European Cinema An Introduction:

European Cinema Jill Forbes, Sarah Street, 2017-03-05 The survival of cinema in Europe and the analysis of its heritage are key issues for the new century This book asks how we can define European cinema and how it should be studied It provides an overview of the problems traditions and key questions that have informed the study of European cinema investigating the links and tensions between Europe and Hollywood and exploring the different experiences of national identities within a common European framework Twelve case studies of individual European films ranging from The Battleship Potemkin and The Lodger to La Haine and Trainspotting illustrate the distinctiveness and variety of cinema in Europe as well as the various critical methods by which it can be studied With its detailed analysis of films from several European countries including Britain and Russia the book encourages a comparative approach and raises urgent questions about the future of European cinema in the context of globalization It will be of interest to students in Film Studies European Studies and Modern European Languages and Cultures

European Cinema Jill Forbes, Sarah Street, 2000 This book is a highly original introduction to the study of European cinema Following a wide ranging first part which asks whether European cinema exists and if so what its aesthetic political and economic characteristics might be the book offers a series of fascinating and informative case studies of films from the major European film producing countries including Britain and Russia

European Cinema Thomas Elsaesser, 2005 European Cinema in Crisis examines the conflicting terminologies that have dominated the discussion of the future of European film making It takes a fresh look at the ideological agendas from avant-garde cinema to the high low culture debate and the fate of popular European cinema

European Cinema in the Twenty-First Century Ingrid Lewis, Laura Canning, 2020-05-23 This book rethinks the study of European Cinema in a way that centres on students and their needs in a comprehensive volume introducing undergraduates to the main discourses directions and genres of twenty first century European film Importantly this collection is the first of its kind to apply a transversal approach to European Cinema bringing together the East and the West while providing a broad picture of key trends aesthetics genres national identities and transnational concerns Lewis and Canning's collection effectively addresses some of the most pressing questions in contemporary European film such as ecology migration industry identity disability memory auteurship genre small cinemas and the national and international frameworks which underpin them Combining accessible original research with a thorough grounding in recent histories and contexts each chapter includes key definitions reflective group questions and a summative case study Overall this book makes a strong contribution to our understanding of recent European Cinema making it an invaluable resource for lecturers and students across a variety of film centred modules

The Europeanness of European Cinema Mary Harrod, Mariana Liz, Alissa Timoshkina, 2014-12-19 From The Artist to The White Ribbon from Oscar to Palme d'Or winning productions European filmmaking is more prominent world wide than ever before This book identifies the distinctive character of European cinema both in films and as a critical concept asking what place does European cinema have in an increasingly globalized world Including in depth analyses of production and reception contexts as well as original readings of key European films from leading experts in the field it re negotiates traditional categories such as auteurism art cinema and national cinemas As the first publication to explore Europeanness in cinema this book refocuses and updates historically significant areas of study in relation to this term Leading scholars in European cinema including Thomas Elsaesser Tim Bergfelder Anne Jackel Lucy Mazdon and Ginette Vincendeau acknowledge the transnational character of European filmmaking whilst also exploring the oppositions between European and Hollywood filmmaking considering the value of the European label in the circulation of films within and beyond the continent The Europeanness of European Cinema makes a lively timely intervention in the fields of European and transnational film studies The Routledge Companion to European Cinema Gábor Gergely, Susan Hayward, 2021-12-29 Presenting new and diverse scholarship this wide ranging collection of 43 original chapters asks what European cinema tells us about Europe The book engages with European cinema that attends to questions of European colonial racialized and gendered power seeks to decentre Europe itself not merely its putative centres and interrogate Europe's various conceptualizations from a variety of viewpoints It explores the broad complex and heterogeneous communities produced in and by European films taking in Kurdish Hollywood and Singapore cinema as comfortably as the cinema of Poland Spanish colonial films or the European gangster genre Chapters cover numerous topics including individual films film movements filmmakers stars scholarship representations and identities audiences production practices genres and more all analysed in their contexts so as to construct an image of Europe as it emerges from Europe's film corpus The Companion opens the study of European cinema to a broad readership and is ideal for students and scholars in film European studies queer studies and cultural studies as well as historians with an interest in audio visual culture nationalism and transnationalism and those working in language based area studies European Cinema after the Wall Leen Engelen, Kris Van Heuckelom, 2013-11-21 Since the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 transnational European cinema has risen not only in terms of production but also in terms of a growing focus on multiethnic themes within the European context This shift from national to trans European filmmaking has been profoundly influenced by such historical developments as the collapse of the Iron Curtain and the subsequent ongoing enlargement of the European Union In European Cinema after the Wall Screening East West Mobility Leen Engelen and Kris Van Heuckelom have brought together essays that critically examine representations of post 1989 migration from the former Eastern Bloc to Western Europe uncovering an array of common tropes and narrative devices that characterize the influences and portrayals of immigration Featuring essays by contributors from backgrounds as divergent as film studies Slavic and Russian studies comparative literature sociology contemporary history and communication and media studies this volume will appeal to scholars of film European history and those interested in the impact of migration diaspora and the global flow of cinematic culture The European Cinema Reader Catherine Fowler, 2002 This comprehensive introduction to national cinemas in Europe brings together classic writings by key filmmakers such as Sergei Eisenstein Luis Buñuel and John Grierson and critics from André Bazin to Peter Wollen

