Iris Trilogy:

The Iris Trilogy John Bayley, 2003 Wry intelligent and at times unexpectedly hilarious The Iris Trilogy is an unforgettable inquiry into the nature of love and identity and a uniquely moving articulation of loss The Iris Trilogy: Memoirs of Iris Murdoch John Bayley, 2020-11-12 Dame Iris Murdoch 1919-1999 was one of the greatest British novelists and philosophers of the twentieth century She read philosophy at Oxford where she met and later married John Bayley a literary critic and fellow novelist So began a forty year intense and unconventional but happy marriage detailed in the classic bestselling memoir Iris Despite Iris extramarital affairs with men and women throughout their long marriage which John always suspected their bond was unbreakable and his memoir beautifully captures their child like moments of bliss walking in forests swimming together in streams and sharing hot cups of coffee on crisp mornings These are touching but poignant stories with the knowledge that Iris and her grand intellect would eventually succumb to Alzheimer's disease John would care for her singlehandedly for five years the last of which he writes about in Iris and the Friends that also describes her peaceful passing Finally he reflects on his bereavement and the void that is left when a soulmate departs in A Widower's House All three books are told by the person who knew Iris best with gentle humour at times unbearably moving in his portrayal of a remarkable woman The Poetics and Politics of Alzheimer's Disease Life-Writing Martina Zimmermann, 2017-06-07

This book is open access under a CC BY 4.0 license This is the first book length exploration of the thoughts and experiences expressed by dementia patients in published narratives over the last thirty years It contrasts third person caregiver and first person patient accounts from different languages and a range of media focusing on the poetical and political questions these narratives raise what images do narrators appropriate what narrative plot do they adapt and how do they draw on established strategies of life writing It also analyses how these accounts engage with the culturally dominant Alzheimer's narrative that centres on dependence and vulnerability and addresses how they relate to discourses of gender and aging Linking literary scholarship to the medico scientific understanding of dementia as a neurodegenerative condition this book argues that first patients articulations must be made central to dementia discourse and second committed alleviation of caregiver burden through social support systems and altered healthcare policies requires significantly altered views about aging dementia and Alzheimer's patients Thinking Critically About Law Amy R Codling, 2025-06-02

You arrive at university to embark upon your journey to think like a lawyer but is simply knowing the law enough to gain you the best marks What do you need to do exactly to achieve a first class law degree and promising professional career For top marks what do your lecturers mean when they say you need to deepen your critical analysis to answer assessment questions When should you put your own viewpoints forward When and how should you draw upon the work of others What do your examiners mean when they give you feedback saying that your work is too descriptive This book explores what it means to think critically and offers practical tips and advice for students to develop the process skill and ability of thinking critically

while studying law as well as beyond that in the workplace The second edition of Thinking Critically About Law utilises art music poetry and prose to explore essential questions about studying law and what it means to think critically offering practical tips and advice for students looking to develop critical thinking skills in relation to law Updates reflect seismic changes that have taken place both in law teaching and in society more generally These include the Covid 19 pandemic social movements sparked by the murders of Sarah Everard and George Floyd moves to decolonise the law curriculum and the introduction of the SQE qualification There is also an innovative foreword by Professor Russell Sandberg a new chapter on the topic of how to think critically during discussions a new section on Thinking Critically About Law in the Future as well as a renewed emphasis on the health and well being of students Other student focused resources will be available as support materials Thinking Critically about Law is a crucial companion for those studying law at A Level and undergraduate level as well as being relevant to postgraduate students newly qualified lawyers and tutors of law

The Experience of Expatriate English Language Teaching David B. Wilson, 2025-05-24 This is a unique applied linguistic study which demonstrates that the history of TEFLers is very different from the history of TEFL Instead of studying theories of language learning and teaching it explores the experience of being a TEFLer through the ages using a wide range of fictional and fictive sources novels plays biographies memoirs essays and poems Part One considers the present and recent past through an analysis of 15 fictional works and five memoirs Part Two is concerned with the experiences of some historical iconic figures from the world of TEFL beginning with the sixteenth century and ending with figures associated with the British Council and International House Along the way one meets Victorian governesses Berlitz teachers and literary figures from the inter War Golden Age of travel Interposed are some of the experiences of the author garnered during his long and varied career as an expatriate TEFLer

