Projecting Tomorrow James Chapman, Nicholas J. Cull, 2013-01-30 Cinema and science fiction were made for each other. The science fiction genre has produced some of the most extraordinary films ever made yet science fiction cinema is about more than just special effects. It has also provided a vehicle for filmmakers and writers to comment on their own societies and cultures. This new exploration of the genre examines landmark science fiction films from the 1930s to the present. They include genre classics such as Things to Come, Forbidden Planet and 2001: A Space Odyssey alongside modern blockbusters Star Wars and Avatar. Chapman and Cull consider both screen originals and adaptations of the work of major science fiction authors. They also range widely across the genre from pulp adventure and space opera to political allegory and speculative documentary; there is even a science fiction musical. Informed throughout by extensive research in US and British archives, the book documents the production histories of each film to show how they made their way to the screen and why they turned out the way they did.

H. G. Wells' Things to Come, 2013 H.G. Wells' Things to Come, 1936 After a 25 year war destroys civilization, a group of scientific supermen set out to build a new one. In this science fiction film, decades later their progress is threatened by a reactionary who urges the masses to rise up in protest.

"British Music and Modernism, 1895-1960" Matthew Riley, 2017-07-05 Imaginative analytical and critical work on British music of the early twentieth century has been hindered by perceptions of the repertoire as insular in its references and backward in its style and syntax, escaping the modernity that surrounded its composers. Recent research has begun to break down these perceptions and has found intriguing links between British music and modernism. This book brings together contributions from scholars working in analysis, hermeneutics, reception history, critical theory, and the history of ideas. Three overall themes emerge from its chapters: accounts of British reactions to Continental modernism and the forms they took; links between music and the visual arts; and analysis and interpretation of compositions in the light of recent theoretical work on form, tonality, and pitch organization.

British Film Institute Film Classics Rob White, Edward Buscombe, 2003 Public Opinion Polling in Mid-Century British Literature Megan Faragher, 2021-08-19

Whereas modernist writers lauded the consecrated realm of subjective interiority mid century writers were engrossed by the materialization of the collective mind An obsession with group thinking was fuelled by the establishment of academic sociology and the ubiquitous infiltration of public opinion research into a bevy of cultural and governmental institutions As authors witnessed the materialization of the once opaque realm of public consciousness for the first time their writings imagined the potentialities of such technologies for the body politic Polling opened new horizons for mass politics Public Opinion Polling in Mid Century British Literature traces this most crucial period of group psychology s evolution the mid century when psychography a term originating in Victorian spiritualism transformed into a scientific praxis The imbrication of British writers within a growing institutionalized public opinion infrastructure bolstered an aesthetic turn towards collectivity and an interest in the political ramifications of meta psychological discourse Examining works by H G Wells Evelyn Waugh Val Gielgud Olaf Stapledon Virginia Woolf Naomi Mitchison Celia Fremlin Cecil Day Lewis and Elizabeth Bowen this book utilizes extensive archival research to trace the embeddedness of writers within public opinion institutions providing a fresh explanation for the new material turn so often associated with interwar writing Victorian Visions of Suburban Utopia Nathaniel Robert Walker,2020-11-17 The rise of suburbs and the disinvestment from cities have been defining features of life in many countries over the course of the twentieth century especially English speaking countires The separation of different aspects of life such as living and working and the diffusion of the population in far flung garden homes have necessitated the enormous consumption of natural lands and the constant use of mechanized transportation Why did we abandon our dense complex urban places and seek to find the best of the city and the country in the flowery suburbs Looking back at the architecture and urban design of the 1800s offers some answers but a missing piece in the story is found in Victorian utopian literature The replacement of cities with high tech suburbs was repeatedly imagined and breathlessly described in the socialist dreams and science fiction fantasies of dozens of British and American authors Some of these visionaries such as Robert Owen Edward Bulwer Lytton Edward Bellamy William Morris Ebenezer Howard and H G Wells are enduringly famous while others were street vendors or amateur chemists who have been all but forgotten Together they fashioned strange and beautiful imaginary worlds built of synthetic gemstones lacy metal colonnades and unbreakable glass staffed by robotic servants and teeming with flying carriages As different as their futuristic visions could be however most of them were unified by a single desperate plea for humanity to have a future worth living we must abandon our smoky poor chaotic Babylonian cities for a life in shimmering gardens The Anticipation Novelists of 1950s French Science Fiction Bradford Lyau,2014-01-10 Following World War II the Fleuve Noir publishing house published popular American genre fiction in translation for a French audience Their imprint Anticipation specialized in science fiction but mostly eschewed translations from English preferring instead French work thus making the imprint an important outlet for native French postwar ideas and aesthetics This critical text examines in ideological terms eleven writers who published under the

