How History Began:

How History Works Martin L. Davies, 2015-09-16 How History Works assesses the social function of academic knowledge in the humanities exemplified by history and offers a critique of the validity of historical knowledge The book focusses on history's academic disciplinary ethos to offer a reconception of the discipline of history arguing that it is an existential liability if critical analysis reveals the sense that history offers to the world to be illusory what stops historical scholarship from becoming a disguise for pessimism or nihilism History is routinely invoked in all kinds of cultural political economic psychological situations to provide a reliable account or justification of what is happening Moreover it addresses a world already receptive to comprehensive historical explanations since everyone has some knowledge of history everyone can be manipulated by it This book analyses the relationship between specialized knowledge and everyday experience taking phenomenology Husserl and pragmatism James as methodological guides It is informed by a wide literature sceptical of the sense academic historical expertise produces and of the work history does represented by thinkers such as Schopenhauer Nietzsche Valéry Anders and Cioran How History Works discusses how history makes sense of the world even if what happens is senseless arguing that behind the smoke screen of historical scholarship looms a chaotic world dynamic indifferent to human existence It is valuable reading for anyone interested in historiography and historical theory A History of New York, from the Beginning of the World to the End of the Dutch Dynasty Diedrich Knickerbocker, 2024-08-25 Reprint of the original first published in 1840 A Short History of Early Peoples to 1500 A. D. Willis Mason West, 1922 On Deep History and the Brain Daniel Lord Smail, 2007-11-15 When does history begin What characterizes it This brilliant and beautifully written book dissolves the logic of a beginning based on writing civilization or historical consciousness and offers a model for a history that escapes the continuing grip of the Judeo Christian time frame Daniel Lord Smail argues that in the wake of the Decade of the Brain and the best selling historical work of scientists like Jared Diamond the time has come for fundamentally new ways of thinking about our past He shows how recent work in evolution and paleohistory makes it possible to join the deep past with the recent past and abandon once and for all the idea of prehistory Making an enormous literature accessible to the general reader he lays out a bold new case for bringing neuroscience and neurobiology into the realm of history The History of Scepticism Richard H. Popkin, 2003-03-20 This is a thoroughly revised and expanded edition of Richard Popkin's classic The History of Scepticism first published in 1960 revised in 1979 and since translated into numerous foreign languages This authoritative work of historical scholarship has been revised throughout including new material on the introduction of ancient skepticism into Renaissance Europe the role of Savonarola and his disciples in bringing Sextus Empiricus to the attention of European thinkers and new material on Henry More Blaise Pascal Thomas Hobbes Baruch Spinoza Nicolas Malebranche G W Leibniz Simon Foucher and Pierre Daniel Huet and Pierre Bayle The bibliography has also been updated Toward the Visualization of History Mark Howard Moss, 2008-01-01 This book discusses the impact of visuals on the study of history by examining visual culture and the future of print providing an analysis of photography film television and computer culture The author shows how the visualization of history can become a driving social and cultural force for change History and Precedent in Environmental Design Anatol Rapoport,2013-06-29 This book is about a new and different way of approaching and studying the history of the built environment and the use of historical precedents in design However although what I am proposing is new for what is currently called architectural history both my approach and even my conclusions are not that new in other fields as I discovered when I attempted to find supporting evidence In fact of all the disciplines dealing with various aspects of the study of the past architectural history seems to have changed least in the ways I am advocating There is currently a revival of interest in the history of architecture and urban form a similar interest applies to theory vernacular design and culture environment relations After years of neglect the study of history and the use of historical precedent are again becoming important However that interest has not led to new approaches to the subject nor have its bases been examined This I try to do In so doing I discuss a more rigorous and I would argue a more valid way of looking at historical data and hence of using such data in a theory of the built environment and as precedent in environmental design Underlying this is my view of Environment Behavior Studies CEBS as an emerging theory rather than as data to help design based on current theory Although this will be the subject of another book a summary statement of this position may be useful Lost Worlds Jonathan Dewald,2007-08-09 Today s interest in social history and private life is often seen as a twentieth century innovation Most often Lucien Febvre and the Annales school in France are credited with making social history a widely accepted way for historians to approach the past In Lost Worlds historian Jonathan Dewald shows that we need to look back further in time into the nineteenth century when numerous French intellectuals developed many of the key concepts that historians employ today According to Dewald we need to view Febvre and other Annales historians as participants in an ongoing cultural debate over the shape and meanings of French history rather than as inventors of new topics of study He closely examines the work of Charles Augustin Sainte Beuve Hippolyte Taine the antiquarian Alfred Franklin Febvre himself the twentieth century historian Philippe Ari s and several others A final chapter compares specifically French approaches to social history with those of German historians between 1930 and 1970 Through such close readings Dewald looks beyond programmatic statements of historians intentions to reveal how history was actually practiced during these years A bold work of intellectual history Lost Worlds sheds much needed light on how contemporary ideas about the historian s task came into being Understanding this larger context enables us to appreciate the ideological functions performed by historical writing through the twentieth century
