The Long Morning of Medieval Europe Jennifer R. Davis, 2016-12-05 Recent advances in research show that the distinctive features of high medieval civilization began developing centuries earlier than previously thought The era once dismissed as a Dark Age now turns out to have been the long morning of the medieval millennium the centuries from AD 500 to 1000 witnessed the dawn of developments that were to shape Europe for centuries to come In 2004 historians art historians archaeologists and literary specialists from Europe and North America convened at Harvard University for an interdisciplinary conference exploring new directions in the study of that long morning of medieval Europe the early Middle Ages Invited to think about what seemed to each the most exciting new ways of investigating the early development of western European civilization this impressive group of international scholars produced a wide ranging discussion of innovative types of research that define tomorrow's field today The contributors many of whom rarely publish in English test approaches extending from using ancient DNA to deducing cultural patterns signified by thousands of medieval manuscripts of saints' lives They examine the archaeology of slave labor economic systems disease history transformations of piety the experience of power and property exquisite literary sophistication and the construction of the meaning of palace spaces or images of the divinity The book illustrates in an approachable style the vitality of research into the early Middle Ages and the signal contributions of that era to the future development of western civilization The chapters cluster around new approaches to five key themes the early medieval economy early medieval holiness representation and reality in early medieval literary art practices of power in an early medieval empire and the intellectuality of early medieval art and architecture Michael McCormick's brief introductions open each part of the volume synthetic essays by accomplished specialists conclude them The editors summarize the whole in a synoptic introduction All Latin terms and citations and other foreign language quotations are translated making this work accessible even to undergraduates The Long Morning of Medieval Europe New Directions in Early Medieval Studies presents innovative research across the wide spectrum of study of the early Middle Ages It exemplifies the promising questions and methodologies at play in the field today and the directions that beckon tomorrow

This book offers a new critical history of the idea of Europe from classical antiquity to the present day Early European Civilization Roscoe Lewis Ashley, 1919

Discourses and Counter-discourses on Europe Manuela Ceretta, Barbara Curli, 2017-01-12

The European Union plays an increasingly central role in global relations from migration to trade to institutional financial solvency The formation and continuation of these relations their narratives and discourses are rooted in social political and economic historical relations emerging at the founding of European states and then substantially augmented in the Post WWII era Any rethinking of our European narratives requires a contextualized analysis of the formation of hegemonic discourses The book contributes to the ongoing process of rethinking the European project identity and institutions brought about by the end of the Cold war and the current economic and political crisis Starting from the principle that the present European crisis goes hand in hand with the crisis of its hegemonic discourse the aim of the volume is to rescue the complexity the richness the ambiguity of the discourses on Europe as opposed to the present simplification The multidisciplinary approach and the long term perspective permits illuminating scope over multiple discourses historical periods and different languages including that of the European institutions This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of European Union politics European integration European History and more broadly international relations
