Language contact Rik van Gijn,Hanna Ruch,MAx Wahlström,Anja Hasse,2023-09-28 Contact linguistics is the overarching term for a highly diversified field with branches that connect to such widely divergent areas as historical linguistics typology sociolinguistics psycholinguistics and grammatical theory Because of this diversification there is a risk of fragmentation and lack of interaction between the different subbranches of contact linguistics Nevertheless the different approaches share the general goal of accounting for the results of interacting linguistic systems This common goal opens up possibilities for active communication cooperation and coordination between the different branches of contact linguistics This book therefore explores the extent to which contact linguistics can be viewed as a coherent field and whether the advances achieved in a particular subfield can be translated to others In this way our aim is to encourage a boundary free discussion between different types of specialists of contact linguistics and to stimulate cross pollination between them

Shared Grammaticalization Martine Irma Robbeets,Hubert Cuyckens,2013 This book offers fresh perspectives on shared grammaticalization a state whereby two or more languages have the source and the target of a grammaticalization process in common While contact induced grammaticalization has generated great interest in recent years far less attention has been paid to other factors that may give rise to shared grammaticalization This book intends to put this situation right by approaching shared grammaticalization from an integrated perspective including areal as well as genealogical and universal motivations and by searching for ways to distinguish between these factors The volume offers a wealth of empirical facts presented by internationally renowned specialists on the Transeurasian languages i e Japonic Koreanic Tungusic Mongolic and Turkic the languages in focus as well as on various other languages Shared Grammaticalization will appeal to scholars and advanced students concerned with linguistic reconstruction language contact and linguistic typology and to anyone interested in grammaticalization theory Multilingual Individuals and Multilingual Societies Kurt Braunmüller,Christoph Gabriel,2012-08-22 The 25 contributions of this volume represent a selection from the more than 120 papers originally presented at the International Conference on Multilingual Individuals and Multilingual Societies MIMS held in Hamburg October 2010 and organized by the Collaborative Research Center Multilingualism after twelve years of successful research It presents a panorama of contemporary research in multilingualism covering three fields of investigation 1 the simultaneous and successive acquisition of more than one language including language attrition in multilingual settings 2 historical aspects of multilingualism and variance and 3 multilingual communication The papers cover a vast variety of linguistic phenomena including morphology syntax segmental and prosodic phonology as well as discourse production and language use taking both individual and societal aspects of multilingualism into account The languages addressed include numerous Romance Slavic and Germanic varieties as well as Welsh Hungarian Turkish and several South African autochthonous languages Language Contact and Linguistic Aspects of Bilingualism Longxing Wei,2024-07-24 This book consolidates earlier insights and proposes a model of contact linguistics and an innovative approach to the study of bilingualism It explores the nature of major language contact phenomena especially lexical borrowing mixed languages bilingual lexical and grammatical processing and representations second language acquisition codeswitching and interlanguage It examines the universal principles governing grammatical structures of languages in contact and differentiates the lexical and grammatical features of morphemes as outcomes of language contact The proposed approach describes and explains some outstanding linguistic aspects of bilingualism with a focus on the mechanisms of the bilingual mind during bilingual processing and production at several levels of abstract lexical structure Abundant naturally occurring examples support the claim that the languages in contact are never equally activated and that language specific abstract entries in the bilingual mental lexicon are in contact resulting in mutual influence during codeswitching second language learning and interlanguage development Slavic on the Language Map of Europe Andrii Danylenko,Motoki Nomachi,2019-10-08 Conceptually the volume focuses on the relationship of the three key notions that essentially triggered the inception and subsequent realization of this project to wit language contact grammaticalization and areal grouping Fully concentrated on the areal typological and historical dimensions of Slavic the volume offers new insights into a number of theoretical issues including language contact grammaticalization mechanisms of borrowing the relationship between areal genetic and typological sampling conservative features versus innovation and socio linguistic aspects of linguistic alliances conceived of both synchronically and diachronically The volume integrates new approaches towards the areal typological profiling of Slavic as a member of several linguistic areas within Europe including SAE the Balkan Sprachbund and Central European groupings s like the Danubian or Carpathian areas as well as the Carpathian Balkan linguistic macroarea Some of the chapters focus on structural affinities between Slavic and other European languages that arose as a result of either grammatical replication or borrowing A special emphasis is placed on contact induced grammaticalization in Slavic micro languages
