The Lost Girl D. H. Lawrence,2025-02-10T21:59:26Z Alvina Houghton is the only daughter of James Houghton a merchant in the English Midlands whose business sense is insufficient to ensure his family s prosperity Alvina is independent minded and struggles to fit in with the society around her none of the available men spark her interest and she begins training as a maternity nurse more out of a sense of obligation than of duty As her father s business continues to do poorly he decides to open a theater with Alvina helping by playing the piano A traveling troupe of international entertainers arrive and Alvina soon falls in love with one of them an Italian named Ciccio As the outbreak of the First World War looms Alvina feels drawn to rural Italy to live with her love But after having spent a lifetime as an aimless freethinking and unconstrained spirit can she adapt to the expectations of society firmly entrenched in the past Like many of D H Lawrence s novels The Lost Girl is built around a realistic depiction of English Midland life and society Despite modern assessments placing it among the lesser of his novels it won the James Tait Black Memorial Prize for Fiction in 1920 This book is part of the Standard Ebooks project which produces free public domain ebooks Lippincott's Monthly Magazine ,1868 The Lost Girl David Herbert Lawrence,1921

Tractor, and the Lost History of the Belfast Shire, 1945? Ian Geddes,2014 The Dailys of Soddan Fen Susanna C. Venn,1884 Black & White Zachary Alexander Funderburk,2013-04-16 Black White is a compilation of poetry that has been put together through many hard tough years The poems inside of the book are the ones that seemed fit for the publication process chosen by the author and approved by the publication company There e are many different types of poetry and many different themes and messages throughout the book Lewis Creek Lost and Found Kevin T. Dann,2001 Well known for his imaginative treatment of environmental issues Kevin Dann presents a natural history of the Lewis Creek watershed in Vermont's Champlain Valley told largely through the lives and thought of three individuals whose investigations brought them into close contact with the area Congregationalist minister John Perry 1825 1872 conducted paleontological research on the region's Paleozoic rock and attempted to negotiate his era's confrontation between science and religion Rowland Robinson 1833 1900 was a Quaker farmer and author artist whose historical fiction often dealt with issues of human impact on this watershed The first plant hunting expeditions of another Quaker farmer and noted plant collector Cyrus Pringle 1838 1911 took place in this watershed as well Dann's account of these three men whose lives span nearly a century graphically illustrates contemporary human nature relationships at the same time that it suggests the limits of science in circumscribing our experience of the physical landscape The experience of pain and loss is documented along with the stories of success and celebration since as Dann writes Genuine places like human hearts have dark recesses within them and by examining these recesses within the Lewis Creek watershed we take a small step toward demythologizing Vermont

John McGahern John Singleton, 2023-11-17 John McGahern 1934 2006 believed that fiction could act as a window on the world Such windows however frame our fields of vision alter and shape our perspectives Far from being static the artist's perspective must continually evolve This book provides a literary analysis of John McGahern's artistic and poetic vision his ways of looking examining the shifting focus of this vision how and why it develops what effects such developments have on the work's forms and how these forms evolve at what times and in response to what stimuli This volume demonstrates that such developments mirror an analogous social expansion during the latter half of the twentieth century and argues that McGahern's literary spaces relate to his efforts to realise a more accommodating form to envelop the structureless society While the number of critical studies on McGahern has increased markedly in recent years research still tends to fall into the well established camps of social realism or literary aestheticism This text aims to explore the common ground between the material context and social worlds of each work and the hermeneutics of a traditional literary investigation It traverses such divides through close readings of McGahern's work with attention to the topopoetical production of images of the house the home and the family unit The book ultimately shows how attention to McGahern's literary spaces provides a greater understanding of the aesthetic vision and form of each novel and allows us to understand those aspects relative to the social cultural and political undercurrents of the works individually and collectively