Anticipation imprint revealing the way these writers criticized midcentury notions of progress while adapting and reworking American genre formats

The Art and Science of Making the New Man in Early 20th-Century Russia Yvonne Howell, Nikolai Kremmentsov, 2021-12-02 The idea that morally mentally and physically superior new men might replace the currently existing mankind has periodically seized the imagination of intellectuals leaders and reformers throughout history This volume offers a multidisciplinary investigation into how the new man was made in Russia and the early Soviet Union in the first third of the 20th century The traditional narrative of the Soviet new man as a creature forged by propaganda is challenged by the strikingly new and varied case studies presented here The book focuses on the interplay between the rapidly developing experimental life sciences such as biology medicine and psychology and countless cultural products ranging from film and fiction dolls and museum exhibits to pedagogical projects sculptures and exemplary agricultural fairs With contributions from scholars based in the United States Canada the UK Germany and Russia the picture that emerges is emphatically more complex contradictory and suggestive of strong parallels with other new man visions in Europe and elsewhere In contrast to previous interpretations that focused largely on the apparent disconnect between utopian new man rhetoric and the harsh realities of everyday life in the Soviet Union this volume brings to light the surprising historical trajectories of new man visions their often obscure origins acclaimed and forgotten champions unexpected and complicated results and mutual interrelations In short the volume is a timely examination of a recurring theme in modern history when dramatic advancements in science and technology conjoin with anxieties about the future to fuel dreams of a new and improved mankind

The Shape Of Things To Come H.G. Wells, 2017-06-08 When Dr Philip Raven a diplomat working for the League of Nations dies in the 1930s he leaves behind a book of dreams outlining the visions he has been experiencing for many years These visions seem to be glimpses into the future detailing events that will occur on Earth for the next two hundred years This fictional history of the future proved prescient in many ways as Wells predicted events such as the Second World War the rise of chemical warfare climate change and the growing instability of the Middle East

Palumbo, 2014-01-10 Written by international experts from a range of disciplines these essays examine the uniquely British contribution to science fiction film and television Viewing British SF as a cultural phenomenon that challenges straightforward definitions of genre nationhood authorship and media the editors provide a conceptual introduction placing the essays within their critical context Essay topics include Hammer science fiction films the various incarnations of Doctor Who Stanley Kubrick's A Clockwork Orange and such 21st century productions as 28 Days Later and Torchwood

Unbelievable Michael Newton Keas, 2019-01-08 Unbelievable explodes seven of the most popular and pernicious myths about science and religion Michael Newton Keas a historian of science lays out the facts to show how far the conventional wisdom departs from reality He also shows how these myths have proliferated over the past four centuries and exert so much influence today infiltrating science textbooks and popular culture The seven myths Keas shows amount to little more than religion bashing especially Christianity bashing Unbelievable reveals Why the Dark Ages never happened Why we didn't need Christopher Columbus to prove the earth was round Why Copernicus would be shocked to learn that he supposedly demoted humans from the center of the universe What everyone gets wrong about Galileo's clash with the Church and why it matters today Why the vastness of the universe does not deal a blow to religious belief in human significance How the popular account of Giordano Bruno as a martyr for science ignores the fact that he was executed for theological reasons not scientific ones How a new myth is being positioned to replace religion a futuristic myth that sounds scientific but isn't In debunking these myths Keas shows that the real history is much more interesting than the common narrative of religion at war with science This accessible and entertaining book offers an invaluable resource to students scholars teachers homeschoolers and religious believers tired of being portrayed as anti intellectual and anti science

