In The Track Of Robert Louis Stevenson And Elsewhere:

In the Track of Robert Louis Stevenson and Elsewhere in Old France John Alexander Hammerton, 2020-09-28 The mountainous district of France to which somewhat loosely Stevenson applies the name Cevennes lies along the western confines of Provence and overlaps on several departments chief of which are Ard che Loz re Gard and Herault In many parts the villages and the people have far less in common with France and the French than Normandy and the Normans have with provincial England Here in these mountain fastnesses and sheltered valleys the course of life has flowed along almost changeless for centuries and here too we shall find much that is best in the romantic history and natural grandeur of France Remote from Paris and happily without the area of the cheap trip organisers it is likely to remain for ever off the beaten track In order to visit the Cevennes proper the beautiful town of Mende would be the best starting place But since my purpose was to strike the trail of R L S after some wanderings awheel northward of Clermont Ferrand I approached the district from Le Puy a town which so excellent a judge as Mr Joseph Pennell has voted the most picturesque in Europe Besides Stevenson himself had often wandered through its quaint unusual streets while preparing for his memorable journey with immortal Modestine I decided on a sleeping sack he says and after repeated visits to Le Puy and a deal of high living for myself and my advisers a sleeping sack was designed constructed and triumphantly brought home At that time the wanderer s home was in the mountain town of Le Monastier some fifteen miles south east of Le Puy and there in the autumn of 1877 he spent about a month of fine days variously occupied in completing his New Arabian Nights and Picturesque Notes on Edinburgh and conducting with no little personal and general entertainment the preliminaries of his projected journey through the Cevennes

Stevenson and Elsewhere in Old France John Alexander Hammerton, 1908 Edinburgh Companion to Robert Louis Stevenson Penny Fielding, 2010-07-06 This wide ranging collection is the first to set Robert Louis Stevenson in detailed social political and literary contexts The book takes account of both Stevenson s extraordinary thematic and generic diversity and his geographical range The chapters explore his relation to late nineteenth century publishing psychology travel the colonial world and the emergence of modernism in prose and poetry Through the pivotal figure of Stevenson the collection explores how literary publishing and cultural life changed across the second half of the nineteenth century Stevenson emerges as a complex writer author both of hugely popular boys stories and of seminally important adult novels as well as the literary figure who debated with Henry James the theory of fiction and the nature of realism The collection shows how interest in the unconscious and changes in the conception of childhood demand that we re evaluate our ideas of his writing Individual essays by international experts trace Stevenson lit

European Stevenson Richard Ambrosini, Richard Dury, 2009-10-02 Edinburgh late 1860s Two young gentlemen their heads buzzing with ideas and artistic ambitions hang over North Bridge watching the trains start southward and longing to start too the Walter Scott Monument a short way behind them but their eyes fixed on the tracks leading South to London and the Continent In their Introduction the editors see this scene with his painter cousin as symbolically significant for Robert Louis Stevenson s writing career Through his connection with Europe and especially France he participated in an international exchange of ideas on art which led him in the 1870s to reinvent his relationship with his national literary tradition by exploring a variety of essayistic forms He would eventually confront the shadow of the Scott Monument when he turned to novel writing in the 80s but the nature of his innovations as a novelist cannot be understood without taking into account the lessons he learned in France The papers that follow first explore the way Stevenson s world view and cultural background interacted with European landscape literature and painting in that key early decade Later chapters examine the influence of Stevenson on European writers Proust Cocteau Brecht and Calvino and on other creative artists The volume aims to show how European culture contributed to Stevenson s greatest achievements and then to explain why with Stevenson ignored by Anglo American critics for most of the twentieth century he still remained an admired model for Europeans     Bulletin of Bibliography and Dramatic Index ,1918     The Publishers Weekly ,1908     The American Catalogue ,1911 American national trade bibliography     Burgundy: The Splendid Duchy.
