Healing Without Forgetting:

Forget Them Not Joanne M. Hemenway, 2010-07-09 To witness effectively and powerfully to Christian testimonies of care and compassion of justice and mercy of healing and wholeness it is necessary to foster awareness of the realities of the present system of retributive justice if there is to be any hope of transformation to a system of justice which is restorative Forget Them Not provides a history of the prison system as a means of punishment contrasting it with the relatively recent but growing practice of restorative justice Joanne Hemenway explores the concept of disconnection as radical evil as a separation from God who is the source of our being and shows how our present approach to punishment fosters this evil The present system with its motif of retributive justice generates shame rejection and loneliness which stokes the fires of anger and rage This breeds deep disconnection which only serves to fuel further cycles of violence Hemenway presents three vignettes designed to help explore forgiveness in the context of both retributive and restorative justice To promote healing and connection Forget Them Not introduces compassionate witnessing in prison ministry as a way to develop awareness and empowerment review Accelerated Resolution Therapy Eric Sanderson, Accelerated Resolution Therapy ART is a groundbreaking approach in the field of mental health specifically designed to treat trauma and stress related conditions with remarkable speed and precision Emerging in the early 2000s ART blends principles from several established therapies most notably cognitive behavioral therapy eye movement desensitization and guided imagery into a streamlined highly structured protocol What sets ART apart is its focus on rapid relief without requiring clients to speak in detail about their trauma making it particularly valuable for those who find verbal processing difficult or retraumatizing At the heart of ART is the concept of memory reconsolidation a neurological process where emotional memories can be changed or updated through specific interventions ART facilitates this by guiding clients to recall distressing images while simultaneously using bilateral eye movements These movements orchestrated by the therapist help desensitize the emotional intensity of the memory and allow the client to replace it with a more positive or neutral image This technique known as Voluntary Image Replacement VIR allows individuals to retain the factual elements of their memory while removing its emotional sting Another critical aspect of ART is its structured protocol which typically unfolds over just one to five sessions Clients are first guided through relaxation techniques and grounding exercises to prepare for trauma processing Then the therapist helps the individual access and visualize the disturbing event Unlike traditional talk therapy ART does not dwell on the content of the trauma but instead focuses on how it is encoded and how it can be reimagined The final stage of the session involves reinforcement where the client's new imagery is strengthened and stabilized Continent ,1925 When Love Is Not Enough CGB,2025-04-21
