people in the visual arts community to discuss the development of the region's creative life and environment whether it be through architecture and city planning or through the industrial and fine arts. They shared their views and knowledge about how regionalism has long influenced artistic productivity. Their exchanges and ideas for the future are provocative and thoughtful. Richly illustrated with the work of well-known Cleveland area artists and architects past and present, Creative Essence explores the region's tradition beginning with the Cleveland School of artists that was active and influential during the first half of the twentieth century. It moves on to examine the changes that occurred in the last half of the century and the development of the visual arts in northeast Ohio. Creative Essence is an important resource for understanding the significant role the visual arts play in our cities and societies and how they contribute to the region's quality of life. For those interested in regional history and for students of art history and the visual arts, this will be especially valuable. Architecture in Indianapolis James A. Glass, 2024-10-15 As a planned community, Indianapolis boasted finished frame and brick buildings from its beginning. Architects and builders drew on Federal, Greek Revival, Italianate, French Second Empire, Gothic, Romanesque, and Italian Renaissance styles for commercial, industrial, public, and religious buildings and for residences. In Architecture in Indianapolis 1820-1900, preservationist and architectural historian Dr. James Glass explores the rich variety of architecture that appeared during the city's first 80 years to 1900. Glass explains how economic forces shaped building cycles such as the Canal Era, the advent of railroads, the natural gas boom, and repeated recessions and recoveries. He describes 243 buildings that illustrate the styles that architects and builders incorporated into the designs that they devised in each era between 1820 and 1900. This book also documents the loss of distinctive 19th-century architecture that has occurred in Indianapolis. It includes 373 photographs and drawings that depict the buildings described and locator maps that show where concentrations of buildings were constructed. Architecture in Indianapolis 1820-1900 provides the first history of 19th-century architecture in the city and will serve as an indispensable reference for decades to come. Encyclopedia of Bohemian and Czech-American Biography Miloslav Rechcigl Jr., 2016-11-10 As the Czech ambassador to the United States, H. E. Petr Gandalovic noted in his foreword to this book that M. J. Rechcigl has written a monumental work representing a culmination of his life achievement as a historian of Czech America. The Encyclopedia of Bohemian and Czech-American Biography is a unique and unparalleled publication. The enormity of this undertaking is reflected in the fact that it covers a universe starting a few decades after the discovery of the New World through the escapades and significant contributions of Bohemian Jesuits and Moravian brethren in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, the mass migration of the Czechs after the revolutionary year of 1848 and up to the early years of the twentieth century and the influx of refugees from Nazism and communism. The encyclopedia has been planned as a representative, a comprehensive and authoritative reference tool encompassing over 7,500 biographies. This prodigious and unparalleled encyclopedic vade mecum reflecting enduring contributions of notable Americans with Czech roots is not only an invaluable tool for all researchers and students of Czech

American history but is also a carte blanche for the Czech Republic which considers Czech Americans as their own and as a part of its magnificent cultural history Architectural Progress ,1928 Encyclopedia of American Art Before 1914 Jane Turner,2000 This alphabetically arranged volume covers all the major artistic developments in the USA from the Colonial period until 1914 with the start of World War I Design Resources Lawrence Von Bamford,1984
