Theories of Human Development Michael G. Green, John A. Piel, 2015-07-14 The authors have grouped the theories into three classical families which differ in their views relative to the prime motives underlying human nature They show how theories are specific examples of more general points of view called paradigms The theories chosen to represent the three paradigms the Endogenous Paradigm Exogenous Paradigm and the Constructivist Paradigm were selected because they met four criteria importance as judged by academic and research psychologists fertility as judged by the amount of research the theory has generated scope as judged by the variety of phenomena the various theories explain family resemblance as judged by how well each theory represents its paradigm The authors present the paradigm case in the lead chapter for each paradigm This paradigm case is the best example for the paradigm The authors explain why paradigm cases are important and give them more detailed treatment than other theories in the same paradigm The SAGE Encyclopedia of Lifespan Human Development Marc H. Encyclopedia of Human Development Neil J. Salkind, 2006 Publisher description

Understanding Human Development Ursula M. Staudinger, Ulman E.R. Lindenberger, 2012-12-06 K Warner Schaie I am pleased to write a foreword for this interesting volume particularly as over many years I have had the privilege of interacting with the editors and a majority of the contributors in various professional roles as a colleague mentor or research collaborator The editors begin their introduction by asking why one would want to read yet another book on human development They immediately answer their question by pointing out that many developmentally oriented texts and other treatises neglect the theoretical foundations of human development and fail to embed psychological constructs within the multidisciplinary context so essential to understanding development This volume provides a positive remedy to past deficiencies in volumes on human development with a well organized structure that leads the reader from a general introduction through the basic processes to methodological issues and the relation of developmental constructs to social context and biological infrastructure This approach does not surprise After all the editors and most of the contributors at one time or another had a connection to the Max Planck Institute of Human Development in Berlin whether as students junior scientists or senior visitors That institute under the leadership of Paul Baltes has been instrumental in pursuing a systematic lifespan approach to the study of cognition and personality Over the past two decades it has influenced the careers of a generation of scientists who have advocated long term studies of human development in an interdisciplinary context Research in Education ,1971 Behavioral Medicine John S. Wodarski,2009-04-03 Health care costs and the effective management of health care are of primary importance and concern to federal state and local governments Consequently it is necessary to develop innovative successful and integrated cost effective treatments and procedures Behavioral Medicine presents a new model to address these needs Behavioral Medicine discusses the composition of effective psychosocial treatment and presents a cost analysis of social work and its services By defining the problems that need to be addressed in health care costs and management applying research and using studies this text presents an effective model for health care organizations It also presents a profile of the Behavioral Social Worker which defines the abilities needed to be effective in the role and looks at the key impact areas for a behavioral health model This is a comprehensive guide for social workers preparing to work in health care organizations and for existing social workers academics and practitioners of behavioral medicine in health settings Motivational Psychology of Human Development J. Heckhausen,2000-09-15 The idea for this book grew out of the conference Motivational Psychology of Ontogenesis held at the Max Planck Institute for Human Development in Berlin Germany in May 1998 This conference focused on the interface of development and motivation and therefore brought together scholars from three major areas in psychology developmental motivational and lifespan This combination of fields represents the potential influence of development on motivation and the potential role motivation plays in development and its major contexts of family work and school Thus contributors were chosen to apply motivational models to diverse settings of human everyday life and in various age groups across the life span ranging from early childhood to old age Research Grants Index National Institutes of Health (U.S.). Division of Research Grants,1970 Research Awards Index ,1984 Communication and Metacommunication in Human Development Jaan Valsiner,Angela Uchoa Branco,2006-01-01 The book is divided into three parts In Part I basic conceptual and theoretical issues concerning communication and metacommunication are presented Part II continues the coverage with the issues of communication and metacommunication Those are extended as each chapter puts forward new insights and contextualizes them within the realms of teaching learning processes early adaptation to nursery school contexts and of the analysis of processes occurring at a particular dimension of human development gender identity Part III provides further conceptual and theoretical elaborations on the phenomena from the unique viewpoints of scholars with diverse backgrounds which definitely furnish scientific discussion over the issue with fresh and productive ideas Throughout the chapters the reader is supplied with empirical projects conducted in different research laboratories each study granting novel illustrations of methodological approaches to analyze the complexities of communication and metacommunication processes and their relevant constitutive roles in specific contexts Issues in Human Development National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (U.S.),1971