Ecology and the Literature of the British Left H. Gustav Klaus, Valentine Cunningham, 2016-04-29 Premised on the belief that a social and an ecological agenda are compatible this collection offers readings in the ecology of left and radical writing from the Romantic period to the present While early ecocriticism tended to elide the bitter divisions within and between societies recent practitioners of ecofeminism environmental justice and social ecology have argued that the social the economic and the environmental have to be seen as part of the same process Taking up this challenge the contributors trace the origins of an environmental sensibility and of the modern left to their roots in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries charting the ways in which the literary imagination responds to the political industrial and agrarian revolutions Topics include Samuel Taylor Coleridge's credentials as a green writer the interaction between John Ruskin's religious and political ideas and his changing view of nature William Morris and the Garden City movement H G Wells and the Fabians the devastated landscapes in the poetry and fiction of the First World War and the leftist pastoral poetry of the 1930s In historicizing and connecting environmentally sensitive literature with socialist thought these essays explore the interactive vision of nature and society in the work of writers ranging from William Wordsworth and John Clare to John Berger and John Burnside Heritage Signature Vintage Movie Poster Auction #636 ,2006 Vente d'affiches de cinéma les 12 et 13 juillet 2006 Dallas Texas USA The Works of H. G. Wells Herbert George Wells, 1926 Literature and Modern Time Trish Ferguson, 2020-05-06 Literature and Modern Time is a collection of essays that explore literature in the context of a wave of challenges to linear conceptions of time introduced by thinkers such as Bergson Einstein McTaggart Freud and Nietzsche These challenges were not uniform in character The volume will demonstrate that literature of the era under scrutiny was not simply reacting to new theories of time in some cases it is actually inspiring and anticipating them Thus Literature and Modern Time promises to offer a genuine dialogue between literature and time theory and in doing so will uncover and examine influences and connections sometimes unexpected between philosophers and writers of the era It will examine literary attempts to transcend and escape time and also challenge rupture based accounts of modernist time by demonstrating that literary texts commonly associated with brokenness decline or stasis also at the same time maintain faith in healing renewal and mobility This collection contains interdisciplinary research of the quite highest kind to see so many different kinds of time narrative historical mechanical subjective non linear time myth and nostalgia as well as time space discussed here is very stimulating indeed Professor Simon James Liberal Ideals and the Politics of Decolonisation H. Kumarasingham,2020-11-25 Liberal Ideals and the Politics of Decolonisation explores the subject of liberalism and its uses and contradictions across the late British Empire especially in the context of imperial dissolution and subsequent state building The book covers multiple regions and issues concerning the British Empire and the Commonwealth in particular the period ranging from the late nineteenth century to the late twentieth century Original intellectual contributions are offered along with new arguments on critical issues in imperial history that will appeal to a wide range of scholars including those outside of history Liberal Ideals and the Politics of Decolonisation exposes commonalities contradictions and contexts of different types of liberalism that animated the late British Empire and its rulers radicals subjects and citizens as they attempted to forge new states from its shadow and understand the impact of imperialism This book examines the complexities of the idea and quest for self government in the last stages of the British Empire It also argues the importance of the political intellectual and empirical aspects of liberalism to understand the process of decolonisation The chapters in this book were originally published in a special issue of The Journal of Imperial and Commonwealth History From Bauhaus to Ecohouse Peder Anker,2010-01-01 Global warming and concerns about sustainability recently have pushed ecological design to the forefront of architectural study and debate As Peder Anker explains in From Bauhaus to Ecohouse despite claims of novelty debates about environmentally sensitive architecture have been ongoing for nearly a century By exploring key moments of inspiration between designers and ecologists from the Bauhaus projects of the interwar period to the eco arks of the 1980s Anker traces the historical intersection of architecture and ecological science and assesses how both remain intertwined philosophically and pragmatically within the still evolving field of ecological design The idea that science could improve human life attracted architects and designers who looked to the science of ecology to better their methodologies Walter Gropius the founder of the Bauhaus school taught that designed form should follow the laws of nature in order to function effectively With the Bauhaus movement ecology and design merged and laid the foundation of modernist architecture Anker discusses in detail how the former faculty members of the Bauhaus school including L szl Maholy Nagy and Herbert Bayer left Nazi Germany in the mid 1930s and engaged with ecologists during their London period and in the U S A subsequent generation of students and admirers of Bauhaus such as Richard Buckminster Fuller and Ian McHarg picked up their program and under the general banner of merging art and science in the design process Bauhaus minded architects began to think ecologically while some ecologists lent their ideas to design Anker charts complicated currents of ecological design thought spanning pre and post World War II and through the cold war including pivotal changes such as the emergence of space exploration and new theories on closed system living in space capsules space stations and planetary colonies Space ecology Anker explains inspired leading landscape designers of the 1970s who used the imagined life of astronauts as a model for how humans should live in harmony with nature Theories of how to design for extraterrestrial living impacted design and ecological thinking for earth based living as well as evidenced in Disney s Spaceship Earth attraction as well as in the Biosphere 2 experiments in Arizona in the early 1990s Illuminating important connections between theories about the relationship between humans and the built environment Anker s provocative study provides new insight into a critical period in the evolution of environmental awareness
