Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics XXVIII Youssef A. Haddad, Eric Potsdam, 2016-05-25 This volume makes important contributions to the growing body of descriptive and theoretical studies in Arabic linguistics. It focuses on the rich linguistic work being done on Arabic dialects. The papers on individual dialects draw attention to the micro variation that exists and emphasize that they do not comprise a uniform group and reveal the implications of dialectal variation for linguistic theory. The chapters are distributed over three parts: phonetics and phonology, syntax and sociolinguistics. They address first and second language acquisition, historical linguistics, phonetics, aspects of negation, light verb constructions, raising verbs and sociolinguistic variation. The book is indispensable reading for those working in dialect description, the analysis of Arabic and the Semitic languages and linguistic theory more generally.

Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics XXVII Stuart Davis, Usama Soltan, 2016-07-26 The study of Arabic dialects has been an important and rich area of research over the past thirty-five years or so, with significant implications for modern linguistic analysis. The current volume builds on this tradition with ten scholarly contributions that provide novel data and analyses in multiple areas of Arabic linguistics: Syntax and its interfaces, regional and sociolinguistic variation, and first language acquisition. The linguistic facts in the volume are drawn from the various Arabic dialects spoken in North Africa, Egypt, the Arabian Peninsula, the Levant, and Standard Arabic, and the analyses proposed reflect current approaches in linguistic theory. The volume therefore should be of interest to formal linguists, sociolinguists, historical linguists, dialectologists, as well as researchers on first language acquisition. It is our hope that the papers in this volume will spur more interest in and research on further aspects of Arabic linguistics.

Language Patterns in Spanish and Beyond Juan J. Colomina-Almiñana, Sandro Sessarego, 2020-10-25 The scholarly articles included in this volume represent significant contributions to the fields of formal and descriptive syntax, conversational analysis, and speech act theory, as well as language development and bilingualism. Taken together, these studies adopt a variety of methodological techniques ranging from grammaticality judgments to corpus-based analysis to experimental approaches to offer rich insights into different aspects of Ibero-Romance grammar. The volume consists of three parts organized in accordance with the topics treated in the chapters; they comprise Part I, which focuses on structural patterns; Part II, which analyzes pragmatic ones; and Part III, which investigates the acquisition of linguistic aspects found in the speech of L1, L2, and heritage speakers. The authors address these issues by relying on empirically rooted linguistic approaches to data collection, which are coupled with current theoretical assumptions on the nature of sentence structure, discourse dynamics, and language acquisition. The volume will be of interest to anyone researching or studying Hispanic and Ibero-Romance linguistics.

Some Aspects of Moroccan Arabic Agrammatism Samir Diouny, 2010-04-16 This book is a contribution to the ongoing debate in agrammatism an acquired language disorder resulting from left hemisphere brain damage The aim of the book is 1 to give a comprehensive account of agrammatism and outlines and critically examines the different accounts of agrammatic production and asyntactic comprehension 2 to address morphological and structural properties of Moroccan Arabic agrammatic speech and 3 to put under scrutiny Friedmann and Grodzinsky s 1997 syntactic account of tense and agreement in production and across modalities The book attempts to answer two important research questions Are tense and agreement dissociated as predicted by the Tree Pruning Hypothesis Friedmann and Grodzinsky 1997 Is the tense agreement dissociation production specific or does it extend to comprehension and grammaticality judgment A third objective of the book is to examine the comprehension abilities of four Moroccan Arabic speaking agrammatic subjects in the light of the Trace Deletion Hypothesis Grodzinsky 1995 a b A major research question is whether or not active sentences and subject relative sentences are understood better than object relative sentences The book takes the view the tense agreement dissociation reported for Hebrew Friedmann and Grodzinsky 1997 and German Wenzlaff and Clahsen 2003 can be replicated in Moroccan Arabic However the syntactic account as outlined in Friedmann and Grodzinsky 1997 cannot account for the tense agreement dissociation as Moroccan Arabic has the agreement node above the tense node In addition the Trace Deletion Hypothesis cannot account for the comprehension difficulties experienced by the four Moroccan Arabic speaking agrammatic subjects the case is so because both subject relatives and object relatives are understood below chance level Based on data collected through different experimental methods it is argued that the deficit in agrammatism cannot be explained in terms of a structural account but rather in terms of a processing account Access to syntactic knowledge tends to be blocked grammatical knowledge however is entirely intact Malayalam Verbs Amanda Swenson, 2019-09-23 This book using Malayalam as a case study provides an in depth exploration of how inflectional suffixes should be separated from the verb and the implications this has for the syntax and semantics Past work has proposed that Malayalam lacks a Tense Phrase and tense morphology i e is tenseless However this book shows that Malayalam behaves differently from other tenseless languages and that it does have tense morphology It also provides evidence that there is a Tense Phrase in the syntax In addition it examines what have been called the two imperfectives and argues that one is a type of progressive while the other is a pluractional marker and shows that Malayalam lacks perfect morphology and a Perfect Phrase in minimally Universal perfects With respect to finiteness among other things it argues that Conjunctive Participles are best analyzed as a type of absolutive adjunct and that athu gerunds involve nominalization above the Tense Phrase level This book will be a valuable resource for anyone interested in cross linguistic variation in Tense Aspect Modality and or the morphosyntax or morphosemantics of Dravidian languages
