Living with Wolves Thorsten Gieser, 2024-08-02 With their return to Germany wolves leave their traces in personal feelings in the atmospheres of rural landscapes and even in the sentiments and moods that govern political arenas Thorsten Gieser explores the role of affects emotions moods and atmospheres in the emerging coexistence between humans and wolves Bridging the gap between anthropology and ethology the author literally walks in the tracks of wolves to follow their affective agency in a more than human society In nuanced analyses he shows how wolves move irritate and excite us offering answers to the primary question What does it feel like to coexist with these large predators Large Carnivore

Conservation and Management Tasos Hovardas, 2018-07-11 Large carnivores include iconic species such as bears wolves and big cats Their habitats are increasingly being shared with humans and there is a growing number of examples of human carnivore coexistence as well as conflict Next to population dynamics of large carnivores there are considerable attitude shifts towards these species worldwide with multiple implications This book argues and demonstrates why human dimensions of relationships to large carnivores are crucial for their successful conservation and management It provides an overview of theoretical and methodological perspectives heterogeneity in stakeholder perceptions and behaviour as well as developments in decision making stakeholder involvement policy and governance informed by human dimensions of large carnivore conservation and management The scope is international with detailed examples and case studies from Europe North and South America Central and South Asia as well as debates of the challenges faced by urbanization agricultural expansion national parks and protected areas The main species covered include bears wolves lynx and leopards The book provides a novel perspective for advanced students researchers and professionals in ecology and conservation wildlife management human wildlife interactions environmental education and environmental social science Ecological Homeostasis Christopher J. Paradise, A. Malcolm Campbell, 2016-04-27 Food webs energy flow indirect effects and nutrient cycling are described as properties that emerge in ecological systems Several of these properties are shown in this book to result from indirect effects and interactions between species and abiotic components of ecological systems For instance top predators affect organisms with which they do not directly interact including plants and non prey animals In some other interactions including competition the nonliving components of ecological systems the abiota can alter the outcome of a biotic interaction A limiting resource often results in competition but varying environmental conditions allow for species coexistence Finally this book illustrates how energy flows in ecological systems why it is rather inefficient and how species interactions relate to homeostasis and emergent properties In the course of that discussion primary production secondary production and trophic levels are defined Energy flow in ecological systems is tied to the carbon cycle The Yellowstone Wolf Paul Schullery, 2003 All royalties from sales of this book go to Yellowstone s wolf recovery project Few animals inspire such a mixture of fear curiosity and wonder as the wolf Highly regarded but often misunderstood the wolf has as many friends as enemies and its reintroduction into Yellowstone National Park has sparked both fascination and controversy Early in Yellowstone s history wolves were thought supernaturally evil and scores were destroyed Northern Rocky Mountain wolves were native to Yellowstone when the park was established in 1872 but predator control led to determined eradication and by the 1940s they were gone Amid much fanfare however wolves were reintroduced to one of the nation s oldest national parks in the 1990s This comprehensive reference documents the prehistory management and nature of the Yellowstone wolf Historian naturalist Paul Schullery has assembled the voices of explorers naturalists park officials tourists lawmakers and modern researchers to tell the story of what may be the most famous wolf population in the world This unique book includes numerous scientific studies of interest to wolf enthusiasts and scholars of western wildlife issues conservation and national parks In a new afterword Schullery discusses recent developments in the recovery project Field and Stream ,1946 Greater Yellowstone Public Lands Alice Wondrak Biel, 2006 The Three Sustainabilities Allan Stoekl, 2021-09-28 Bringing the word sustainability back from the brink of cliché to a substantive truly sustainable future Is sustainability a hopelessly vague word with meager purpose aside from a feel good appeal to the consumer In The Three Sustainabilities Allan Stoekl seeks to revalorize the word for a simple reason it is useful Sustainability designates objects in time their birth or genesis their consistency their survival their demise And it raises the question as no other word does of the role of humans in the survival of a world that is quickly disappearing and perhaps in the genesis of another world Stoekl considers a range of possibilities for the word touching upon questions of object ontology psychoanalysis urban critique technocracy and religion He argues that there are three varieties of sustainability seen from philosophical cultural and economic perspectives One involves the self sustaining world without us another the world under our control which can run the political spectrum from corporatism to Marxism to the Green New Deal and a third that carries a social and communitarian charge an energy of the universe affirmed through among other things meditation and gifting Each of these carves out a different space in the relations between objects humans and their survival and degradation Each is necessary unavoidable and intimately bound with and infinitely distant from the others Along the way Stoekl cites a wide range of authors from philosophers to social thinkers literary theorists to criminologists anthropologists to novelists This beautifully written compelling and nuanced book is a must for anyone interested in questions of ecology energy the environmental humanities contemporary theories of the object postmodern and posthuman aesthetics or religion and the sacred in relation to community Reintroduction of the Mexican Wolf Within Its Historic Range in the Southwestern United States U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service,1996 Rocky Mountain National Park (N.P.), Elk and Vegetation Management Plan ,2006 Wild Mammals of North America George A. Cattle, Their Predators and Geomatics Research Michael O'Neal Campbell,2025-08-06 Cattle are currently the most important domesticated mammals with populations numbering in the hundreds of millions and occupying large tracts of land while the conservation of large mammalian carnivores is becoming a dominant discourse in modern geopolitics also claiming large portions of the Earth's land surface Computer based surveying and communication systems including geomatics Big Data and Big Tech are becoming an essential part of human communication and environmental assessments and are critical to large scale assessments of land conflicts A current critical potent but neglected issue concerns the measurement of the interfaces of large carnivore and cattle ecologies in a cross continental format This book offers a novel approach to the interfaces of the sciences of conservation biology animal ecology agricultural development and geomatics which are increasingly interconnected in modern global development scenarios For animal ecology and conservation biology it is about the management systems that have developed from ecological and human parameters For agricultural development topics concern ancestral development physiological characteristics ecological requirements and predation opportunities and conflicts of cattle breeds For geomatics the topics concern the image based and survey based technologies that enable more critical environmental assessments The book takes a novel approach by examining the ancestry of cattle including the aurochs and current wild buffalos gaur banteng yaks bison the process of domestication into taurine and indicine cattle the semi domestication of yaks and water buffalo the ecologies of ancestral and modern large carnivores including bears big cats and canids and how the requirements of these large charismatic mammals conflict with the requirements of cattle and agricultural development in Asia Europe Africa North America and South America This integrative approach contributes to the interests of academic researchers students practitioners and policy makers and general readers
