What We Need Barrett Tillman, In early 2006 the Army chief of staff reported about 440 billion in expenditures A dollar bill is a smidgen over six inches long If 440 billion greenbacks are placed end to end they would extend 220 billion feet or 41 600 000 miles That is 1 664 times around the equator If the greenbacks had Andy Jackson s picture instead of George Washington s that line still would run well over 2 000 000 miles That is about four trips to the moon and back So then On 440 billion how is it possible that soldiers still lack sufficient body armor training facilities and ammunition and high tech bandages On 440 billion how is it possible that there is not enough money for vehicle maintenance and repair On 440 billion how is it possible that GIs still write home asking folks to send socks and sheets and batteries What We Need addresses The Great American Dichotomy we allocate vast sums for our military yet inevitably we spend most of that treasure on technical marvels that we do not use And if we do not use them we are entitled to ask how much we need them