Full of Character Frances Ward, 2019-03-21 Engaging with current philosophers and thinkers this book questions the roots to our human condition It considers the wisdom that traditional Christianity can bring to a Western culture preoccupied with post truth individualism and utilitarian methods of thinking The desire for a fulfilling life is a common motivation to people regardless of religious faith or non faith To be full of character joyful thoughtful resourceful and truthful we need habits of the heart This book will explore the ways in which we can imagine our humanity differently and find happiness as a direct result of becoming full of character

Iris John Bayley, 2012-07-19 In 1998 John Bayley wrote a best selling critically acclaimed memoir of his wife the great philosopher and novelist Iris Murdoch who had been suffering from Alzheimer s disease since 1996 At times unbearably moving at times poignantly comical this memoir provides a fitting memorial to Dame Iris It is an enchanting portrait of a remarkable marriage and an inspiration for anyone whose life is affected by Alzheimer s changing cultural understandings of dementia and alzheimer s disease in scientific and cultural texts across the 20th Century Reading a range of texts from the US UK Europe and Japan the book examines how the language of dementia regarding the loss of identity loss of agency loss of self and life is rooted in scientific discourse and expressed in popular and literary texts Following changing scientific understandings of dementia the book also demonstrates how cultural expressions of the experience and dementia have fed back into the way medical institutions have treated dementia patients The book includes a glossary of scientific terms for non specialist readers English Anna Wierzbicka,2006-04-27 It is widely accepted that English is the first truly global language and lingua franca Anna Wierzbicka the distinguished linguist known for her theories of semantics has written the first book that connects the English language with what she terms Anglo culture Wierzbicka points out that language and culture are not just interconnected but inseparable She uses original research to investigate the universe of meaning within the English language both grammar and vocabulary and places it in historical and geographical perspective This engrossing and fascinating work of scholarship should appeal not only to linguists and others concerned with language and culture but the large group of scholars studying English and English as a second language Relational Integrative Psychotherapy Linda Finlay,2015-12-14 Designed specifically for the needs of trainees and newly qualified therapists Relational Integrative Psychotherapy outlines a form of therapy that prioritizes the client and allows for diverse techniques to be integrated within a strong therapeutic relationship Provides an evidence based introduction to the processes and theory of relational integrative psychotherapy in practice Presents innovative ideas that draw from a variety of traditions including cognitive existential phenomenological gestalt psychoanalytic systems theory and transactional analysis Includes case studies footnotes theory into practice boxes and discussion of competing and complementary theoretical frameworks Written by an internationally acclaimed speaker and author who is also an active practitioner of relational integrative psychotherapy Iris and the Friends John Bayley,1999 The last month or so of the life of Iris Bayley the wife of the author provides the framework for this biography But within this structure the author enters into extensive memories of the past The book could almost be called The Use of Memory in a Proustian sense It continually harks back to the author s own childhood and to Iris s early years to explain how they came together and how they were right for each other So in this book the author explains much more about himself and describes in much more details how he managed to cope with the ordeal of seeing his wife become terminally ill and lose her faculties In this he quotes a considerable amount from literature which is his own field of study Inscription, Diagnosis, Deception and the Mental Health Industry Craig Newnes,2016-04-30 The Psy complex governs us all by inscribing diagnosing and interfering in our lives This volume takes historical sociological and psychological perspectives in exploring the complicity of patients professions and governments with Psy and attempts by all three to constrain the industry s activities Women's Narratives of Ageing and Care Emily Jeremiah,Shirley Jordan,2025-03-03 Care is fundamental to human survival yet it is often overlooked undermined

