Hambleton, 2007-11-26 This book is about the role that ideas institutions and actors play in structuring how we govern cities and more specifically what projects or paths are taken Global changes require that we rethink governance and urban policy and that we do so through the dual lens of theory and practice Governing Cities on the Move Walter Schenkel, 2018-04-27 This title was first published in 2002 The success of any investment strategy in urban infrastructures is dependent on how people as members of households companies or institutions will use these infrastructures in their daily lives and how actors take decisions on their investment strategies Insights into these behaviours can help public and private actors to cope with

Governing Cities Through Regions Roger Keil, Pierre Hamel, Julie-Anne Boudreau, Stefan Kipfer, 2016-12-12 The region is back in town Galloping urbanization has pushed beyond historical notions of metropolitanism City regions have experienced in Edward Soja's terms an epochal shift in the nature of the city and the urbanization process marking the beginning of the end of the modern metropolis as we knew it Governing Cities Through Regions broadens and deepens our understanding of metropolitan governance through an innovative comparative project that engages with Anglo American French and German literatures on the subject of regional governance It expands the comparative angle from issues of economic competitiveness and social cohesion to topical and relevant fields such as housing and transportation and it expands comparative work on municipal governance to the regional scale With contributions from established and emerging international scholars of urban and regional governance the volume covers conceptual topics and case studies that contrast the experience of a range of Canadian metropolitan regions with a strong selection of European regions It starts from assumptions of limited conversion among regions across the Atlantic but is keenly aware of the remarkable differences in urban regions path dependencies in which the larger processes of globalization and neo liberalization are situated and materialized
