulated into one source. For a scholar of aging studies, the topics are comprehensive, including demographics, political systems, health, and long-term care provision, employment, retirement, and formal and informal support systems. Structurally, the book adds value with the inclusion of Web resources and a robust index. The design is conducive for a classroom setting by incorporating discussion questions and key words at the end of each chapter.

Dr. Carol A. Gosselink PsycCritiques. Using a comparative cross-national perspective, Global Aging: Comparative Perspectives on Aging and the Life Course explores the major topics in social gerontology worldwide and the demands that the aging population places on a society. This comprehensive and timely guide includes contributions from international gerontology scholars and illustrates both universal and socioculturally unique aspects of aging across nations. It is organized thematically for ease of use and includes an abundance of photographs and illustrations to highlight key points.

Key features: Discussions on various nations' policies and programs designed to meet the unique needs of an older population; An essay on pension and income maintenance policies and programs; An analysis of the role of local and national governments as well as non-governmental organizations in serving older adults; Case studies on specific aspects of aging, family life, caregiving policies, and politics; health and long-term care; and work and retirement. The most current demographic data on aging around the world.

Global Aging and Its Challenge to Families Vern L. Bengtson, Ariela Lowenstein. The recent explosion in population aging across the globe represents one of the most remarkable demographic changes in human history. There is much concern about population aging and its consequences for nations, for governments, and for individuals. It has often been noted that population aging will inevitably affect the economic stability of most countries and the policies of most state governments. What is less obvious but equally important is that population aging will profoundly affect families. Who will care for the growing numbers of tomorrow's very old members of societies? Will it be state governments? The aged themselves?

Their families The purpose of this volume is to examine consequences of global aging for families and intergenerational support and for nations as they plan for the future Four remarkable social changes during the past fifty years are highlighted

- 1 Extension of the life course A generation has been added to the average span of life over the past century
- 2 Changes in the age structures of nations Most nations today have many more elders and many fewer children than fifty years ago
- 3 Changes in family structures and relationships Some of these differences are the result of trends in family structure notably higher divorce rates and the higher incidence of childbearing to single parents
- 4 Changes in governmental responsibilities In the last decade governmental responsibility appears to have slowed or reversed as states reduce welfare expenditures

How will families respond to twenty first century problems associated with population aging Will families indeed be important in the twenty first century or will kinship and the obligations across generations become increasingly irrelevant replaced by personal communities This volume goes a considerable distance to answer these critical issues for the twenty first century

Vern L Bengtson is an AARP University Chair in Gerontology and Professor of Sociology University of Southern California
Ariela Lowenstein is associate professor and head Department of Aging Studies University of Haifa Israel
