Grasping Things Simon J.

Bronner,2014-07-11 America stocks its shelves with mass produced goods but fills its imagination with handmade folk objects In Pennsylvania the back to the city housing movement causes a conflict of cultures In Indiana an old tradition of butchering turtles for church picnics evokes both pride and loathing among residents In New York folk art exhibits raise choruses of adoration and protest These are a few of the examples Simon Bronner uses to illustrate the ways Americans physically and mentally grasp things Bronner moves beyond the usual discussions of form and variety in America s folk material culture to explain historical influences on and the social consequences of channeling folk culture into a mass society Ten Lectures on the Representation of Events in Language, Perception, Memory, and Action Control Jeffrey M. Zacks,2020-02-10 The representation of events is a central topic for cognitive science In this series of lectures Jeffrey M Zacks situates event representations and their role in language within a theory of perception and memory Event representations have a distinctive structure and format that result from computational and neural mechanisms operating during perception and language comprehension A crucial aspect of the mechanisms is that event representations are updated to optimize their predictive utility This updating has consequences for action control and for long term memory Event cognition changes across the adult lifespan and can be impaired by conditions including Alzheimer s disease These mechanisms have broad impact on everyday activity and have shaped the development of media such as cinema and narrative fiction
