Revivals: Defence Industries (1988) Daniel Todd,2018-02-01 Originally published in 1989 Defence Industries presents a worldwide survey of defence industries It argues that modern weapon systems and electronic warfare have led to the transition of the military industrial enterprise into a multifaceted entity where electronics production is the key It analyses the extent of defence industries showing that large portions of the aerospace shipbuilding motor vehicle and electronics industries are devoted to defence and discusses where the defence industries are located It examines the differences in government policies contrasting the superpowers with newly industrialised countries      The Economics of Offsets Stephen Martin,2014-07-16 Despite their growth outlined and analysed in this book the claims and counter claims that surround offsets have not been subjected to critical scrutiny by economists This book fills that gap It brings together a team of internationally renowned specialists to document and evaluate the economic impact of several countries offset policies In addition the papers by industrialists and defence officials yield further insights which help to tease out which of the claims made for offsets do not stand critical scrutiny      The Administration of Defence Policy in Canada, 1947 to 1985

Douglas Bland,1987      The Embattled General William F. Stewart,2015-11-01 Lieutenant General Sir Richard Turner 1871 1961 was a capable but controversial Canadian general who played a critical role in the development of the Canadian Corps up to 1917 and contributed significantly to its success thereafter Despite his many accomplishments including being awarded the Victoria Cross Turner is often portrayed as a political appointee and repeated failure representations that ignore minimize or misconstrue his successes as a combat commander and head of Canadian forces in England In The Embattled General William Stewart reveals Turner s tactical operational and administrative contributions to the Canadian war effort Uniquely Turner held senior commands in both combat arms and administration Stewart narrates and analyzes Turner s successes and failures in the Boer War and the First World War s battles of Ypres Festubert St Eloi and the Somme He also studies Turner s career after his transfer to command Canadian forces in England in December 1916 where Turner reformed an administration in chaos After the war Turner post war played a key role in the formation of the Royal Canadian Legion Based on exhaustive research from over 1 200 volumes of material including many previously untouched sources The Embattled General provides a balanced and just re evaluation of Turner identifying his merits as well as his flaws      Asleep at the Switch Bruce Smardon, 2014-11-01 Since 1960 Canadian industry has lagged behind other advanced capitalist economies in its level of commitment to research and development Asleep at the Switch explains the reasons for this underperformance despite a series of federal measures to spur technological innovation in Canada Bruce Smardon argues that the underlying issue in Canada's longstanding failure to innovate is structural and can be traced to the rapid diffusion of American Fordist practices into the manufacturing sector of the early twentieth century Under the influence of Fordism Canadian industry came to depend heavily on outside sources of new technology particularly from the United States Though this initially brought in substantial foreign capital and led to rapid economic development the resulting branch plant industrial structure led to the prioritization of business interests over transformative and innovative industrial strategies This situation was exacerbated in the early 1960s by the Glassco framework which assumed that the best way for the federal state to foster domestic technological capacity was to fund private sector research and collaborative strategies with private capital Remarkably and with few results federal programs and measures continued to emphasize a market oriented approach Asleep at the Switch details the ongoing attempts by the federal government to increase the level of innovation in Canadian industry but shows why these efforts have failed to alter the pattern of technological dependency Canadian Security and
