H. Hessels,2014-02-03

THE best and most critical account of the History of Printing with movable type Every document connected with the History of the Invention of Printing has been verified by the energetic and intelligent author The mystery still remains who was the inventor of Printing That Gutenberg was an early printer Mr Hessels fully admits Only 200 copies were originally printed for sale Mr J H Hessels the translator of Van der Linde s Coster Legend commenced a series of articles about two years ago in the London Printing Times under the title of Gutenberg Was He the Inventor of Printing being a review of a more recent work by the same author entitled Gutenberg The articles came to a sudden termination the writer finding it necessary to consult various documents abroad in order to arrive at certain facts The long silence which intervened has at last been broken by the appearance of a handsome volume now before us in which Mr Hessels has endeavoured to clear up the mystery so long surrounding the identity of the first printer and in order to this he paid two visits to Paris and spent seven weeks in Germany exploring the libraries and archives of Strassburg Mentz and other prominent cities While it is impossible to resuscitate the corpse of the mythical Holland proto typographer Coster the result of Mr Hessels researches do not justify him in giving Gutenberg the credit of inventing the art but only establishing the fact of his being a printer and he regrets that after all his labours he must leave the quest on which he started yet unsolved summarizing the result of his investigation in the following statement As early as Nov 16 1454 two printers were at work at Mentz the name of one of them may have been Johann Gutenberg perhaps subsidized by Johann Fust but it is not stated anywhere the name of the other is in all probability Peter Schoeffer de Gernssheym That the latter did not consider himself to have been the first or even the chief printer of Mentz seems sufficiently clear from what we may call his own statement in the imprint of the Justinianus of 24 May 1468 in which he speaks of two Johannes One of these Johannes must have been Johann Fust who was the other Everybody says Gutenberg and I am in no position to contradict it A very complete account is given of several books from the press of the Brothers of Common Life not heretofore described and a photograph of a page of an Eltville book the type of which has never been before noticed Mr Hessels volume is one of great value to whoever may hereafter follow in his wake and a real acquisition to the history of printing The work is elegantly produced by Bernard Quaritch consisting of xxvii 201 pages octavo printed on hand made paper Roxburghe binding only 200 copies printed for sale The Quadrant Pittsburgh U S A June 1882 Everyone interested in the early history of printing must read Mr Hessels book itself It is both destructive and constructive much of the ground upon which the claim for Gutenberg was raised is cleared away but still nothing is discovered that actually destroys that claim In his work of destruction Mr Hessels has constructed a solid foundation of bibliographical fact for others to follow up by further researches The Bibliographer August 1882 Wings for Words Douglas Crawford McMurtrie, 1940 A biography of the man who developed the process of printing from moveable type in the fifteenth century Observations on the Mystery of Print and the Work of Johann Gutenberg Hendrik Willem Van Loon, 1937 We the Book Manufacturers Institute are engaged in a solemn endeavor to bring to fruition this co operation among the several groups whose labors go into the making of a book and one of the most agreeable tasks afforded us during the course of a year is the planning and preparation of a volume to be distributed at the annual Book Fair the provision of a work which thousands will read and cherish as a souvenir of a truly memorable event Foreword Johann Gutenberg and the Amazing Printing Press Bruce Koscielniak, 2008-01-01 If this book had been published 600 years ago it would have been copied out by hand by a scribe in a monastery probably would have taken months to produce But thanks to Johann Gutenberg in the 15th century modern printing was born nowadays it can take only a few seconds to print a book Gutenberg invented the printing press as well as a new type of ink a new way to cast type Open this book to learn the incredible story of Johann Gutenberg the history of early printing publishing Bruce Koscielniak has crafted an informative entertaining book about one of the most important inventions of all time Illustrations Gutenberg and the Impact of Printing Stephan Füssel, 2020-01-29 From typefounding through typesetting to the printing process itself this narrative offers a fresh look at the unprecedented success story of the spread of the black art right across Europe in a mere 40 years Stephan Füssel here analyses the first early printings placing them in the context of the history of communication and the intellectual climate of a Europe wide educated elite by about 1500 He foregrounds the tremendous rise in European culture and the history of education experienced as a direct result of this media revolution In separate chapters Füssel depicts the fast spreading of the art of printing to Italy France and England at the same time highlighting the importance of the art of printing for the Roman Catholic Church the Reformation the University and the economy From herbals to a guide for midwives the present book shows popular instruction at work in the vernacular as well as the consolidation of knowledge into encyclopedias in the early modern period and the emergence of new forms of the prose novel and the beginnings of newspapers and periodicals Finally Stephan Füssel traces the modern resonances of Gutenberg's invention which persisted in virtually unchanged form for a further 350 years It underwent decisive technological change through industrialisation and mechanisation in the nineteenth century and again through digitalisation at the close of the twentieth century However as Füssel shows the mass diffusion of information and the related communications revolution which began with Gutenberg continue unabated Gutenberg, and the Art of Printing Emily Clemens Pearson, 1879