undervalued and thought of as women's work Care of the old is particularly low in status and is too readily occluded This volume asks why and how cultures of care for older people are negatively configured It examines some of the powerful responses to relationships of intergenerational care in recent creative works by women It thereby contributes to the contemporary imperative to transform care by investigating some of the ways in which care might be redefined and reconceptualized Taking as its focus the representation or narrativization of care in theory literature visual culture and performance it engages with contemporary female authored works from diverse cultural contexts encouraging the development of comparative cross cultural perspectives Narrative is key here for it is in stories about ageing and care that the complexities and ambiguities of care relationships are made available and that simplified ideas about them are challenged This volume will be of interest to scholars in literary and cultural studies gender studies critical age studies the medical and health humanities and all who are interested in care

Beyond Loss Lars-Christer Hydén, Hilde Lindemann, Jens Brockmeier, 2014 Coming to terms with dementia is one of the great challenges of our time This volume of new interdisciplinary essays by internationally established scholars offers new ways of understanding and dealing with it It explores views of dementia that go beyond the idea of loss and rather envisions it as multilayered transformation and change of personhood and identity and as development that mostly is socially shared with others The studies collected here identify new empirical theoretical and methodological areas that will be crucial to future research and clinical practice concerned with age related dementia Three general themes are singled out as of particular importance and interest persons and personhood identity and agency and the social and the communal

Giant Creatures in Our World Camille D.G. Mustachio, Jason Barr, 2017-10-11 Dismissed as camp by critics but revered by fans the kaiju or strange creature film has become an iconic element of both Japanese and American pop culture From homage to parody to advertising references to Godzilla and to a lesser extent Gamera Rodan Ultraman and others abound in entertainment media Godzilla in particular is so ubiquitous his name is synonymous with immensity and destruction In this collection of new essays contributors examine kaiju representations in a range of contexts and attempt to define this at times ambiguous genre

Narrating Experiences of Alzheimer's Through the Arts Ana Paula Barbosa-Fohrmann, 2023-05-09 While Alzheimer's might be associated with a difficulty to express oneself Ana Paula Barbosa-Fohrmann addresses this topic by examining experiences with Alzheimer's based on narratives In this original contribution she studies the nexus of life stories subjectivity fragmentation and fiction The philosophical basis of this research is phenomenology from the end of the 19th century to the middle of the 20th century specifically that of Husserl and above all that of Merleau-Ponty This work also draws on Proust's and Camus literature as well as Beckett's dramaturgy

Treatments Lisa Diedrich, Creative expression inspired by disease has been criticized as a celebration of victimhood unmediated personal experience or just simply bad art Despite debate however memoirs written about illness particularly AIDS or cancer have proliferated since the late twentieth century and occupy a highly influential place on the cultural landscape today In Treatments Lisa Diedrich considers illness narratives demonstrating that these texts not only recount and interpret symptoms but also describe illness as an event that reflects wider cultural contexts including race gender class and sexuality Diedrich begins this theoretically rigorous analysis by offering examples of midcentury memoirs of tuberculosis She then looks at Susan Sontag's Illness As Metaphor Audre Lorde's The Cancer Journals and Eve Kosofsky Sedgwick's White Glasses showing how these breast cancer survivors draw on feminist health practices of the 1970s and also anticipate the figure that would appear in the wake of the AIDS crisis in the 1980s the politicized patient She further reveals how narratives written by doctors Abraham Verghese and Rafael Campo about treating people with AIDS can disrupt the doctor patient hierarchy and she explores practices of witnessing that emerge in writing by Paul Monette and John Bayley Through these records of intensely personal yet universal experience Diedrich demonstrates how language both captures and fails to capture these scenes of loss and how illness narratives affect the literary medical and cultural contexts from which they arise Finally by examining the ways in which the sick speak and are spoken for she argues for an ethics of failure the revaluation of loss as creating new possibilities for how we live and die Lisa Diedrich is assistant professor of women's studies at Stony Brook University The Literature Book DK, 2016-05-26
