

Analyse, review compare and comment on the features used in advertisements.

In the world of retail, it is crucial for companies to advertise their products to promote customer awareness and persuade consumers to purchase them. Manufacturers are competing to persuade the consumer to buy their goods over a rival's. To do this, they employ many subtle tactics to persuade consumers that by buying their product will somehow enhance their lives, e.g. by making them happier, more beautiful and even more desirable.

In this essay, I will choose three advertisements from a magazine, which are all aimed at teenagers. I will analyse the ways in which they appeal to their target audience, before deciding which I think is the most effective.

The first advertisement I will analyse is for 'Exaggerate Hydra Colour Lipstick' from Rimmel. The images and language that are used give an impression of strength, vibrancy and even violence. The picture shows Kate Moss tilting her head moodily to reveal a symbol, resembling graffiti, drawn on her cheek in lipstick. The Exaggerate Hydra colour lipstick is a dark, bold plum and is pasted over her lips, and a sullen and defiant expression covers her face. She wears a jagged-edged, black, lacy top. The theme of arrogance and hostility is shown in the language also, as the words used to describe the product are all linked with violence. Across the model's chin are the words: "MOISTURE HIT", and at the bottom of the page are the words: "Smack your lips with moisture that saturates, and colour that overflows. Hit them with it." The repetition of words like 'hit' and 'smack' add to the impact of the advertisement, meaning that teenage girls are more likely to remember it, and buy the product. The choice of 'violent' words, and the short, simple sentences make the advertisement more persuasive; the phrase 'MOISTURE HIT' is more eye-catching and memorable than a longer, less powerful phrase like: 'Lovely new moisturising lipstick', for example. The Rimmel slogan is in the form of an instruction: "GET IT ON", ordering girls to apply Rimmel make-up. It is a command, so the reader feels compelled to do it. The violent wording and graffiti-like symbol appeal to a streetwise, self confident, teenage girl.

discusses numerous practical issues that confront today's researchers and practitioners views the phenomenon of writing portfolios through a variety of broadview lenses such as teacher enthusiasm student reflection assessment tension the portfolio as metaphor and the locus of control conveys important conceptual issues with a balance toward pragmatics and offers unique insights from the perspective of one individual who serves as scholar researcher and teacher Intelligent Tutoring Systems Vincent Aleven, Judy Kay, Jack Mostow, 2010-05-29 The 10th International Conference on Intelligent Tutoring Systems ITS 2010 continued the bi annual series of top flight international conferences on the use of advanced educational technologies that are adaptive to users or groups of users These highly interdisciplinary conferences bring together researchers in the learning sciences computer science cognitive or educational psychology cognitive science artificial intelligence machine learning and linguistics The theme of the ITS 2010 conference was Bridges to Learning a theme that connects the scientific content of the conference and the geography of Pittsburgh the host city The conference addressed the use of advanced technologies as bridges for learners and facilitators of robust learning outcomes We received a total of 186 submissions from 26 countries on 5 continents Australia Brazil Canada China Estonia France Georgia Germany Greece India Italy Japan Korea Mexico The Netherlands New Zealand Pakistan Philippines Saudi Arabia Singapore Slovakia Spain Thailand Turkey the UK and USA We accepted 61 full papers 38% and 58 short papers The diversity of the field is reflected in the range of topics represented by the papers submitted selected by the authors Enhancing Teaching and Learning through Assessment Steve Frankland, 2007-10-17 Assessment is the daily life of a teacher designing plans setting questions giving feedback and grading are all activities that teachers undertake on a regular basis Yet the close examination of such activities can be hindered by constraints caused by the context in which different teaching and learning activities occur and an unawareness of the effect that assessment has on the students themselves This book provides a practical guide on the effective use of assessment It includes the use of assessment tools and pedagogical design that help students deepen their learning Major issues on assessment and some excellent examples are presented as a useful resource to university teachers in enhancing teaching and students learning It will also be found useful by teachers when implementing various assessment methods School administrators and teaching development professionals will find the book useful when making decisions related to learning and teaching issues in their institutions Lesson Study-based Teacher Education Jongsung Kim, Nariakira Yoshida, Shotaro Iwata, Hiromi Kawaguchi, 2021-05-26 The philosophy of Lesson Study in Japan teacher ownership teacher professionalism student learning focused dialogue teacher collaboration and teacher professional community has attracted educators and researchers worldwide However Lesson Study does not have the same meaning as its original Japanese expression Jugyoku Kenkyuu a combination of two Japanese words Jugyoku meaning instruction or lesson and Kenkyuu meaning study or research To bridge the gap between Jugyoku Kenkyuu and Lesson Study and therefore maximize the potential of Lesson Study in the world this edited volume provides two mirrors for those who wish to reflect on and implement Lesson Study within their own contexts One section discusses how Lesson Study is utilized in Japanese teacher education and how this system reproduces the very culture of Lesson Study The other section addresses case studies showcasing Lesson Study implementation in several countries such as the United States Germany Norway Peru and Uganda and discusses the opportunities and challenges that arise when Lesson Study based teacher education expands beyond Japan to the rest of the world This book will appeal to anyone interested in learning about Lesson Study OECD Reviews of Evaluation and Assessment in Education: Albania Maghnouj Soumaya, Fordham Elizabeth, Guthrie Caitlyn, Henderson Kirsteen, Trujillo Daniel, 2020-05-07 This review developed in co operation with UNICEF provides Albania with recommendations to help strengthen its evaluation and assessment system to focus on support for student learning It will be of interest to Albania as well as other countries looking to make more effective use of their evaluation and assessment system to improve quality and equity and result in better outcomes for all students International handbook of teachers and teaching Bruce J. Biddle, Thomas L. Godd, Ivor F. Goodson, 1997 Topic and Comment Development in EFL Compositions Kaarina Mäkinen, 1995 Yhteenveto Assessing Accomplished Teaching National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, Committee on Evaluation of Teacher Certification by the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards, 2008-09-04 The mission of the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards NBPTS is to establish high and rigorous standards for what teachers should know and be able to do to certify teachers who meet those standards and to advance other education reforms for the purpose of improving student learning in American schools In response to a request from the U S Congress the National Research Council developed a framework for evaluating programs that award advanced level teacher certification and applied that framework in an evaluation of the impacts of the NBPTS Specifically this book addresses the impacts on students teachers and the educational system in this country Assessing Accomplished Teaching finds that teachers who earn board certification are more effective at improving their students achievement than other teachers but school systems vary greatly in the extent to which they recognize and make use of board certified teachers Many of the questions on the evaluation framework could not be answered because the data have not been collected and the report makes recommendations for the kinds of research that are needed to fully evaluate the impacts of board certification by the NBPTS Reconstructing Response to Student Writing Dan Melzer, 2023-08-07 In Reconstructing Response to Student Writing Dan Melzer makes the argument that writing instructors should shift the construct so that peer response and student self assessment are more central than teacher response Presenting the results of a national study of teacher and peer response and student self assessment at institutions of higher education across the United States Melzer analyzes teacher and peer response to over 1 000 pieces of student writing as well as 128 student portfolio reflection essays He draws on his analysis and on a comprehensive review of the literature on response to introduce a constructivist heuristic for response aimed at both composition instructors and instructors across disciplines Melzer argues that teachers and researchers should focus less on teacher response to individual pieces of student writing and more on engaging in dialogue with student self assessment and peer response focusing on growth and transfer rather than products and grades Reconstructing Response to Student Writing especially when taken together with Melzer s previous book Assignments across the Curriculum provides a comprehensive and large scale view of college writing and responding across the curriculum in the United States