Fatih Akin's Cinema and the New Sound of Europe Berna Gueneli, 2019-01-09 In Fatih Akin's Cinema and the New Sound of Europe Berna Gueneli explores the transnational works of acclaimed Turkish German filmmaker and auteur Fatih Akin The first minority director in Germany to receive numerous national and international awards Akin makes films that are informed by Europe's past provide cinematic imaginations about its present and future and engage with public discourses on minorities and migration in Europe through his treatment and representation of a diverse multiethnic and multilingual European citizenry Through detailed analyses of some of Akin's key works In July Head On and The Edge of Heaven among others Gueneli identifies Akin's unique stylistic use of multivalent sonic and visual components and multinational characters She argues that the soundscapes of Akin's films including music and multiple languages dialects and accents create an aesthetic of heterogeneity that envisions an expanded and integrated Europe and highlights the political nature of Akin's decisions regarding casting settings and audio At a time when belonging and identity in Europe is complicated by questions of race ethnicity religion and citizenship Gueneli demonstrates how Akin's aesthetics intersect with politics to reshape notions of Europe European cinema and cinematic history

European Film Theory Temenuga Trifonova, 2009-09-10 European Film Theory explores the Europeanness of European film theory its philosophical origins the culture wars between Continental and Analytical film theory and philosophy the major discursive and epistemological shifts in the history of Continental film theory the relationship between Continental philosophy of art and philosophy of history and European film theory Writing from a range of disciplines and perspectives the contributors to this new volume in the AFI FILM READERS series offer fresh interpretations of European film theorists and illuminate the political potential of European film theory

European Film Theory and Cinema Ian Aitken, 2001-08 European Film Theory and Cinema explores the major film theories and movements within European cinema since the early 1900s An original and critically astute study it considers film theory within the context of the intellectual climate of the last two centuries Ian Aitken focuses particularly on the two major traditions that dominate European film theory and cinema the intuitionist modernist and realist tradition and the post Saussurian tradition The first originates in a philosophical lineage that encompasses German idealist philosophy romanticism phenomenology and the Frankfurt School Early intuitionist modernist film culture and later theories and practices of cinematic realism are shown to be part of one continuous tradition The post Saussurian tradition includes semiotics structuralism and post structuralism

European Cinema after 1989 L. Rivi, 2007-12-09 The book examines cinema in post 1989 Europe by looking at how the new post Cold War cinematographic co productions articulate the political and cultural objectives of a new Europe as they redefine a European identity

