John Ringling Dreamer Builder Collector Legacy Of The Circus King:

John Ringling John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art, 1996 Magician of the Modern Eugene R. Gaddis, 2011-11-09

The story of Chick Austin is the story in Virgil Thomson's words of a whole cultural movement in one man. Becoming director of Hartford's Wadsworth Atheneum at the age of twenty-six, Austin immediately set about to introduce modern art to America and to transform this conservative insurance capital into a cultural mecca that would become the talk of the art world during the yeasty years between the two world wars. The first in the United States to mount a major Picasso retrospective, Austin was soon acquiring works by Dalí, Mondrian, Miró, Balthus, Max Ernst, and Alexander Calder. In the museum's new theater, which he designed, he staged the premiere of the revolutionary Gertrude Stein and Virgil Thomson opera Four Saints in Three Acts with an all-black cast. At Lincoln Kirstein's instigation, he brought Balanchine to America. And he embraced all the new art forms, making film, photography, architecture, and contemporary music part of the life of his museum. For his own family, he built a Palladian villa, now a recently restored national historic landmark, filling it with the baroque and the Bauhaus and inviting all the locals in to see how it felt to be modern. Austin's instinct for quality proved infallible. Whether acquiring a matchless Caravaggio or a startling Dalí, he balanced the old masters with the modern. Mounting provocative shows that linked the past to the present, he created dramatic installations and he threw himself into everything, hanging fabrics, creating backdrops, stitching up costumes. He loved to teach, to paint, to act, to give lavish costume balls, and to dazzle audiences of all ages with his performances as a magician. The Great Osram Brilliant at using his magician's sleight of hand, he could manipulate his conservative trustees to get what he wanted, but only up to a point. One more purchase of an incomprehensible abstract canvas, one outrageous party too many, one more shocking theatrical role eventually led to a crisis. Never one to be idle for long, Austin left Hartford and took on a new challenge: to make an artistic triumph of the pink and white palace in Sarasota, Florida, known as the John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art, which housed the circus king's moldering but magnificent collection. Here is the colorful life of Chick Austin, and as we relish his audacious career, the risks he took, the successes he enjoyed, along with the inevitable setbacks, we understand what a far-reaching influence he had on the way Americans look at and think about art. Not only a brilliant portrait of an extraordinary man, this wonderfully American story gives us a fascinating behind-the-scenes glimpse into the art world as it was then and in many ways still is today. The Evolving House Museum, 2024-08-05

This volume explores twelve house museums created over more than two centuries and founded across the globe. What motivates collectors to establish independent house museums instead of donating their collections to preexisting institutions? How have collectors' original intentions manifested themselves in their museums? Have founder mandates aided the survival or caused the demise of their institutions? How have house museums' collections or buildings evolved over time? Must museums reinterpret their collections to remain relevant to contemporary and diverse audiences? In seeking to answer these questions, the volume's authors share the unique stories behind the creation and evolution of these fascinating institutions and the intriguing stories of the exceptional individuals who founded them

Although Americans have shown interest in Italian Baroque art since the eighteenth century Thomas Jefferson bought copies of works by Salvator Rosa and Guido Reni for his art gallery at Monticello and the seventeenth century Bolognese school was admired by painters Benjamin West and John Singleton Copley a widespread appetite for it only took hold in the early to mid twentieth century Buying Baroque tells this history through the personalities involved and the culture of collecting in the United States The distinguished contributors to this volume examine the dealers auction houses and commercial galleries that provided access to Baroque paintings as well as the collectors curators and museum directors who acquired and shaped American perceptions about these works including Charles Eliot Norton John W Ringling A Everett Austin Jr and Samuel H Kress These essays explore aesthetic trends and influences to show why Americans developed an increasingly sophisticated taste for Baroque art between the late eighteenth century and the 1920s and they trace the fervent peak of interest during the 1950s and 1960s A wide ranging in depth look at the collecting of seventeenth and eighteenth century Italian paintings in America this volume sheds new light on the cultural conditions that led collectors to value Baroque art and the significant effects of their efforts on America s greatest museums and galleries In addition to the editor contributors include Andrea Bayer Virginia Brilliant Andria Derstine Marco Grassi Ian Kennedy J Patrice Marandel Pablo Prez d Ors Richard E Spear and Eric M Zafran Ringling John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art, Mitchell Merling, Mitchell Frank Merling, 2002

Stanford White Wayne Craven, 2005-05-18 The designer of such landmarks as the Washington Square Arch the New York Herald and Tiffany Buildings and the homes of captains of American industry Stanford White is a legendary figure in the history of American architecture Yet while the exteriors and floor plans of his designs have been extensively studied and written about no book has fully examined the other aspect of his career which claimed at least half of his time and creativity Wayne Craven s work offers the first study of Stanford White as an interior decorator and a dealer in antiques and the fine arts Craven also offers a vivid portrait of the sweeping social and cultural changes taking place in the United States in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries He places White s work as an interior decorator within the context of the lives and society of the nouveaux riches who built unprecedented fortunes during the Industrial Revolution Rejecting the dominant middle class tastes and values of the United States the Whitneys Vanderbilts Astors Paynes Mackays and other wealthy New York families saw themselves as the new aristocracy and desired the prestige and trappings accorded to Old World nobility Stanford White fulfilled their hunger for aristocratic recognition by adorning their glamorous Fifth Avenue mansions and Long Island estates with the sculptures stained glass windows coats of arms and carved fireplaces of the European past Interior decorators such as White did more than just buy single pieces for these families They purchased entire rooms from palazzos chateaux villas nunneries and country houses had them dismantled and shipped both furnishings and architectural elements to their American clients Through Stanford White s activities Craven uncovers the mostly but not always legal business of dealing in antiquities as American money entered and changed the European art market Based on the archives of the Avery Architectural Library of Columbia University and the New York Historical Society this book recovers a neglected

yet significant part of White's career which lasted from the 1870s to his murder in 1906 White not only set the bar for twentieth century architecture but also defined the newly emerging profession of interior design

Gilded Mansions Wayne Craven, 2009 The Gilded Age 1865-1918 saw the sudden rise of America's first High Society including such prominent families as the Astors, Whitneys and Vanderbilts As an aristocracy based on fortunes recently acquired these families endeavored to live like Europe's blue blooded nobility shedding Puritan restraint as they joyously flaunted their new wealth especially where their homes were concerned They erected French chateaus and Italian palazzos on New York's Fifth Avenue at Newport and elsewhere often taking inspiration from Parisian styles of the Second Empire They rejected more modest American styles just as they rejected middle class society and for interior decoration they turned to such artisans as Tiffany, Herter Brothers and Allard's of Paris Immensely readable and illuminated with 250 stunning color and black and white illustrations this is the fascinating story of America's first millionaire society the way they lived and partied and the lush artistic and cultural legacy they established
