

HER DIARY

Through her self-portraits, Frida Kahlo fearlessly portrayed the physical and emotional trauma she experienced. Though Frida's work often depicted her wounds as well as artistic interpretations of her lived experiences of physical pain, Frida still held firm control over what she would reveal of her health condition to audiences.

Covering the last ten years of her life, from 1944 to 1954, Frida's diary is artistically distinct from her self-portraits. It blends sketches, letters and personal reflections, alongside a heavy influence of Mexican symbolism and iconography, as she puts down her deepest emotions. Frida's diary possesses an unfiltered expression of her inner thoughts, offering an intimate narrative she did not often reveal publicly.