Politics, Art and Commitment in the East European Cinema D.W. Paul, 1983-06-18 Cultural Studies Approaches in the Study of Eastern European Cinema Andrea Virginás, 2017-01-06 The spatial the bodily and the memory turn in the humanities and cultural studies are well canonized developments. These features of our being in the world are fundamental in the medium of cinema which is an art of spaces, bodies and memories increasingly so today when the analogue platform has been running parallel with the digitalized method of filmmaking. The three nodal concepts define the tripartite structure of this volume composed of an overview study and twelve case studies of post 1989 Eastern European film and cinema. The overarching questions of space representation and construction, bodies on screen, issues of national identification in a postcolonial framework and cinema as a form of cultural memory are explored through the lens of specific national cinemas or contemporary Croatian, Hungarian, Polish, Serbian, Slovakian, Slovenian and Romanian films. In addition to investigating the cohesive forces that mark the postcommunist Eastern European region as a coherent cultural entity in its cinematic representations, the volume also stands as a witness to the importance of transnational approaches. East European Cinemas Anikó Imre, 2005-09-14. Eastern Europe has produced rich and varied film cultures: Czech, Hungarian and Serbian among them, whose histories have been intimately tied to the transition from Soviet domination to the complexities of post-Communist life. This latest volume in the AFI Film Readers series presents a long overdue reassessment of East European cinemas from theoretical, psychoanalytic and gender perspectives, moving the subject beyond the traditional area studies approach to the region's films. This ambitious collection situating Eastern Europe's many cinemas within global paradigms of film study will be an essential work for all students of cinema and for anyone interested in the relation of film to culture and society. The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema Temenuga Trifonova, 2020-07-09.

The Figure of the Migrant in Contemporary European Cinema explores contemporary debates around the concepts of Europe and European identity through an examination of recent European films dealing with various aspects of globalization: the refugee crisis, labour migration, the resurgence of nationalism and ethnic violence, neoliberalism, post-colonialism, with a particular attention to the figure of the migrant and the ways in which this figure challenges us to rethink Europe and its core Enlightenment values: citizenship, justice, ethics, liberty, tolerance and hospitality in a post-national context of ephemerality, volatility and contingency that finds people desperately looking for firmer markers of identity. The book argues that a compelling case can be made for re-orienting the study of contemporary European cinema around the figure of the migrant, viewed both as a symbolic figure representing post-national citizenship, urbanization, the gap between ethics and justice, and as a figure occupying an increasingly central place in European cinema in general, rather than only in what is usually called migrant and diasporic cinema. By drawing attention to the structural and affective affinities between the experience of migrants and non-migrants, Europeans and non-Europeans, Trifonova shows that it is becoming increasingly difficult to separate stories about migration from stories about life under neoliberalism in general. The Holy Fool in European Cinema Alina G. Birzache, 2016-02-05. This monograph explores the way that the profile and the critical functions of the holy fool have developed in European cinema, allowing this traditional figure to capture the imagination of new generations in an age of religious pluralism and secularization Alina Birzache traces the cultural origins of the figure of the holy fool across a variety of European traditions In so doing she examines the critical functions of the holy fool as well as how filmmakers have used the figure to respond to and critique aspects of the modern world Using a comparative approach this study for the first time offers a comprehensive explanation of the enduring appeal of this protean and fascinating cinematic character Birzache examines the trope of holy foolishness in Soviet and post Soviet cinema French cinema and Danish cinema corresponding broadly to and permitting analysis of the three main orientations in European Christianity Orthodox Catholic and Protestant This study will be of keen interest to scholars of religion and film European cinema and comparative religion

European Cinema in Motion D. Berghahn,C. Sternberg,2010-08-10 This collection brings together international experts on the cinema of migration and diaspora in postcolonial and postnational Europe It offers a comprehensive theoretical and analytical discussion of a highly productive creative sector and documents the spectrum of this area of exploration in European transnational and World Cinema studies
