The Transcultural Turn Lucy Bond, Jessica Rapson, 2014-04-01 This edited collection makes a progressive intervention into the interdisciplinary field of memory studies with a series of essays drawn from diverse theoretical practical and cultural backgrounds The most seminal critical development within memory studies in recent years has arguably been the turn towards transculturalism This movement engenders a series of methodologies that posit remembrance as a fluid process in which commemorative tropes work to inform the representation of diverse events and traumas beyond national or cultural boundaries transcending but not negating spatial temporal and ideational differences Examining a wide range of historical and cultural contexts the essays in this collection focus on the dialogues that shape processes of remembrance between and beyond borders critiquing the problems and possibilities inherent in current discourses in memorial practice and theory as they approach the challenge of transculturalism

Killer Images Joram ten Brink, Joshua Oppenheimer, 2013-01-08 Cinema has long shaped not only how mass violence is perceived but also how it is performed Today when media coverage is central to the execution of terror campaigns and news anchor men serve as embedded journalists a critical understanding of how the moving image is implicated in the imaginations and actions of perpetrators and survivors of violence is all the more urgent If the cinematic image and mass violence are among the defining features of modernity the former is significantly implicated in the latter and the nature of this implication is the book's central focus This book brings together a range of newly commissioned essays and interviews from the world's leading academics and documentary filmmakers including Ben Anderson Errol Morris Harun Farocki Rithy Phan Avi Mograbi Brian Winston and Michael Chanan Contributors explore such topics as the tension between remembrance and performance the function of moving images in the execution of political violence and nonfiction filmmaking methods that facilitate communities of survivors to respond to recover and redeem a history that sought to physically and symbolically annihilate them

The Witness as Object Steffi de Jong, 2018-01-31 Today more than ever before the historical witness is now a museum object in the form of video interviews with individuals remembering events of historical importance Such video testimonies now not only are part of the collections and research activities of museums but become deeply intertwined with narrative and exhibit design With a focus on Holocaust museums this study scrutinizes for the first time this new global process of musealisation of testimony exploring the processes prerequisites and consequences of the transformation of video testimonies into exhibits

Refractions of the Third Reich in German and Austrian Fiction and Film Chloe Paver, 2007-02-22 Six decades after the defeat of National Socialism commemoration and mourning are ongoing open ended projects in Germany and Austria and continue to generate a steady stream of literature and film about the Nazi past that while comparatively modest in volume is often disproportionately influential in public debates At the same time new museums and memorials are being established all the time in what Andreas Huyssen has called a memory boom while what is remembered and how it is remembered is subject to continuous change Scholars have to keep pace with each new development in this culture of commemoration Rather than add to the growing body of surveys of literature and film about the Third Reich this study instead puts scholars critical approaches under the microscope Chloe Paver considers how far the object of the study is not just analysed but also constructed by the scholar s approach and identifies the criteria by which academics judge the values of works that deal with the Third Reich This book brings aspects of film fiction and memorial culture together in a single study that pays as much attention to images and in the case of film to sound as it does to text The study of film historical exhibitions and sites of memory also demands consideration of social contexts and practices A case study of memory at two of Austria s sites of terror demonstrates the methods used in the study of memorials and museums and considers the ways in which memory attaches itself to place

Shoah Sue Vice,2019-07-25 Claude Lanzmann s epic 1985 film Shoah tells the story of the Holocaust through interviews with survivors of the extermination camps bystanders who watched or participated in mass murder and some of the perpetrators of genocide Sue Vice addresses Lanzmann s central role in the film and the issue of representing the unrepresentable

Reporting Genocide David Patrick,2017-12-13 The Western world s responses to genocide have been slow unwieldly and sometimes unfit for purpose So argues David Patrick in this essential new contribution to the aid and intervention debate While the UK and US have historically been committed to the ideals of human rights freedom and equality their actual material reactions are more usually dictated by geopolitical noise pre conceived ideas of worth and the media attention spans of individual elected leaders Utilizing a wide ranging quantitative analysis of media reporting across the globe Patrick argues that an over reliance on the Holocaust as the framing device we use to try and come to terms with such horrors can lead to slow responses misinterpretation and category errors in both Rwanda and Bosnia much energy was expended trying to ascertain whether these regions qualified for genocide status The Reporting of Genocide demonstrates how such tragedies are reduced to stereotypes in the media framed in terms of innocent victims and brutal oppressors which can over simplify the situation on the ground This in turn can lead to mixed and inadequate responses from governments Reporting on Genocide also seeks to address how responses to genocides across the globe can be improved and will be essential reading for policy makers and for scholars of genocide and the media

Ethics and Poetics Margrét Gunnarsdóttir Champion, Irina Rasmussen Goloubeva, 2014-04-11 Bringing together international scholars interested in the ethics of fiction this book extends the rich field of ethical literary criticism that has emerged in the last twenty years New ground is broached in that the authors explore literariness itself as constitutive of ethical intimations about the pluralistic community and about egalitarian modes of communication The epistemological point of departure is the ethical thought of modernity as filtered through Hegelian recognition as infinite social responsibility The structure of the anthology reflects this anchoring as the authors investigate modalities of recognition and social regeneration via literary language which effects the transvaluation of values of the collective imaginary and of intermediality This collection is generally concerned with the immanence of intersubjectivity in literature and with how from this immanence new modes of ethical communication are generated The authors of Ethics and Poetics clarify how modern narratives in ways akin to yet different from political interrogations such as deconstruction psychoanalysis Marxism and gender studies refine the understanding of the recursive process of recognition thereby disclosing ethico political dimensions of the reading experience The chapters in this anthology share an interest in ethico literary responses to shifts within modernity from communal to transnational imagination All the articles explore how modalities of recognition in modern and contemporary literature deeply affect and potentially regenerate real social spaces
