The moment of disclosure reveals an epistemic incompatibility between scientific fact and social meaning in relation to sex. Attempting to assess the biopsychosocial implications of this dilemma highlights a complex historic antagonism between fact and meaning making. Satisfactory resolution of this dilemma is difficult. Drawing on David Hume, WVO Quine and Michel Foucault, the author presents an integrative model which views scientific fact and social meaning as codetermining threads in one fabric of knowledge. From this epistemic perspective, the ethical dilemma is understood as a tear in the fabric signifying a rupturing of ontological integrity. To mend this tear and resolve the ethical dilemma, three metaphysical perspectives are considered: essentialism, naturalism, and emergentism. The book's unique features include an exploration of the impact of diagnostic disclosure on people with atypical sex; intersex; a synthesis of the epistemic perspectives of social and natural science facilitating interdisciplinary collaboration; a critical evaluation of three metaphysical perspectives on atypical sex; intersex; the application of Hume's epistemological and moral distinctions to contemporary biomedicine and bioethics. The book's target audience includes academics, students, and professionals whose work intersects the natural and social sciences and individuals interested in the metaphysics, epistemology, and meta-ethics of sex      Transforming Clothing Production into a Demand-driven, Knowledge-based, High-tech Industry Lutz Walter, George-Alexander Kartsounis, Stefano Carosio, 2009-09-17 Recent trends in the fashion market, including an impressive increase in the number of new collections, product assortments, and variants, and the emerging mass customization model, dictate the need for a new approach. Transforming Clothing Production into a Demand-Driven Knowledge-Based High-Tech Industry discusses the ramifications of such an approach, which must lead to a drastic shortening of the whole cycle from conception to production and retail, as well as a shift from a labor-intensive to a technology and knowledge-intensive clothing manufacturing industry. Transforming Clothing Production into a Demand-Driven Knowledge-Based High-Tech Industry is a collection of short papers from prominent researchers.
