States of An

IN CON
The unanimous Declaration
When in the course

When in the house of human society, it became our duty to appear and speak for a subject which the laws of God had borne down upon the oppressed.

CONGRESS, July 4, 1776

Unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such Principles and organizing its Powers in such form, as shall seem to them to be most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, in this and in every other case, wisely prescribes that when the existing Forms of Government are found to be inadequate to the ends of the People, a reform in the Government is the duty of the People.

We the Representatives of the thirteen united States of America, do hereby declare, that the United States of America, are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connections between them and Great Britain, are and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as a free and independent State, they have full power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, enter into Commercials, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do.

In Witness whereof, the Representatives of the United States of America, have hereunto set their hands and seals, the day and year above written.
