AND WITH NEW STORIES AND VERSES
BY ALICE CALHOUN HAYES

NOTHING quite so much interests the children as the young people of other lands—their strange faces, their quaint costumes, and their so different games, amusements, and occupations. It is fitting, too, when the eyes of all the older people are turned with interest toward Japan, that the younger generation should be shown something of the everyday life of the children of the new civilization.

The verses and stories impart a great deal of information in regard to the country, the people, and their life.
