French Connections in the English Renaissance Catherine Gimelli Martin, Hassan Melehy, 2016-04-15 The study of literature still tends to be nation based even when direct evidence contradicts longstanding notions of an autonomous literary canon In a time when current events make inevitable the acceptance of a global perspective the essays in this volume suggest a corrective to such scholarly limitations the contributors offer alternatives to received notions of influence and the more or less linear transmission of translatio studii demonstrating that they no longer provide adequate explanations for the interactions among the various literary canons of the Renaissance Offering texts on a variety of aspects of the Anglo French Renaissance instead of concentrating on one set of borrowings or phenomena this collection points to new configurations of the relationships among national literatures Contributors address specific borrowings rewritings and appropriations of French writing by English authors in fields ranging from lyric poetry to epic poetry to drama to political treatise The bibliography presents a comprehensive list of publications on French connections in the English Renaissance from 1902 to the present day

Shakespeare and the Performance of Girlhood D. Williams, 2014-04-23 This is the first scholarly study devoted to Shakespeare's girl characters and conceptions of girlhood It charts the development of Shakespeare's treatment of the girl as a dramatic and literary figure and explores the impact of Shakespeare's girl characters on the history of early modern girls as performers patrons and authors

Films of the New French Extremity Alexandra West, 2016-05-19 The films of the New French Extremity have been reviled by critics but adored by fans and filmmakers Known for graphically brutal depictions of sex and violence the subgenre emerged from the French art house scene in the late 1990s and became a cult phenomenon eventually merging into the horror genre where it became associated with American torture porn Decidedly French in flavor the films seek to reveal the dark side of French society This book provides an in depth study of New French Extremity focusing on such films as Trouble Every Day 2001 Irreversible 2002 Twentynine Palms 2003 High Tension 2003 and Martyrs 2008 The author explores the social implications of cinematic cruelty presented not as violent films but as films about violence

So They Want Us to Learn French Matthew Hayday, 2015-09-15 Since the 1960s bilingualism has become a defining aspect of Canadian identity And yet today relatively few English Canadians speak or choose to speak French Why has personal bilingualism failed to increase as much as attitudes about bilingualism as a Canadian value In So They Want Us to Learn French Matthew Hayday explores the various ways in which bilingualism was promoted to English speaking Canadians from the 1960s to the late 1990s He analyzes the strategies and tactics employed by organizations on both sides of the bilingualism debate Against a dramatic background of constitutional change and controversy economic turmoil demographic shifts and the on again off again possibility of Quebec separatism English speaking Canadians had to decide whether they and their children should learn French Highlighting the personal experiences of proponents and advocates Hayday provides a vivid narrative of a complex controversial and fundamentally Canadian question

Isabelle's Notebooks

Sylvie Chaput, 2002 Following the love story of painter Joseph L. Gar's niece Isabelle Forest and novelist Philippe Aubert de Gaspé, Sylvie Chaput carefully and creatively chronicles her picture of Quebec in the 1830s. Chaput writes of the turbulence Quebec endured as her lovers battle the dangers of severe political unrest and a huge cholera epidemic. This novel also recalls the role of art, specifically painting, as a permanent force in a tumultuous world. THE LADIES' COMPANION

, 1869 The New Monthly Belle Assemblée, Spirits in the Consulting Room Serge Bouznah, Catherine Lewertowski, 2022-11-11 For any country that has a large and diverse migrant population, it is a struggle to connect these people to the country's institutions, including the healthcare system, which can be overwhelming in its complexity. Cultural and language barriers often make it difficult for doctors to fully understand the symptoms of their migrant patients, reach accurate diagnoses, or properly treat their suffering. Thus, medical practitioners must attempt new innovative practices in order to reach patients where they are and convince them to accept treatment from doctors they don't totally understand. In France, Serge Bouznah and Catherine Lewertowski have pioneered one such practice: that of transcultural mediation. Drawn from two decades of their experience with transcultural mediation, Spirits in the Consulting Room tells the stories of eight patients, mainly migrants and their families. Each chapter focuses on a different patient, and Christelle Djibril Moncef Alhassane, Jacinthe Amy, Cyril Alice, and Pierre leap off the page as distinct people with unique situations. Together, these chapters reveal how patients' comprehension of their symptoms is shaped by their cultural background while recounting the challenges of translating that into terms the doctors can grasp. The book shows how trained transcultural mediators can help to redress the power imbalance between doctors and the migrants they treat, providing patients with advocates who respect the authority of their background and experiences and don't just take the side of the medical professionals. The groundbreaking insights modeled in this book can be applied to any medical situation where doctors and patients find themselves speaking different languages. Because To Die, You Have To Be Alive Magali Dubreuil Bourguet, 2021-11-19

Warning: this is a book with such positive energy that it is dangerously contagious. Come aboard Miss Rainbow with Oceane and Gaia for a journey beyond all limiting borders, whether they are physical or psychological. This is a feel-good novel full of optimism, hope, and positivity, a breath of fresh air. To quote the hundreds of comments already received from readers in France: A story that will allow you to not only travel through many countries but also within you on a journey of self-discovery through philosophical questions mixed in with a modern story in a style that is smooth, simple, honest, and full of humor. It is the story of the friendship between two women who take off and stand the test of time in an unconventional adventure. Oceane hits her forties and finds out that she only has about eight months to live and meets Gaia. They both leave aboard Miss Rainbow on a humanitarian and spiritual journey from Toulouse to Kathmandu, which will transform their lives as well as the lives of everyone they meet along the way and maybe yours. Repatriation to France and Germany Matthias Walther, 2014-05-19 A significant amount of German and French career agents are involved with international careers.

Applying Bourdieu's Theory of Practice Matthias Walther compares the repatriation of German and French career agents into the external labor markets of their parent country career fields A qualitative content analysis of 40 semi structured interviews shows that the German and French career agents career capital and habitus develops during expatriation which has an important impact on the re integration into the parent country career field The Author shows that in an international career mobility context the rules of the game change compared to the rules in a pure national career context which challenges the pertinence of national career models in understanding repatriation in a Franco German context The Baby
