John March Southerner:

John March, Southerner George Cable, 2021-12-02 John March, Southerner George Washington Cable, 1918 John March Southerner George Washington Cable, 2025-03 John March Southerner is a coming of age narrative set in a South transformed by the Civil War focusing on a young man's exploration of personal identity and the societal shifts surrounding him. The story emphasizes the intricacies of familial bonds contrasting old Southern traditions with the emerging ideals of the post-war period. The protagonist's journey reflects the tension between innocence and awareness as he grapples with class, race, and the evolving identity of the South. Through his relationships with those around him, the story underscores themes of moral development, the clash between freedom and societal expectations, and the complexities of navigating a society scarred by its past. The unfolding of John's story enhances the emotional depth of personal transformation and the impact of historical change on individual lives. The narrative engages with the notions of duty, responsibility, and the consequences of one's actions within a community torn between progress and tradition, all while portraying the Southern landscape as a character in itself, shaped by its history and culture.

John March George Washington Cable, 2017-08-12 George Washington Cable (October 12, 1844 – January 31, 1925) was an American novelist notable for the realism of his portrayals of Creole life in his native New Orleans, Louisiana. He has been called the most important southern artist working in the late 19th century as well as the first modern southern writer. In his treatment of racism, mixed race families, and miscegenation, his fiction has been thought to anticipate that of William Faulkner. He also wrote articles critical of contemporary society. Due to hostility against him, after two 1885 essays encouraging racial equality and opposing Jim Crow, Cable moved with his family to Northampton, Massachusetts. He lived there for the next thirty years, then moved to Florida. Biography: Cable was born in 1844 in New Orleans, Louisiana, the son of George W. Cable Sr. and Rebecca Boardman Cable. They were wealthy slaveholders who were members of the Presbyterian Church and New Orleans society, whose families had moved there after the Louisiana Purchase. First educated in private schools, the younger Cable had to get work after his father died young. The elder Cable had lost investments, and the family struggled financially. Cable later learned French on his own. He served in the Confederate Army during the American Civil War, in which he took part in support of the Southern cause. His experiences changed his ideas about Southern and Louisiana society, and he began writing during a two-year bout with malaria. In 1870, Cable went into journalism, writing for the New Orleans Picayune. He worked for them from 1865 to 1879, by which time he had become an established writer. In 1869, George Cable married Louisa Stewart Bartlett, with whom he had several children. He was invited to submit stories to Scribner's Monthly, where his story Sieur George, published in 1873, was a critical and popular success. He published six more stories of Creole life with Scribner's in the following three years The stories were collected and published in a book in 1879 as Old Creole Days While romantic in plot the stories revealed the multi cultural and multi racial nature of antebellum New Orleans society with ties among French Spanish African Native American and Caribbean Creoles He also addressed conflicts that arose following the Louisiana Purchase when traditional New Orleans Creoles of color had to confront Anglo Americans who ultimately asserted their concept of a biracial society rather than acknowledging the multiracial class of free people of color In 1880 Cable published his first novel The Grandissimes A Story of Creole Life portraying multiracial members and different classes of society in the early 1800s shortly after the Louisiana Purchase It had first been serialized in Scribner's The plot follows the adventures and romances of several members of the Grandissime family a French Creole family with mixed race members He used this historical romance as a way to explore society and its racial injustice as he addressed European Creoles the mixed race class placage slavery and lynchings Also in 1880 the United States Census Bureau commissioned Cable to write a historical sketch of pre Civil War New Orleans for a special section of the 10th United States Census Social statistics of cities He submitted a well researched 313 page history It was greatly reduced for publication in 1884 His novella Madame Delphine 1881 expanded from a short story featured the issue of miscegenation in which a woman of partially African descent tries to arrange the marriage of her daughter who has more European ancestry to one of the French Creole elite In 1884 he published a work Dr Sevier on prison reform

Tell About the South Fred Hobson,1983-10-01 In this insight studded work that established him as the premier interpreter of southern literary culture Fred Hobson explores the southern urge toward self examination the seeming compulsion of southern writers to discuss their region some defending it others damning it He focuses on fourteen practitioners of the southern genre of regional confession who wrote between 1850 and 1970 showing how they in many cases linking their own destinies with the fate of the South produced deeply felt impassioned books that sought to explain the region to outsiders as well as to fellow southerners and perhaps most of all to themselves

The Literary Career of Charles W. Chesnutt William L. Andrews,1999-03-01 The career of any black writer in nineteenth century American was fraught with difficulties and William Andrews undertakes to explain how and why Charles Waddell Chesnutt 1858 1932 became the first Negro novelist of importance Steering a difficult course between becoming co opted by his white literary supporters and becoming alienated from them and their access to the publishing medium Chesnutt became the first Afro American writer to use the white controlled mass media in the service of serious fiction on behalf of the black community Awarded the Spingarn Medal in 1928 by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Chesnutt admitted without apologies that because of his own experiences most of his writings concentrated on issue about racial identity Only one eighth Negro and able to pass for Caucasian Chesnutt dramatized the dilemma of others like him The House Behind the Cedars 1900 Chesnutt s most autobiographical novel evokes the world of bright mulatto caste in post Civil War North Carolina and pictures the punitive consequences of being of mixed heritage Chesnutt not only made a crucial break with many literary conventions regarding

Afro American life crafting his authentic material with artistic distinction he also broached the moral issue of the racial caste system and dared to suggest that a gradual blending of the races would alleviate a pernicious blight on the nation's moral progress Andrews argues that along with Cable in The Grandissimes and Mark Twain in Pudd'nhead Wilson Chesnutt anticipated Faulkner in focusing on miscegenation even more than slavery as the repressed myth of the American past and a powerful metaphor of southern post Civil War history Although Chesnutt's career suffered setback and though he was faced with compromises he consistently saw America's race problem as intrinsically moral rather than social or political In his fiction he pictures the strengths of Afro Americans and affirms their human dignity and heroic will William L Andrews provides an account of essentially all that Chesnutt wrote covering the unpublished manuscripts as well as the more successful efforts and viewing these materials in the context of the author's times and of his total career Though the scope of this book extends beyond textual criticism the thoughtful discussions of Chesnutt's works afford us a vivid and gratifying acquaintance with the fiction and also account for an important episode in American letters and history Southern Writers William Malone Baskervill, 1897 Redefining Southern Culture James Charles Cobb, 1999 Cobb surveys the remarkable story of southern identity and its persistence in the face of sweeping changes in the South's economy society and political structure dust jacket
